EDITORS' BANQUET

Hammond Honors State Newspaper Men With a Banquet. Inspect South Bend Factories.

HAMMOND, Ind., June 4.—When it comes to doing things Indiana editors do not stop half way, they refuse to compromise.

The members of the Indiana Democratic Editors' association who arrived here Thursday night after a day and a night spent in South Bend showed that they could forget politics as well as they could remember it. At the banquet given at the country club in their honor, politics was taboo. Democrats, Republicans and bull moose all sat down to the festive board and ate and made merry.

A. M. Turner, president of the First National bank of this city, was toastmaster. The editors were welcomed by Mayor J. D. Smalley. Mrs. Samuel M. Rabston supplied the part of her husband, Gov. Rabston, was supposed to fill. Other talks were made by Sen. J. W. Kern and Rep. H. A. Barnhart.

The keynote of all the addresses was that now is the time when the nation must show that party lines have been forgotten. With the country facing a crisis with European powers, it is the duty of the American people as a whole to stand behind the president and aid him in every way possible by helping to make his task the easier.

Following the banquet which was attended by 200 a theater party was enjoyed. Friday morning the party made an auto trip about the city. At 3:30 a Friday afternoon they left for Chicago, where another banquet awaits them. Saturday they will cross Lake Michigan to St. Joseph and after a tour of the fruit belt, they will start on the homeward trip, coming by way of South Bend.

MADAM SWARTZ OF BRANDON-DURRELL CO. RETURNS FROM NEW YORK CITY.

She brings with her all the latest fashions of hair dressing and the treatment of the hair, etc.

Read what she says.

Healthy Hair Hair to Get and Keep at.

I spent the past two weeks in N. Y. City, at the Frank Parker Trichological Institute bringing a Letz Microscope for examining the hair, and the Herber, (Herbert).

These trunks are manufactured by Mr. Parker personally, in his laboratory, and are sold exclusively and solely by this Institute, they are made of ingredients which his 40 years practical experience in hair treatments and scientific tests by other well known Authorities have proved most suitable for purposes intended.

Their main ingredients consists of oils and essences from plants, which have greater absorbing powers, and are themselves more susceptible to absorption by the hair, and when absorbed have a decided effect in producing the results desired.

The hair very readily absorbs and assimilates nourishment through the follicles and shaft. The proper tonic with the proper application, which artificially feeds the hair at the same time stimulates the subcutaneous nourishing process into increased activity will revitalize its natural lustre and fullness, bringing in new hair.

The proper hygiene is as essential as that of the body. I shall use the Parker system for shampooing and treating the hair.

You can make appointments for any hour by calling Madam Swartz by Bell phone 665 or 619, Home phone 5665.

HAD NO LICENSES.

Frank Stinson of Rochester, Ind., was alleged by Patrolman Pailo to have run his automobile into this city without proper license tags attached, in city court Friday morning.

He denied the charge and the case was continued until Saturday.

FINED FOR PRACTICING
OPTOMETRY WITHOUT A LICENSE FROM STATE

According to a letter received here by John H. Ellis, president of the Indiana state board of registration and examination in optometry, the verdict in a test case of practicing optometry without a license from the state board was returned in favor of the state board.

The case was brought up in the criminal court and involved Leo Krauss, a jeweler and dealer in optical goods in that city. Clyde P. Miller, an attorney, testified that Krauss said he could test his eyes and fit glasses and that he made an examination. Miller returned a few days later and got his glasses.

Krauss in his defense said that he never held himself out as an optician or optometrist and that he sold the glasses to Miller as he would any other merchandise in his store. Krauss was originally found guilty in the justice of peace court where he was fined $25 and costs. He appealed to the criminal court where he was fined $25 and costs. The fine costs amounted to $51.45 which Krauss paid.

SPECIAL SERVICES SUNDAY AT WESTMINSTER CHURCH

Sunday promises to be a day of special interest at the Westminster Presbyterian church, N. Scott and Lindsey sts. At the morning service Rev. A. C. Ormond of Mishawaka will occupy the pulpit. Mr. Ormond has recently received a call from one of the leading churches in the south and will soon take up his residence at Gulfport, Miss. He is recognized as one of the ablest preachers in northern Indiana.

