SAYS OYSTERS WILL PROMOTE HEALTH

Pure Food Expert of U. S. Department of Agriculture Climbs Oysters Are Often More Pure Than Milk.

BY DR. CARL L. ALSBERG.

As a general proposition, it is fair to state that people run less risk of contracting typhoid fever from oysters than they do from drinking raw milk or the water supplied in many communities.

The great bulk of the oysters sold are wholesome. The number of oyster beds where pollution is even possible is relatively small. Although I cannot give the oyster an absolutely clean bill of health, I can say that the prejudice against them is out of all proportions.

The truth is that because in very rare cases oysters from polluted beds have caused sickness and because in many cases local authorities have sought to escape responsibility for polluted water or milk supply by placing the blame upon wholly innocent and silent oysters, the people are more and more shunning this really valuable food.

Of course, as people eat less oysters, they eat more meat, possibly more expensive meat. And the more meat is eaten the greater the demand and the higher the price.

Oyster Pie. Line a deep pie-plate with rich puff paste. Fill this with bread crumbs (to be removed later). Fit on a top crust buttered about the edge, on the under side, that it may easily be removed. Bake in hot oven a golden brown.

Stew one quart of oysters for five minutes. Stir very slowly one cup of white sauce. Salt to taste, dash of pepper and the well-beaten yolks of two eggs. Remove top crust and fill pie crust with oyster mixture. Replace top crust and set in oven for five minutes before serving.

Broiled Oysters. Wash shells and lay oysters on grid-iron or broiler iron. Put under hot gas flame or over bed of red coals. As soon as each oyster drops bit of butter and dust of pepper in each shell and serve at once.

Panned Oysters. Wash one pint of oysters in cold water. Drain and wipe dry. Have skillet very hot. Put in oysters. Shake about until the edges curl. Put on hot platter. Add butter, salt and pepper and serve with watercress sandwiches.

Oyster Cocktail. Wash and wipe dry oysters allowing six or seven for each serving. Be sure they are very cold. When ready to serve put in cocktail glass. On each put one-half teaspoon of horseradish, one teaspoon of catsup, and pepper to taste, and a teaspoon of lemon juice. Serve at once with round crackers.

Pigs in a Blanket. Select fine large oysters and let them drain. Turn each one over in fine cracker crumbs and wrap about it a thin slice of bacon. Fasten securely with a wooden toothpick. Have kettle of deep fat as for frying doughnuts. Place oysters in the bacon blankets in wire basket and fry about five minutes, or until oysters are puffed and bacon is crisp.

Panned Oysters in Individual Dishes. Cover the bottom of small casserole or nappie used for shirring eggs with a slice of toasted bread cut to fit the bottom (use cookie cutter). Moisten with a little milk mixed with a little liquor from the oysters. Put layer of oysters on the toast. Sprinkle lightly with salt, pepper and half dozen bits of butter. Set pans in hot oven, and cook until oysters "ruffie". Bake once or twice with milk. Serve in dish in which they are cooked. Garnish with slices of lemon covered with minced parsley.

STOLEN KISS PROVES COSTLY ONE FOR MIKE Gets Fresh With Fiancee After "Getting the Mitten" and Lands in Police Court.

Mike induced Helen to divorce her former husband and elope with him to Michigan, but there she learned that he was the father of two children and had a wife in Hungary. She came back to South Bend followed by Mike, who got away with a kiss last week and his arrest came next.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OFFERS CO-OPERATION

Promising cooperation in an examination of the mercantile buildings of South Bend with respect to fire prevention, the Chamber of Commerce has sent a letter to Gus A. Wise, secretary of the Indiana Prevention Club, Indianapolis, inviting the club to this city.

The letter suggests that the inspection be made on March 4 and 5. The subject was presented to the attention of directors of the chamber several weeks ago when a member of the State Fire association addressed a meeting of the board.
