

BEST LAXATIVE FOR CHILDREN

When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of babyhood.

The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant tasting and acts gently, but surely, without griping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

WILL KEEP BODY FOR A FEW DAYS

Father and Son at Last Moment Decide Against Interment—Simplicity Marks the Funeral Services.

NEW YORK, March 15.—John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., decided at the last moment Sunday they could not commit the body of wife and mother to the tomb at present.

All arrangements had been made for temporary interment in the vault of John D. Archbold in Sleepy Hollow cemetery. It was decided Sunday night at the mansion that no arrangements had been made for the interment.

When all was ready the father and son tearfully pleaded to be allowed to keep the body as long as possible. "We were not here when she passed away," said the elder Mr. Rockefeller in broken tones. "We want to have her with us until the last moment."

Their wishes were respected and the body will remain in the palatial home at Pocantico Hills probably for several days. It was stated Sunday night at the mansion that no arrangements had been made for the interment.

The same simplicity that was the dominating feature of her entire life marked the funeral services for Mrs. Rockefeller.

Sixty friends of the family were at the services. Mr. Rockefeller, his face tear-stained and trembling with emotion, took his place in the library with the others as did his son. Their grief was pitiable.

A quartet from the Fifth Avenue Baptist church rendered the following hymns, all favorites of Mrs. Rockefeller: "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Oh, Thou That Will Not Let Me Go," "Sands of Time Are Sinking," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Now the Day is Over."

The great pipe organ in the home was the only accompaniment. There were two violin solos by Richard Arnold.

The Rev. Dr. Cornelius Wolfkin, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, of which Mrs. Rockefeller was a member, read a scripture lesson, after which he spoke in tender words for the departed.

STEAMER IS TORPEDOED

Auguste-Conseil Was Bound to Rouen With Coal Cargo.

LONDON, March 15.—A dispatch from Bordeaux says: "The steamship Auguste-Conseil from Rouen with a cargo of coal, was torpedoed by the submarine U-29 off Start point near the southern extremity of Devon on Thursday afternoon. HIBERNIANS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Ireland's Important Part in the Affairs of the World Are Related By Speakers—Helped Build This Country.

Ireland's important part in the affairs of the world, the loyalty of her people to their country and faith and the virtues of the sons and daughters of the Emerald Isle were praised by the speakers at the 30th annual St. Patrick's banquet held at the Oliver hotel last night by the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Sketches of the trials and tribulations which the people of Ireland have endured for centuries and the manner in which they have borne their burdens with the predictions for a brighter future composed the greater part of the addresses. The principal speakers included Rev. M. J. Walsh, vice president of Notre Dame university, P. H. O'Donnell of Chicago, and Rev. John F. DeGroote, C. S. C., of St. Patrick's parish. Rev. Patrick J. Carroll, C. S. C., of St. Joseph's Catholic church, acted as toastmaster. Preceding the addresses dinner was served to 200 guests in the main dining room of the hotel which had been decorated in green for the occasion. Lapel shamrocks were presented as favors and the menu included various Irish foods.

"Ireland's Prayer" was the subject of the address by Father Walsh who told the striking story of the Irish race and some of its accomplishments. He portrayed the sufferings which were undergone by the people of the Emerald Isle during their prosecution by the British government and the manner in which they held to their faith through all their difficulties.

Tells of Contribution to America.

That the Irish race has contributed much to the stability of America was the contention of the speaker who named distinguished sons from the little island who have become famous by their deeds and actions on this country. Father Walsh related the names of Irishmen who contributed to the constitution of the United States, signed the Declaration of Independence, fought the battles for liberty from the bonds of England and took important parts in strengthening this nation in its infancy. He showed that the Irish have been foremost in all matters of state and religion and in closing expressed the fervent hope that Ireland had passed its last sorrow.