In the evening the Westminster chorus, directed by Miss Fern Parker, will give a song service. Longfellow's "Daybreak" and "Wreck of the Hesperus" will be presented. The Westminster orchestra, directed by L. O. Gillis, will furnish three numbers. Solos will be contributed by Miss Parker, Miss Jessie Gillis and J. Bruce Gail.

A special souvenir has been issued for the use of the congregation. All the rooms will be opened and arrangements made by the church officials to accommodate a large audience.

UNDER NEW LAW 5,800
REGISTER IN DISTRICT

Harrison Narcotic Law Shows Number of Dealers in Drugs Residing in 59 Counties.

Under the provisions of the Harrison narcotic law, 5,000 physicians, druggists, dentists, veterinary surgeons and hospitals have registered in the sixth revenue district. The law went into effect on March 1, at which time the first registry was made. The registry must be renewed on or before July 1 and annually thereafter. The sixth district includes 59 counties with Indianapolis as headquarters. In the seventh district of which Terre Haute is the headquarters, there have been 2,500 physicians and druggists reported as having registered. There are 33 counties in that district.

GEYER WILL DISPOSES
OF $20,000 ESTATE

City Property Belonging to Henry Geyer Who Died on May 27, Goes to Three Children.

Property to the value of $20,000 is disposed of by the will of Henry Geyer which was filed for probate Friday morning in the circuit court. The heirs are two daughters and one son. The estate consists largely of city property. Mr. Geyer died on May 27, 1915. His will was signed on June 3, 1914, and witnessed by Iden S. Romig and Alvah N. Krussell. B. H. Geyer, a son, is made executor.

CHICKENS WERE AT LARGE.

Joseph Sabine, Berlin and Division sts., was arraigned in city court Friday morning by Michael Kasziba because it was alleged that he allowed his chickens to run at large upon the property of Kasziba. The case was continued until Saturday morning.

DIXIE HIGHWAY HEADS
FLAYS COMMISSIONERS

Resigns Presidency in Scorching Letter Denouncing Selection of Routes.

Charles E. James, principal factor in the promotion of the Dixie Highway association and who was recently elected president of the association by the combined votes of the old and new directorates, declines the office. Such is the word that reached South Bend Friday. James mailed his resignation to each one of the 14 commissioners that were named by the various governors. This letter is what might be termed a "hot shot" at the commissioners. James speaks straight from the shoulder and is highly incensed at the commissioners naming two routes for the Dixie highway at the Chattanooga meeting two weeks ago.

James has, however, not quit the association altogether. Twenty-four hours after he handed in his resignation he headed the founders' subscription list with $1,000 for the promotion of aggressive road building along the east and west lines of the Dixie highway system. He declared that he will continue to give his earnest support to the organization.

But James' letter of resignation should not be overlooked. He begins by saying he will devote his time to the building of a short line through Tennessee and Kentucky to the Ohio river, which he says was contemplated before the governors met. "For reasons not necessary to recite," James says, "the governors went beyond their province in delegating others to conclude what we had hoped the governors would themselves accomplish."

SEES NO USE OF CONTINUING.

Continuing he says in part: "I have concluded after studying your map that there is no use for me to try to assume any official responsibility for a road laid out on the present lines. I hope you will get some one to finish what the Dixie Highway association started and which you have designed."

"It has taken me two days to trace all the routes you located. I find you have cut out all the center or short routes, of every state from Michigan through Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida. With few exceptions the road is as complicated as it was possible to make it and cater to the interests of individuals interested."

"Your commissioners had no other authority conferred on you than that of locating one route, not two or three routes in any one state. You did not allow me or any other member of the Dixie Highway association to make any statement or give any opinion on any of the proposed routes. If you wanted to lay out more roads than one in any state, it would seem but ordinary courtesy to have asked the Dixie Highway association for an approval before you laid out more than one road."

