To Whom Address All Communications.

WHEN you go down on Sutton street, Be certain as you pass To ask McCarthy all about His china and his glass, The handsome decorated sets For dinner and for tea, And crystal glass on every hand Are worth the while to see

The street cars during the past month, carried something over five hundred passengers a day.

Second street extension is now lighted by two gas lamps, a needed and appreciated improvement.

CARDS are out announcing the wedding of Miss Eleanor Holmes, of Frankfort, to Judge William Lindsey.

STREET trestles have been put under ered perfectly safe in all respects.

The corner stone of the new public building at Frankfort will be laid Dec-

Boy's overcoats at from $2 to $4 is offering to the people, and it is a very acceptable one.

It is predicted that mild weather will prevail until the middle of January, but after that time there will be cold weather until the close of February.

half cents, and calves $15 and $25.

of them are confident of scoring success.

MAYSVILLE, KY., WEDNESDAY EVENING.
And as she does everything she undertakes, there is a very fair prospect that she will have no trouble in doing this.

The President's Message will be found in our telegraphic columns to-day. Our readers will please to notice that it is published in advance of the Cincinnati papers.

At Wyoming, Bath county, on the 3d inst., Henry Templeman, a young man about twenty years of age, committed suicide by shooting himself in the heart with a rifle. He was a student at North Middleton College, and had come home to spend Thanksgiving. The cause of the act was that he feared the loss of his sight.

Knights of Pythias, Attention.

tle Hall on Friday night next, at seven

A DISPATCH from Ripley says the business men have been complaining for a week past of counterfeit money being in circulation, chiefly silver half dollars.
They have the proper ring, but are darker in appearance than the genuine, and have an oily feeling. The amount circulated was not large, but great enough to put the merchants on their guard. Look out for these coins in Maysville.

OWING to the break in the pipe main in Limestone creek, the supply of water in the reservoir is exhausted and out citizens are again compelled to rely upon their cisterns. Mr. Schafer, the superintendent of the works, has been working night and day with his force half the time up to their knees in water, but as yet has not been able to make the repairs necessary. It is a very difficult piece of work and one that most men would regard as impracticable. He hopes to finish it either to-day or to-morrow.

PERSONALS.
Judge Stanton returned from Cincinnati on Tuesday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bantel are visiting their relatives at Cincinnati.
Miss Fannie Ball, of East Maysville, is visiting Mrs. Miller, at Covington.
Mr. Jacob Linn and wife are at Cincinnati buying a stock of holiday goods.
Miss Maggie Coughlin and brother, have just returned from a pleasant visit to Pittsburg and West Virginia.
Miss Delia L. Wood, formerly of this city, is now one of the faculty of Minden (La.) College, in the department of English, German and Phonography. This college is one of the first educational institutions of that State, and has a large attendance of pupils. Miss Wood is regarded as a most competent teacher.

COUNTY POINTS.

SARAS.
Mrs. Wm. R. Browning has been up to sherburne to visit her daughter, Mrs. Dr.
Alford. Her little grand-daughter, Jennie Ball, is just now the center of attraction. She has four living grandmothers.
Dr. Browning, wife and son, and Miss Etie Waddell took in Bourbon this week. His daughter, Miss Emma, came over from North-Middleton to meet them at Millersburg.

Our ingenious friend, J. D. Dye, was out at Mr. Wm. Forman's last week and put E. F.
Herndon's business office and the mansion house in telephonic connection.
One of the most touching incidents resulting from the recent debate was, when a leading baptist from the Maysville church, taking Rev. Hanford by the hand, said:
"Farewell, brother; though we differ here as baptists and methodists, I hope to be with you in the final race, and join you on the homestretch." He went to the Master, where there are no differences and no debates.
Here he presented the Methodist brother with a valuable coin, who, with a voice tremulous with emotion, responded in lyrical verse of sentiment:
"Miss Carter Pyles, the sweet little daughter of Mrs. W. T. Sparks, came to Cincinnati on a visit to her uncle, Mr. E. O. Pyles. She went in company with Mrs. H. M. Pyles and her sister, Miss Mattie Pyles, and Miss Ottilie Blanch.

Among the visitors to the Thanksgiving services we observed our young friends Willie Gibson R. Lee Fox, Aquila Myatt, and last, though not least, that dashing gallant, A. F. Gooding. If coming events cast their shadows before, we shall look for their brightly lit-up faces again.
Were November a gloomy, gloomy Thanksgiving day with its bright associations, and its light of radiant firesides, would not it like a jewel—one of the brightest days of the year? It is a day that brings us to the one of this kind. The fathers of New England should have our gratitude for the institution of this beautiful custom—this bringing up of dear old days.

We deeply sympathize with Mrs. Harvey Hawkins in the loss she has sustained of an eye. It is said to be paralysis of the optic nerve—occurring in the night, and she knew nothing of it till the next morning.
Will D. Throckmorton and lady spent their giving day with the old folks at home—Poplar Plains.

A. O. White and lady visited the families of the Messrs. Hart and Fleming last week, in the neighborhood of Flemingsburg and Poplar Plains.
W. T. Salt and family, Louden Grover and two daughters, and Agro Grover and family, dined at "Poplar" on Sunday last.

A large crowd was present and much enjoyment was had at the masquerade party on last Thursday night. Your report was present at this great carnival and such a variety has never been seen since. Altitude heightening, variation, deviation, discimiltude, variation, deviation, change of a cordial state. He felt almost as singular a Janibulian, the seventh sleeper, who was not by the names of the city of Rome to purchase a new pair of shoes of two countries. The face of everything was changed; he knew no one and no one knew him, he recognized nothing and stood confused, amazed, astonished, confounded. The boys got possession of the room first and many were the merry Andrews' among them. Some starting investigations were investigated. Joe Weaver personated "Uncle Sam" while Abner Anderson came in as a girl-"Madam, H. Howland, personated Thomas Grover, Jr. and his intimate agent, Jim.
Sutton personated a tobacco house agent. Jim.
Sutton personated the head of the last century, and Billy "Old" Kunk, with coat and cane, was very amusing. C. C. Cole, Frank Blair, Claude Clark, Col. Arthur and a score of other boys played their roles well. We did not have time to mention all the beauties in our masquerade but we had induced into a lady queen's castle, where every lady was vying with each other as to who would be the most elegant. Miss Amanda Trigle, as night; Miss Anna Blair, as morning; Miss Rena Bratton, as starlight; Miss Steele Gail, as fortune teller; Miss Carrie Dye, flower girl; Miss Carrie Dye, as flower girl; Miss Margie Higgins, as night; Miss Maggie Higgins, as night; Miss Maggie Higgins, as night; Miss Maggie Higgins, as night.
Miss Fannie Burrows, as Mother Hubbard; Miss Ottilie Blair, as newspaper girl; Miss Anna Leach, as Pochontas; and Miss Jennie Caber, as house girl, attracted much attention and so completely were they disguised that the most careful eyes were puzzled to identify them. Among the spectators, we observed some of the most beautiful of our married or lady belles. A crowd near me said he saw Miss Anna Blair, Miss Anna Blair, and her personal and intellectual beauty were concerned he did not believe north Kentucky could produce their superior. A lady remarked to me, "I have never seen a more beautiful woman and she became enthusiastic enough to declare that if Lord Byron had seen them he would have dedicated a poem to each of them." Ladies and gentlemen, we were glad to see the masquerade that several were heard to declare their determination to return to this locality to-morrow.