The faith of the Irish and its effect upon the standard of citizenship which resulted from Catholicism was the principal topic of Mr. O'Donnell's address. This nation is a Christian nation asserted the speaker and as the Irish are a Christian people, trained from infancy to obey, to know punishment for violation of religious principles, and to regard authority, these sons of the Emerald Isle are therefore good citizens as they know obedience to law.

Father DeGroote took as his subject "Irish Mothers." His address was a beautiful tribute to the women who rear Irish children. He said that these women raise their children for service to God and their faith, this being the predominant purpose when training their offspring.

One of the pretty features of the program was the folk dances given by eight children from the Assumption school under the direction of Prof. E. Mann. Arthur Carmody entertained with a violin solo while Miss Rosie Beckerle recited "The Irish Exiles' Farewell." Prof. John Drury and Master Edmund Luther gave vocal solos while the Misses Guioyle closed the program with instrumental selections.

CONCENTRATION OF WEALTH A CURSE

Results Are Being Seen in the United States, Says Rev. Henry L. Davis—Influences Politics, Press and Pulpit.

Corrupted politicians, a cringing pulpit and a venal press were declared to be some of the results of the great concentration of wealth in the United States at the present time, by Rev. H. L. Davis in his Sunday sermon at the First M. E. church. "If wealth has its perils," he said, "then there is no land beneath the sun where so many are walking the slippery pathway than in our own America. And if the greater the wealth the greater the temptation, then we behold among us temptation at its worst, for here we see wealth at its highest."

"We have today more national wealth than any two European nations combined. The imperial Chinese commissioner, a few years ago in conversation with a prominent political economist of America, declared that New York city had collected from its then 4,000,000 population more revenue than the Chinese empire had collected from its 400,000,000. Fourteen hundred of our American millionaires are residents of New York city."

"Whereas cometh this enormous wealth? Not from labor—none would deny for example that the Chinese people work. They are literal slaves. Yet they know nothing of values like ours. Our values have come from our marvelous natural resources, lands, mines, forests, rivers. It has been developed by our great civilization where once our demands were few and simple, they are now multiplied and complex."

Invention Creates Wealth. "In supplying this demand the nation has become wealthy. Invention has made easy the creation of the products which answer to this demand. We are conserving even our waste products. Once cotton seed was a waste and a nuisance; today cotton seed produces $70,000,000 annually in value. Thus we see some of the sources of our great wealth, wealth that would stagger the Caesars and make Croesus green with envy."

"We come now to the perils of great wealth, the first of which is that of concentration. Wealth in the field and mine does no harm, nor much good for that matter. Wealth in human hands only is a power for weal or for woe. Wealth distributed among the many is harmless, but it becomes powerful and dangerous when concentrated in single hands. The first and greatest peril today is that of concentrated wealth. Less than 25,000 people possess today more than half of our country's wealth. One per cent of the families of America own more than the remaining 99 per cent. The enormous wealth controlled by great corporations as a rule is directed by a very few men.

"But what danger, or harm can come from such wealth in the hands of a few men? Simply this. If in the hands of evil and selfish men it will clog up those springs which alone can keep the channels of our national life pure, the press, the political forum and the pulpit. Who will deny but that in many instances we have had a venal press, corrupted politicians and a cringing pulpit."

"The second great peril of extreme wealth is its enervating power to the individual and family life. As a rule it is not so enervating to the one who has gotten it together, but to his heirs and assigns. The first thought of the rich man whose barns were full and his harvests bountiful was 'soul take thine ease.'"

Some Extravagance.

"An elaborate dinner is held in New York where cigars were rolled in $100 bills; another gives a dinner costing $250 a plate and still another gives a banquet for a dog, whereas he places a $15,000 diamond collar which almost makes one feel that he wishes he had been born a dog instead of a man. One New York woman boasted that she was first to give a cat a pair of diamond earrings."

