

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

TUESDAY EVE., APRIL 17, 1883.

A STREET railway, electric lights, And other things we see, Seems that this sleepy town of ours, Ain't what it used to be. The fact is very well assured, And plainer day by day, That all the old-time dunder heads, Have surely moved away.

The white-wash professors should now enjoy a boom.

Read the new advertisements in the BULLETIN to-day.

The prospects for a good crop of fruit this season are very flattering.

Now is the time to clean up your premises. It should be thoroughly done.

JOHN WHEELER is offering fresh fish to-day at eight and ten cents a pound.

ECONOMICALLY inclined people will find some very good "Kentucky Brussels" carpet at Hunt & Doyle's.

THE perennial prosperity of "Hazel Kirke" would seem to argue that our children will have at least one good, pure play to witness.

RIGHT REV. JOHN TWIGG, Bishop of the Pittsburg Diocese of the Catholic Church, has been stricken by paralysis and is not expected to recover.

HAZEL KIRKE at the Opera House next Wednesday evening. This is the only opportunity you will have to see this great play this season.

A PEACH tree planted in 1846 on the farm of Mr. Richard Durrett, near Washington, is in full bloom and promises to bear a large crop of fruit.

ICE manufactured at Lexington sells for three fourths of a cent a pound, while that brought from the lake commands one cent. The home made ice is considered the best.

MR. G. S. JUDG, real estate agent, sold on Saturday for Mr. H. J. Powell, the business house on Market street now occupied by Newell & Henry, to John Brookover for $4,600 cash.

THINK of it! The combined dramatic and managerial talent of the world never produced a play which has been so successful as Hazel Kirke. The 2,000 consecutive representations are evidence of this fact.

W. F. FAULKNER and W. T. Mays have been arrested and held in $500 bonds each, in Lewis county, on a charge that they persuaded a Mrs. Latham through false representations to sign a mortgage for $3,000.

WILLIAM SMITH, colored, charged with stealing a lot of fine chickens from Col. J. B. Noyes, was examined yesterday day before magistrates M. F. Marsh and John L. Grant, and held to appear at the Circuit Court in the sum of $100. He failed to give the bail required and went to jail.

THE Cooper-Insko case was argued yesterday by Judge E. Whitaker for the Commonwealth and Messrs. W. P. Larew and A. A. Wadsworth for the defense. Hon. W. H. Wadsworth, counsel for the prisoner, addressed the jury this morning. The case will probably end some time this afternoon.

THE street railway bonds have all been taken with the exception of about $2,500. This amount the Company will endeavor to dispose of this week. When this is done the enterprise may be regarded as a fixed fact. The bonds should be taken immediately that delay in building the road may be avoided.

MR. J. BLAKEBROUGH, who makes a specialty of Waltham watches, has an advertisement elsewhere. He has a very large stock on hand and is prepared to furnish them at prices that will be satisfactory. He has also a large stock of clocks, silverware, jewelry, etc., which has been selected with great care and marked at very low prices. Call and see him.

THE tearing down of the market house will begin to-morrow under the direction of Mr. D. F. Huff, who has made a contract for its removal. The material will be used in the construction of a warehouse near the pork packing establishment of Hechinger, Thomas & Co., in the lower part of the city. This building will front on the street forty feet and extend back one hundred and fifty feet.

PERSONALS.

Mr. Victor Gilman, of Buffalo, N. Y., is in the city.

Mrs. Belle Judy, of Covington, is visiting her relatives in this city.

Major Thomas A. Ross and family have returned from Covington.

Victor Hand Corn Planter.

This labor saving implement which is admitted to be the best hand corn planter in use, is manufactured by Owens & Barkley, of this city, and is offered this season with greater confidence than ever that it will give entire satisfaction. It has been improved in several important respects, viz: they are now made with blades 3½ inches wide, the woods tapered, which gives a wider drop and scatters the grain more perfectly, thereby insuring certain growth. They are made of the best seasoned white ash; blades of cast steel, and with imported Russia bristles. The material used in other parts is the best and it is warranted to do the work satisfactorily. A very large number of them have been sold already this season.

