LAMARAS COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CLUB MEMBERS LIST

PLATFORM AND NOMINEES OF THE TURNER HALL CONVENTION SATURDAY—MCDOWELL OVADED.

Gatesville, Texas, August 21.—Hon. E. A. McDowell, the democratic nominee for attorney general, returned from the Houston convention on the 2 o'clock train yesterday. He held an informal reception in the parlors of the Atkinson hotel, and during the rest of the evening a continuous stream of the loyal democrats of Coryell called on him and offered him their congratulations and their promise to support the regular ticket in November.

At 8 p. m. the crowd began to pour into the large courtroom, which was soon filled to overflowing with fair ladies. The judge's stand was artistically decorated with evergreens and all kinds of flowers, while just to the left on the wall behind was the picture of Mr. McDowell, life-size, painted when he had just graduated with honors at the Mississippi college.

At the time named a committee led by J. R. Saunders, Uncle Eli Wood, B. M. Stone and other old settlers appeared, escorting Mr. McDowell, and this was the signal for tremendous applause. On motion of R. L. Suggs, Col. Sam J. Mings was called to the chair and explained the object of the meeting and amid applause introduced Mr. McDowell to the large audience as a man who was never found in the rear when any question of importance was agitating the minds of the people.

Mr. McDowell thanked the people for their presence on this occasion and proceeded in his own inimitable way to give a history of the convention at Houston, going into details and telling how the split came about. He charged that the Hogg convention adopted the majority report of their platform committee in order to conciliate the People's party men and to catch their vote.

Mr. M. S. Duffie, on behalf of his lady friends, presented Mr. McDowell with a beautiful bouquet of flowers in an appropriate speech conveying to Mr. McDowell the sincere friendship and admiration of his country women.

Resolved by the Democrats of Gatesville and Coryell county, in mass-meeting assembled, that we hereby ratify the action of our delegates to the State convention and recognize the platform adopted by the democratic convention held at Turner hall in Houston as following the principles advocated by Jefferson and Jackson and hereby pledge ourselves to work for the ticket under the leadership of Geo. Clark until the election, on Nov. 2.

Resolved, That we hereby express our approval and gratification at the nomination of the Hon. E. A. McDowell for attorney general and hereby assure the citizens of Texas, that he is every way qualified to fill the position for which he has been nominated, and if elected will discharge the duties devolving upon him for the best interest of the State, having for his guide the constitution and statute laws of Texas.

State Executive Committee, regretting his inability to be present and congratulating Mr. McDowell on his nomination, urging all true Democrats to rally to his support. After a musical selection by the King orchestra many in the house rushed forward and grasped the hand of Mr. McDowell, offering him their congratulations and best wishes for his success.

Times-Democrat's Specials. On the morning after the Sullivan-Corbett glove fight The Times-Democrat published what is conceded to be the best and fullest account of such a contest ever written in this or any other country. It filled thirty-two and one-half columns of the paper (between 50,000 and 60,000 words), and covered every detail of the match and contest.

Some controversy having arisen as to which paper furnished its readers in this section with the first news of the Sullivan-Corbett fight, The Times-Democrat has been at some pains to collect the information at the various stations along the Illinois Central and Louisville and Nashville roads. This information is not news to the people living along those roads, who were the beneficiaries of the enterprise.

Magnolia, Miss., Sept. 24.—Frank Conery, of McComb City, has been arrested and placed in the county jail, charged with the murder of John Johnson, who was lynched by a mob for the supposed murder of Archie Colquhoun, several months ago.

New Branch Road. St. Helena Echo: Reports reached the town on Monday last that a force of men had been put to work at Tangipahoa by the I. C. officials surveying and staking out a line of railroad from Tangipahoa to Clinton.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—The leaders in the movement for greater independence among the colored voters have determined upon an active campaign between this and the November elections, and Editor Christy of the World, whose paper has been made the official organ of the Colored Men's Protective Association, will take charge of the work in this State.

Various Items

Weaver has left the South. Cleveland has issued his letter of acceptance. Democratic straight. Sam Jones says a man will fight for his home, but he won't fight for his boarding-house.

The Maine and Vermont elections did not demonstrate Blaine's and Reed's enthusiasm. On the contrary quite the reverse.—Ex. The Republicans have not quite made up their minds as to the exact significance of the appearance of Senator D. B. Hill in the campaign.

Florence, Ala., Sept. 24.—Miss Jennie Carlin, of Greenville, Mich., is a pupil of the Southern Female University here, as a protegee of Grover Cleveland. Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 22.—A message from Kentucky received here to-day says that Gov. Engle is rapidly gaining in flesh but not in strength, but is doing well.