"You gave certain favored routes three months time in which to complete their propositions. . . . When you called the executive session (after you had heard from everyone except the Dixie Highway association) really locate the road, you did not invite me or any of my associates to be present. On the contrary you excluded us, you stating that no one would be allowed to be present except the 14 commissioners. Consequently the Chattanooga directors could not know, nor can they give any reason or excuse to claimants why their roads were left out and others put in."

"You kept me and the other directors sitting on hall benches in Louisville several hours; you kept us here in Chattanooga doing the same thing, waiting until you called us, and when you did finally call us it was at a place where you had made all locations. You excluded us from all knowledge, or from right to make any statement."

COURT GIVES MAN CHANCE

Robert McNeal to Have 30 Days in Which to Make Restitution.

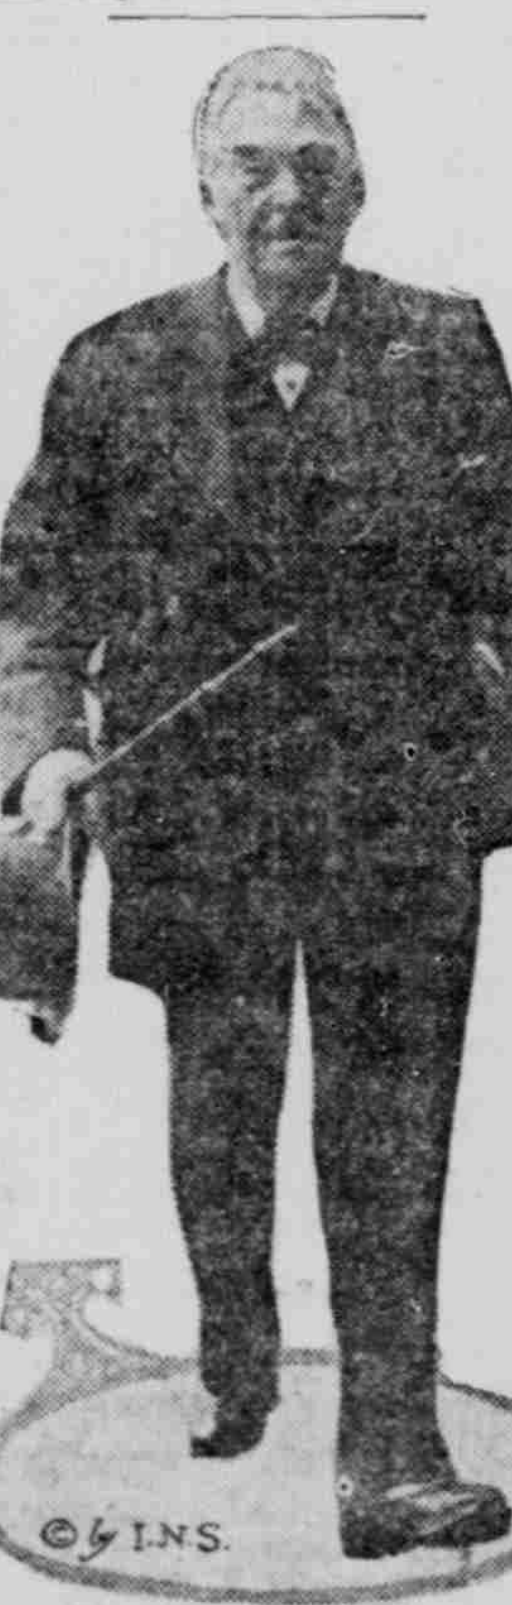

Robert McNeal, 515 S. Fellows st., was given 30 days by Judge Warner in which to make restitution to his wife and small baby, after the wife had declared to the court that he had deserted her and the child. McNeal denied the charge, stating that he had been out of work for several weeks. The court, however, believed the wife's story and ordered McNeal to make good.

DR. ROLLER WINS BOUT

Downs World's Champion in Twenty Minutes.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Dr. R. F. Roller, the American wrestling champion, downed Alex. Abner, the world's champion Greco-Roman wrestler, in 20 minutes in a match Thursday night in the international wrestling tournament at the Manhattan opera house. It was the most sensational match of the tournament.