LAST evening after the adjournment of the Adelpian Circle, as the brothers were passing the European Hotel, one of their number thinking it was too early for ice cream, invited them in to partake of that luxury. But to his consternation he was informed that there was cream in abundance. The whole Circle filed in and after passing around the treat he at first expected to "set up" viz: Tooth-picks, he was suddenly taken very ill and had to retire to his room, but the feast went on all the same; and his friends in the midst of their banqueting remembered him in a vote of thanks, and sent up a basket of fruit and cake to their host. We understand the brother is restored to his usual health this morning.

DURING the Cooper-Insko trial on Monday afternoon the point was made that Mr. W. H. Tarleton, one of the jury, had served on the grand jury that had indicted Cooper, but the court, after investigating the matter, decided that the trial should proceed. The facts are as follows: during the sitting of the grand jury at the last term of the court, Mr. Charles Kennan, who was on the jury, was detained at home and Mr. Tarleton was appointed in his place. The testimony in the Cooper case had been taken the day before, and of course had not been heard by Mr. Tarleton, although the indictment was returned on the day he was appointed. He knew nothing whatever of the case and therefore regarded himself as a competent juror.

THE Kentucky Planing Mill, of which Messrs. Collins, Rudy & Co., are the proprietors, reports that the building business has opened briskly. During the past two weeks they have made the following contracts: A frame house for J. M. Cassidy, at Carlisle, and another for J. M. France, of the same town; a frame dwelling for A. W. Campbell, at Elizaville; one for B. F. Strode, near German town; one for W. P. Dickey, at Summit Station; one for Dr. Parry, at Mayslick; one for C. D. Calvert, at Helena, and a large tobacco barn for W. W. King, at Marshall's Station. In addition to this Messrs. Collins, Rudy & Co., have contracted with the Street Railway Company to furnish one-half of the ties used in the construction of the road. They will be very busy for several weeks to come and are looking for a lively trade the entire season.

THE following notice of the eventful career of a man well known in this part of Kentucky twenty-five years ago, is sent from Washington by the correspondent of the Cincinnati News. The subject of the notice was at one time the editor of the Paris (Ky.) Flag, and had associated with him in business Mr. Samuel Williams, now of the Kansas City Times. He also practiced law at Paris and was considered a brilliant and able man:

Senectus Garfield, a man who died last night in a garret, was at one time quite prominent in politics. In personal appearance he strikingly resembled Vallandigham, and in ability is said to have been the equal of the late President of the same name. He began life as a "Campbellite" preacher, but soon abandoned the pulpit for the bar. He began practice in Kentucky, and in 1849 was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention that framed the present Constitution of that State. He was an elegant and forcible speaker and especially strong in debate. He was a delegate to the Cincinnati Convention that nominated James Buchanan for President, and an elector for the Mayville district on the Presidential ticket. He was appointed receiver of public moneys in Washington Territory, and filled that position from 1857 to 1860. From 1860 to 1869 he was Surveyor General of Washington Territory, and represented it as a delegate in the forty-first and forty-second Congresses. After he left Congress his course of life seemed to have been changed. He became the proprietor of a gaming room in this city, and married a woman of the town, who was the only one with him when he died. During the last two or three years he seems not to have prospered, and he was deserted by his old friends.

COUNTY POINTS.

HELENA.

Grass growing rapidly. Gardens have been planted. Peach trees are in bloom. Tobacco plants coming up. The guttural croak of the crooked-legged amphibian is now heard. Checkers and tads are popular amusements here just now.

Come out and hear Rev. Simmons Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. John Shanklin sold his tobacco crop to D. Raymond at $10, and Wm. Ross to R. W. Wells at $12 per cwt.

W. O. Cord has disposed of his merchandize and will locate at Winchester and engage in the hotel business.

A sweet toned bell at the M. E. Church now chimes forth the hour of divine worship.

