The I. W. W. has been a menace in this country for some years. Most of the dangerous labor troubles have been attributable to this organization. Its members have been repeatedly in court in one state and another, but they have always returned to their mischief making upon release from custody. The time has apparently come when they must be dealt with as an organization and not individ-

In the front row when it came to the point of service and real patriotism, however slack in mouth Americanism she might appear.

Iowa's volunteers have practically made up half her quota. Compare that with the east where the flags waved wildly and the shouts rent the air. Iowa handled her share of bonds. Iowa's reply to the appeal of the Red Cross was immediate, quietly patriotic but not the less determined and held the spot cash in hand. Iowa has been ready with her part in every respect. There has been no running around in circles and shouting—unless by a few politicians—but the people of the state have proved themselves as was to be expected. They stand ready for any necessary sacrifice. Iowa is in the war in the Iowa way, sternly patriotic, business-like, quiet, determined, safe and sane and dependable. The last thing Iowa desired was war, but when war came Iowa stood in the front rank. There has Iowa always stood in _national emergency. There she will be found lowa stood in the front rank. There has lowa always stood in national emergency. There she will be found first in the field and last to leave.

It is not boasting or vain glory to remark upon lowa's roster of volunteers and recall lowa's past service. If comparison is odious to any it is to that east which complained of the coldness of the west and shot its own blank cartridges of enthusiasm while lowans were signing their names with the recruiting officers.—Marshalltown Times-Republican.

All three of the Des Moines evening newspapers have announced an increase of $1 in their mail subscription prices to take effect on August 1, 1917. Another big advance in the price of print paper is given as the reason for the increase. This is the second increase in the mail subscription prices of the Des Moines evening papers during the past thirteen months.

"I shall expect every man who is not a slacker to be at my side throughout this great enterprise," declares the president. "In it no man can win honor who thinks of himself." Precisely as the president suggests, every American who is not a slacker will be found through this crisis by the side of the chief executive. Everyone not a slacker will support the government in its conduct of the war and let politics and profits wait for fairer days.

It is reported that the secretary of the treasury at Washington is planning to put out another Liberty Loan of three billions about the time the farmers receive payment for their crops. It is easy to see who it is that must subscribe to the next issue of bonds.
