SECOND MURDER

In One Family Marks Feud Feeling in Webster County Since First of Year.

First of Year.

A CERTAIN young woman who had been given a chance to make in a very hig position, lost this chance recently.

And the reason, as expressed by her employers, who, by the very disciplination of its second victim, and considerable fear is entertained that further violence may take place. Curt Hamrick, who was shot to death last February, is the second victim. He was murdered by Norman Holcomb, who was arrested and is in Jail here.

It appears there has been ill feeling for some time, which was focused a few days ago when Curt Hamrick and Holcomb engaged in a flat fight. This was followed by the fatal meeting. Holcomb alleging Hamrick hurled a rock through a window at him. He secured his shot gun and fired two charges into the neck of his victim, who ded instantly. His body will be buried at Sutton.

Whenever her employers criticised her, she always fought back. Instead of being grateful to them for giving time and energy to try to make her a successful business woman, she was angry and resentful at every criticism. Instead of profities by their suggestions and corrections, she always tried to justify herself.

Now, to try to vindicate one's self when one knows that a criticism is undentably unjust, is right and reasonable, but always to fight to justify one's self, no matter what the criticism, is decidedly the opposite. And yet there are a great many employes—and others—who always adopt this latter course. Even when they know in their hearts that they have made mistakes, they try to prove otherwise to those who criticise them.