J. M. Frazier, an experienced wood-workman, has opened a shop here.

Our town is making rapid strides in the way of improvement. A substantial plank walk down Main street, a cottage at east end Chas. Calvert is building a commodious storehouse, and more buildings to follow.

GREEN HORN.

Mrs. Hettie Hibler, who died in Kansas on the 6th inst., was buried here last week.

Dr. Wm. Allen, of Midway, Ky., and Sam Allen, of Kansas, were here last week.

The stallion show on Saturday was very fine, about fifteen being shown.

There were three burials here Wednesday.

Thomas and Magnus Hopper and George Myall are at Helena on a visit from Kentucky Classical and Business College.

Saturday was a very pleasant day for the time of year, the thermometer standing at eighty-five degrees in the shade, and more people in town than on any day this spring and business being very good.

We received a letter recently from Mr. A. G. Wilson, of Lewis county, stating that one day last week he caught in Salt Lick just opposite his residence, two spikes that measured respectively three feet two inches and two feet nine inches in length and weighed twelve and nine pounds a piece. He says they were caught with a hook and line in ten minutes time.

FEIN LEAF.

Mr. Ben Wood was up on Shattuck a short time last evening and the crowd was so well pleased that it is probable he will locate there.

Mr. Wm. Whipp, after an absence of 27 years, has been on a visit to relatives and friends here. Mr. Whipp was born and raised here, and married his first wife in this county. He emigrated West five years ago, going first to the States of the West, and then to California, where he remained 23 years, and then removed with his family near Garrettsville, Anderson county, Kansas, where he still lives. He says that there has been such a change in the neighborhood since he first left, that no one would know it as the same place, as there were no more farms, no more orchards or vineyards, and the houses were all gone. But he found a few reminiscences to remind him of the "long ago," one of which was a chair that was made 75 years ago, and which is in the possession of M. Worthington, of this place, who is a cousin of Mr. Whipp's.

"Delta" seems to think that because we do not reside at Mt. Gilead that it is impossible for us to know as much about the church as the church members who live there. If our information does not extend beyond the horizon that bounds the view of the immediate vicinity in which we happen to reside, our knowledge is certainly very limited. We claim and insist, too, we took the matter into consideration, and the matter relating to the division in the church at Mt. Gilead have been equal to those of any, even though they may have always lived there. The neighborhood of Mt. Gilead being the place where our great-grand-pere and our grand-pere (who were of the same name) lived, and being the home of our mother till the time of her marriage, which event did not occur till three years after the schism in the church, it is natural to suppose that we have heard the whole story repeatedly. But we do not intend, however, to give our readers mere tradition, but will state facts just as they exist, and to which we invite investigation, as the statistics will show who is correct. In the year 1819 the church at Mt. Gilead was constituted, and a constitution embracing "Articles of Faith" and "Rules of Decorum" was adopted. Those rules have always been construed by the church to be that: "In receiving and excluding members, it shall be done by unanimity." One negative vote was sufficient to prevent a vote from being carried. In the year 1855 (instead of 1857, as stated by "Delta") a motion was made to exclude a very prominent member on a trivial charge, the vote resulting in 18 for the motion, and 7 against it. This transpired August 1st, 1855, and on September 5th, 1855, the following "note" was adopted: "By comparing the last minute with our constitution, it will be seen that no exclusion has taken place." And the "Minority" then and there determined, by the help of God, to adhere to their constitution, and form a government. After due "labor" by the "Minority" the "Majority" were excluded, in accordance with the constitution. A committee was appointed by the Association, at the request of both parties, to investigate the cause of the difficulty in the church, who, after inquiring into all the particulars and examining the articles of faith and rules of decorum, it was unanimously decided that the "Minority" holding to the old church book, the constitution, rules of decorum and articles of faith of the church was the true church. Now, the said "Minority" meets on the second Saturday and Sabbath following in each month for the worship of God, and adheres to the ancient landmarks expounded by the "fathers" and retains her place in the old association. It simply changing the day of meeting in evidence of the "Minority's" not being the church, then no church exists at Mt. Gilead as the "Old Regular" has called. They changed the day of meeting, it is also a fact worthy of note that the said "Majority" tried at two consecutive sessions of the association to retain membership in the association. This is written for the information of the public, to answer an oft repeated inquiry as to the difference of the two bodies existing at Mt. Gilead. It was originally not a difference of "doctrine" but of "order." Elder J. H. Wallingford is pastor and member of one body that meets there, and Elder B. Lampton, who is not a member of any association is pastor of the other.