In a lovely month like this, a man sitting on the bank for two hours waiting for the fish to bite, but not the telephone call think that back in the office he can wait two minutes for his long distance call.

LORD FISHER.

This photograph, taken since the cabinet crisis which recently shook the political foundations of England, shows Lord John Fisher, whose recent resignation from the admiralty office after differences with Winston Churchill, the British naval head, brought on that crisis, walking out of the admiralty buildings.

SUBMARINES FEAR
ONLY DESTROYERS

German Commander of Under Sea Craft Says Fast Little Boats Are Worst Enemies of Submarines.

By Count Mourik De Beaufort.

LONDON, June 4.—The torpedoing of the Lusitania recalls to me a visit which I paid to the admiralty building in Berlin, one day early last February. I was speaking to a young German naval officer, when suddenly another officer, whose sleeves were covered with gold braid almost as high as his elbow rushed into the office with a copy of the Berliner Zeitung, shouting, "now, who rules the waves?" I saw in fat headlines the name Lusitania, and in smaller type, "holts the American flag."

I believe that the higher naval news was Admiral von Capelle, the newly promoted under secretary of state for the navy. He turned to me, and, holding the paper close under my nose, asked: "Well, who is your Mr. Wilson going to do about that? He cannot very well remain neutral in face of such actions, such misuse of the stars and stripes."

Then again addressing the other officers he continued: "What a humiliated gentlemen, what a trifling blot on the British flag. Hauled down, eh, for one of our little submarines. Ah, well wait, and here I was singled out again for his special attention, 'till after Feb. 18, we'll show the world something."

"She," pointing towards the ship's name, "will stop her sailings or we will get her sooner or later. That will wake them up over there. Our navy is not going to lag behind our army in the matter of surprises. We still have one or two left both on land as well as on sea."

"In a month from now no British ship will run her nose outside a harbor with her own flag flying. The fact that the British admiralty has issued instructions that merchant ships should carry arms puts them on the level with transatlantic-cruisers who are on troops and no pardon will be given them."

I asked Capt. Lohlein how many knots his fastest submarine could make, but he shrugged his shoulders in answer and said mysteriously: "Wait till Feb. 18, and that question will be answered many times." I also met one of the younger officers of the navy, one who has made several trips in a submarine with Capt. Horns of the U-21, which torpedoed the cruiser Pathfinder early in September, and sank the Ben Cruachan.

This officer, in speaking about his dangerous profession, confided to me that the only thing they were anxious about were the British torpedo boat destroyers.

"I do not know what would become of us if England had a large number of them," he said. "They are devils incarnate. You see, when we rise out of the water, at first the range of vision of our periscope is very small, and if a destroyer is anywhere within half a mile, or even a mile, it is a close shave for the submarine. Orders have been issued that after the 15th our submarines must not show themselves unless absolutely necessary."

"Of course, it would be more humane to signal steamers and to give them time to leave their ships, but often such procedure would be suicidal. An enemy torpedo boat destroyer may be lurking somewhere near, especially in misty weather, or he may even approach under cover of the very ship we are waiting to sink."

TRIED TO SWINDLE CITY.

Ben Zekiewicz, 2734 W. Division st., according to members of the police department, endeavored to run two peddler's wagons upon one license. He was arrested upon complaint of Ray Mitchell, by Patrolman Wesolek and was arraigned in city court Friday morning. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until next Monday.

SEARCH FOR ASSAILANT

Detectives Scour West End For Trace of Bottle Wielder.

Detectives Wolters and Delinski are investigating in the west end in an effort to learn the identity of the man who struck Joseph Wroblewski, 802 Anthony st., over the head with a beer bottle, inflicting a serious cut. The injured man was removed to his home in the police ambulance at 10:30 Thursday night. The night was alleged to have taken place in a west end saloon.

OFFICER'S LIFE IS SHORT

LONDON, June 4.—It has been figured out that the average life of the British officer when once he has reached the firing line is only 23 days. It has been figured out that a cavalry horse only lasts 10 days in actual fighting and an automobile about a month.