Milan, Tenn., Sept. 24.—An audience of 4,000 people from three counties gathered at McKenzie today to hear the grand Democratic truths preached by Robert L. Taylor and Gus. Euloe. Lexington, Ky., Sept. 24.—Bud Doble has wired Mike Bowerman that he will not trot Nancy Hanks against Moquette, the four year old champion stallion, for any sum, nor will he match Nancy against any other horse.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 23.—Gen. John B. Weaver, Third party candidate for the presidency, brought his Georgia campaign to an end today by cancelling all his Southern dates. He does this on the ground that there is no free speech in the South.

New York, Sept. 22.—A Washington special says that Gen. Benj. F. Butler has written a letter to Commander-in-Chief Palmer, in which he complains grievously because he was not permitted to lead his old command, the Sixth Massachusetts, in the big Grand Army parade.

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 25.—Hon. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for Vice Pres. arrived in Roanoke to-night from Danville. He was met at the station by several hundred people, but owing to the fact of its being Sunday, no demonstration was made.

Turin, Sept. 22.—Replying to an invitation to allow his sons to represent him at the unveiling of a memorial in the church at Talica, in which he was christened, Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, has written that he would never set his foot in Hungary as long as it recognizes the Emperor of Austria as its King.

The lawyers of the Department of Justice are trying to find some law under which immigration may be stopped, at least until Congress can get an opportunity to say what shall be done to protect the people of this country from the cholera. It is believed that Congress will be asked, upon the suggestion of medical experts, either to pass a bill prohibiting immigration for a stated period, or to authorize the President to do so.

Our Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23, 1892. Distinguished democrats were in attendance upon the National encampment of the G. A. R. which closed to-day, both as participants and as onlookers, and there is reason to believe that it was largely their presence which prevented the republican managers attempting to openly carry out the program previously arranged to use the encampment in making a partisan demonstration against Mr. Cleveland. Secretly they did what they could by distributing a pamphlet attacking Mr. Cleveland and by talking against him.

There were, of course, other things that interfered with the republican program. Mr. Harrison did not arrive here until Wednesday, and then the very serious condition of Mrs. Harrison, who came back with him, kept him almost constantly at her side; the death of a brother of Gov. McKinley kept him away from the encampment, and Whitelaw Reid, probably thinking that if he made himself conspicuous at the encampment it might cause the republication of some very bitter attacks published in his paper upon the pension system under its present management and do much more harm than his presence here could possibly do good.

The encampment was unquestionably a great success, and the parade the biggest thing of the kind the country has ever seen, or probably ever will see. The day was perfect and there were more than 80,000 men in line exclusive of bands and drum corps, while the crowds that thronged every available foot of space between the Capitol and twenty-second street is variously estimated as having been anywhere between 400,000 and 500,000 people.

This immense crowd was well cared for by the Washington people, who were glad to show the country how well and how easily the city could care for a large crowd. There was no extortion, and, so far as known, with the exception of a few hundred old soldiers who brought their wives here under the impression that free board and lodging would be furnished them during the encampment, being misled, it is charged, by over-thriftly railroad passenger agents anxious to sell as many tickets as possible, every visitor went home well pleased with their treatment at the National Capital.

One of the queerest things about the big parade was that a man who had only a few years ago occupied the White House for four years and drawn salary as President of the United States, could have marched on foot with a small Ohio post over the entire line of march without exciting any further remark or demonstration than an occasional "Hallo! there's Hayes," from some Washington or Ohio man, while Ben Butler, riding in a carriage, should be constantly raising his hat in response to cheers. Mr. Hayes is not a great man, but he is so much better than Ben Butler that his name should not be mentioned in the same paragraph.

The republicans are becoming very much alarmed over the state of their end of the campaign, which is practically without a head since the dangerous turn in his wife's illness has taken all of Mr. Harrison's attention. From the beginning of his canvass for a second nomination Mr. Harrison has been in sole command, and as he has not designated anyone to take his place since he began to devote his time entirely to his sick wife, the machine is beginning to wobble dreadfully.

Mr. A. G. Porter, who resigned as minister to Italy by direction of his chief, for the purpose of managing the republican campaign in Indiana, is in Washington, presumably to receive his final orders.

The Force Bill

The Clarion: To weaken the bond between the South and Democracy, to turn the people to the shallow and shifty schemes in which they would be leaders, the Southern anti-democrats desire the tariff as a sham, the force bill as a Democratic scarecrow. Their game is somewhat unsettled by the President's letter of acceptance, as to the force bill. And now The Clarion invites perusal of the following extreme utterance of Mr. Harrison's capital organ; the Washington D. C. Republican.

With the Lodge national election law in full force over the South and various Democratic strongholds up North, we may confidently look for a different state of political affairs than now exists. New York city will then return several more Republican Congressmen than at present, while more than twenty negro representatives from the South will render the Republican control of the future Congress absolutely safe and secure.

Heavy taxes should be laid upon the property of the whites to develop and extend the public school system of those States. Separate schools for the two races should be abolished, and the plan of bringing the youth of both colors into close and equal relation in school and churches given a fair trial, as one of the most potent elements to break down the detestable burbonism of the South.
