The Craving For Stimulants. The blood normally contains stimulants, and that these stimulants exercise a favoring influence on function and conduce to and may even be a necessary factor in the production of the feeling of well being explains the widespread liking in man and beast for stimulating substances. This liking, amounting often to a craving, is the expression of a great physiological principle. When health is perfect. when the blood is well provided with its proper stimulants and not overcharged with depressants, there is no craving for extraneous stimulants, such as alcohol, ten or coffee, but when the blood is defective in the one or sur charged with the other then is felt the desire for the glass of wine or the cup of tea.

In order to obviate this desire the body should be kept at the highest level of health. The more perfect the health the more perfect will be the composition of the blood in respect to both physiological stimulants and deleterious toxins. A blood properly constituted in these and other respects will exercise a gentle stimulant action on the nervous system and induce a condition of mild physiological intexication, which expresses itself in a feeling of well being and happiness -a condition that cannot be bettered .- Lan-

The Result of Too Much Pathos. "One day," says Jean Francois Raf-faelli, "Daudet was arguing a point that on the stage it is a mistake to insist too strongly on any one form of sentiment, whatever it may be. 'Listen,' said he. 'I recall a little incident which may serve to illustrate my meaning: A woman dressed in black one day entered an omnibus in which I happened to be. She was in deep mourning, and her countenance was so worn, so contracted, so furrowed with grief, that her neighbor could not refrain from asking what terrible sor-row it could be that had thus left its marks upon her. "'Whereupon the woman, amid the sympathetic attention of all the little world in the omnibus, including the conductor, who did nothing but blow his nose so as to hide his tears, told how she had lost first one child and within a very few days another. Every one pitied her greatly, but when proceeded with many tears to tell of the death of a third child her hearers were somewhat less moved, and finally, when she launched into a long account of the loss of a fourth-de voured by a crocodile on the banks of the Nile-every one in the omnibus burst out laughing."-New Lippincott.

W. E. B. Du Bois, in his book, "The Philadelphia Negro," devotes much space to authentic instances, proving that, in the words of the author, "the in each month at 3 p. m. road to success is to have a white face." Professor Du Bois cites many individual cases in support of his somewhat bitter deduction, one of the most striking being the experience of a graduate of the University of Penn-OINCINNATI, IOUISVILLE, CHICAGO STIVANIA. This young colored man took a course in mechanical engineering, was an apt student, was well recommended and by reason of his excellent rec ord obtained a situation through an advertisement. He reported for work, re mained only a few hours and was then discharged for the simple reason that his skin was not white. The experi ence was repeated several times unt he became utterly discouraged. He is now a walter in the University club where he is forced to serve white fe

A SERMON FOR MEN.

The man who earns his living with his brains cannot afford to neglect his body. The body is the furnace and boiler that farnishes steam to the brain. If the furnace is permitted to get clogged with clinkers, the boiler will make no steam, and the delicate machinery of the brain will slow down and come to a dead stop.

When a man finds that his ideas do not come as freely as they once did, he needn't worry about his men-

Eventually he will break down with nervous exhaustion or prostration. There is a remedy that will promptly put a man right under these conditions. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures indigestion, fills the blood with the vital elements of life, tones the nerves, and makes the brain bright, clear and active. It cures all nerve and brain troubles due to insufficient or improper nourishment. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is for sale by all good medicine dealers, and only an unscrupulous dealer will try to induce a customer to take some worthless remedy, tomer to take some worthless reme alleged to be "just as good."

Mr. Ned Nelson, the celebrated Irish Comedian and Minic, of syr Royden Street, Cainden, N. J. writes: "We fulfilled an engagement of twelve weeks and the constant traveling gave me a had touch of that dreaded disease called dyspensia. I had tried everything possible to cure it till last week while playing at B. P. Reeth's Bijon Theater, Philadelphia, in the Nelson Trio, a professional friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I tried it, and, thank God, with good results."

Constipation is promptly cared by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. All medicine dealers.

"Well, how do you expect me to paint the portraft of your father when I can-not see him and have nothing to give me an idea of his appearance? "Vell," he replied, "I dinked maybe of I dolt you about him you gan baint him from dot.'

"All right," said the artist, "describe "Vell, my fadder was not so dall und not so short; he was not fat und not so din." And so the honest fellow proceeded to describe his father as he recalled him.

The artist undertook to paint the pic ure, and in due course it is completed, and the Lancaster county man comes in to view the results of the artist's efforts. As the canvas is disclosed by gazes long and reverently upon the ple ture of his departed parent. Then he feelingly remarks: "Yah, dot is mine fadder! Mine fadder vat I loafed so nuch! A Beautiful System.

The Memphis Scimitar tells of a recent bride whose husband noticed that he was keeping an itemized accounof the household expenses. In looking t over one day he noticed at the bot tom of each page or two the letters "D. K. W." This somewhat puzzled dm. He really found it very difficult o keep from thinking about what these letters could possibly mean. occurred to him that possibly his wife something for him. But then he kner that his initials were not "D. K. W. and this did not prove a satisfactory solution to the matter. So one day when his wife was in a real good humor he took her in hi irms and asked what she meant by 'D. K. W. 50 cents," "D. K. W., 81" and the like. She replied: "'D. K. W.' stand for don't know what.' Whenever I went balance my account at the end of ach page and found I had spent money for which I could not account, I just put in a sufficient amount, with the Item 'D. K. W.,' to make it balance just exactly."

An average roadster is 16 hands high and weighs 1,100 pounds, with heavy mane, a bushy tail that reaches nearly to the ground and "iron" limbs that show great muscular development. The favorite color is gray. Such an animal is driven through the principal streets of St. Petersburg at a furious once, that portion near the center and beside the surface car tracks being reserved for fast driving.

During the winter months teams of two and three abreast are driven to sleighs at a three minute galt. There is racing all winter, the courses being flooded at night to provide three inches of solid ice. American pneumatic sulkies, harness, boots, gaiting appliinces, etc., are in general use.

No one was admitted to Turner's e in Oneen Anne street unless si fally invited. There was a sort of little iron grille in the center of the front door, through which the old house keeper used to look and see who was there. As an example of the rarity of visitors the late Lord Lansdowne, who was a great lover of art and a friend of Turner's, told me that after receiving beard the lion in his den.