"In the same city we find such extravagance as a $10,000 cradle, $1,000 hat pin, $75,000 opera glasses, $50,000 piano, $250,000 string of pearls and a $600,000 necklace. Who wonders at social unrest. Who is startled when we are told that the socialist vote went from 2,000 in 1888 to 898,000 in 1912."

"Finally, it is a personal peril. If we are to believe the scriptures, what we pay for material things is an element of salvation. Here the story of the scripture was used to show that the man who bought a yoke of oxen and a piece of land and paid too dearly for them. Anything that we gain dishonestly or in its possession we have harmed our fellow men or in its seeking or holding we wrong our own souls is a peril fraught with not only temporal but eternal interests."

DIXIE FLYER IS WRECKED

Steel Cars Again Prove to Be Real Life Savers.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 15.—The Dixie Flyer, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois steel equipped train, Chicago to Jacksonville, Fla., left the track at Shelby, 20 miles south of Terre Haute, at 4 o'clock Sunday morning and though four cars were turned over and scattered along the main street over which runs the right of way, the occupants escaped with slight injuries because the steel structures kept shape though wrenched from the trucks.

Charles Baldwin, the engineer, was crushed to death under his engine which ran 600 feet on the ties after leaving the rails at a faulty frog.

ALMOST CRAZY WITH ITCHING AND BURNING

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 26, 1915.—

"My face and body were a solid mass of little sores which itched and burned me so badly that I almost went crazy. They started in the form of little pimples which opened and formed sores. I could not sleep at night and at work if I became overheated it would itch something terrible. I used all kinds of soaps, salves and prescriptions that did me no good. I had this skin trouble for a year or more before I used Resinol. As soon as I started using Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap the itching and burning stopped at once and in five weeks my face and body were as clear and soft as could be. I used only two jars of Resinol Ointment and three cakes of Resinol Soap."

"A friend of mine had a bad case of skin trouble. His face was broken out so badly he was ashamed to go out on the street. I told him to use Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and in four weeks he was all well and could not tell he ever had a pimply or sore on his face." (Signed) August E. Mills, 2306 Elliot Av. CHURCH MUST REACH ALL SIDES OF MAN

Intellect as Well as Soul Must Be Cared For Says Rev. C. A. Decker.

Saving men economically and intellectually as well as spiritually was designated as the duty of the church today, by Rev. Charles A. Decker in his Sunday sermon at the First Baptist church. "The work of Jesus," he said, "is to save the whole man. And to do this he must be saved intellectually and economically as well as spiritually. And I do not think it is too much to say that this is the task of the Savior."

"Our failure in the past has been that we have confined the application of the gospel to spiritual matters.

Whereas Jesus has a message that applies to these other matters as well.

"We have been reading the gospels more carefully of late and have discovered that Jesus really had a message effecting the social condition of this world, as well as a hope to hold out for the world to come. His gospel has a broader application than the church has sometimes interpreted it. People were lost economically and there was enough dynamic power in the teaching Jesus to change the social condition of his day had his teaching been heeded."

"But the early church discovered the great spiritual truth and preached that with all its might, to the exclusion of the social elements in his teaching. The result was many were saved spiritually but continued to be lost economically. And this condition of things obtained through the centuries until now we are trying to apply the social teachings to our society. "We find it hard to change conditions because they are so old and time-honored. However, there seems to be reason for hope that the teaching of Jesus regarding social salvation will be heeded and made effective in the days that are before us."

"We are coming to see that a man who is saved spiritually is only one-third saved. There are two other sides to this life that must be considered. Jesus came to save the whole man and all of his relationships."

ROOT, NEXT PRESIDENT

Will Be Republican Nominee Says William Barnes, Jr.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 15.—"Elihu Root will be nominated and elected president of the United States in 1916. He may protest ill health and age, but he will be the republican nominee and win over Wilson or any other possible rival."

This prediction was thrown into the Whitman presidential boomers camp soon after the arrival here Sunday night by William Barnes, Jr.