P. E. M.

A widow of rank and means, at Neuilly near Paris, discovered that her jewelry was disappearing daily, and, as her servants were above suspicion, she gave no information to the police, but consulted her son—an officer in the French army—on the matter. Who could the thief be? He agreed to keep watch on the valuables left, and did so, armed with a revolver. At midnight steps were heard as of one advancing stealthily. Que va-t-il? To this there was no reply. He fired, and after a shriek and a scream the officer found that he had seriously wounded his own mother. The mystery was soon explained. The lady was, unknown to most persons, a somnambulist, and had been in the habit of appropriating her own jewels. These she carefully placed in an old cabinet, long unused, where they were all found after the untoward accident.

WHISKY AND ROCK CANDY.

Druggists Warned.

The following from Washington will put a stop to a nice little trade that some druggists had opened to supply the boys with a drink:

A mixture of whisky, rock candy and tar water is held by this office to be a compound liquor within the meaning of the third class of section 3244, R. S., and every person who makes it for sale, and sells it by the bottle or larger package, is required to pay special tax as a rectifier.

The special tax of a liquor dealer is, of course, therefore required to be paid for its sale in any quantity. It is not a medicine of the last class of section 3246, R. S., and an apothecary, therefore, is not entitled, under decision No. 179, which construes this section, to prepare and sell such a mixture by the bottle or larger package without paying special tax as a rectifier, even though he label it as a medicine and hold it out to the public as a remedy for various complaints.

While this mixture, like whisky itself, may be used medicinally, and may be so prescribed by a physician, there is nothing in it that makes it unfit for use as a beverage; and it is such as under their special tax-stamps, rectifiers have the right to make for sale, and liquor dealers have the right to sell.

Something About the "Dude."

New York Truth.

The name was given, perhaps, by Truth to a curious specimen of the genus homo which has lately appeared here. He is young, thin, pale, often hatchet-faced, almost always narrow-chested and small-limbed. His extremely tight trousers painfully accentuate his lack of fibre. His coat and long overcoat are an exaggerated imitation of the Bond-street style, and in the evening he wears a very abbreviated "cover coat." This garment, in its normal use, has a rison d'etre. It is worn at "cover" over the short red coat of the hunter, but the "dude" wears it over evening dress, producing an effort which is amusing to the minds of the uninitiated.

A "dude" at Newport last summer, at whom people were laughing very much, had this same effect. As the tails of the dress coat came quite a distance below the bottom of the "cover coat" the inevitable inference was that the lining of the former had come out. The shoes of the "dude" should be of the shape of the Esquimaux kayak or canoe, and he wears a broad brimmed high English silk hat, especially at theaters and concerts, where it is most in the way. In his mouth, finally, the cigarette finds a prominent home, as do the fives of the valley in his buttonhole. He may be seen in quantities in Delmonico's cafe, and he is a study.

Where Her Husband Perished.

New York Herald.

On one evening of every week a neatly dressed woman visits the stage entrance of Haverly's Theater, Brooklyn. The main entrance of the Brooklyn Theater, destroyed by fire on the night of December 5, 1875, with nearly three hundred lives, occupied this particular site. The woman looks about her for a few minutes and then runs down Myrtle avenue to her home. One of the policemen attached to the station next door says that in the early evening of that terrible night, seven years and more ago, the husband of this woman asked her to accompany him to the play. She had been hard at work during the day, and preferred to remain at home, but wished that he should visit the theater. He did so and his body was among the unrecognized dead on the following day. The wife fell ill, and for a time it was feared she would lose her reason. Once a week at night, from the date of recovery to the present, this poor woman has visited the spot.
