

WAS IT DOUBLE MURDER?

The Killing of Reynolds and Mrs. McCabe in San Francisco.

Believed by Some to Have been Done by a Jealous Rival of Reynolds—The Servants' Statement—Was She a Party to It?

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—On September 15 it was announced from San Francisco that a woman and child had been found dead near San Bruno, each with a bullet hole in their head. In the man's pocket was a card with the name "J. L. Reynolds."

James L. Reynolds lived with his mother and stepfather in Newark, New Jersey. He studied law in Cortlandt Parker's office. Three years ago he went to San Francisco and got a clerkship. He was handsome and of pleasing address and seemed to be prospering. His mother was intending to join him when the news of his violent death came.

There is much mystery about the affair, but these facts have been learned. Reynolds hired a team about September 12, and drove to San Bruno and spent the night with a young woman at a hotel there. The couple had been there before. Two days later they went away but came again in the afternoon. They went to their room and ordered absinthe. The servant who brought it heard the woman say to Reynolds, "I wonder if we'll turn black when we're dead." She invited the servant to take a drink, adding: "It may be the last with us."

That evening two shots were heard in their room. The door was opened and the couple were found dead on the bed, their heads pierced with bullet holes. In the man's right hand was a revolver. His head lay upon her breast.

The woman was Mrs. Mary McCabe, aged twenty-two years, who, for two years, had been separated from her husband. She was a pretty brunette. She was buried from her parent's residence in San Francisco, who said they always supposed she was living a good life. Her acquaintance with Reynolds must have been brief.

The common belief that he killed the woman and then himself is not shared by a few, who think the shooting was done by a jealous rival of Reynolds.

TWO ATLANTIC CABLES BROKEN.

The Accident Takes Place 700 Miles from Nova Scotia—The Cause.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—It was discovered yesterday morning that two of the Atlantic cables no longer transmitted messages, and it was at once supposed that breaks had occurred. The cables are those of the American Cable and Telegraph Company. They have been in use since 1882, and are laid from Canso, Nova Scotia, to Penzance, on the coast of Wales. The broken cables were tested to determine where the breaks were. By a computation based upon the resistance offered by the pieces of the cable to an electric current, it was ascertained that in both cases the break was about 700 miles from the American coast. Cables are frequently broken by vessels when dragging anchor, but in such cases the break happens comparatively near shore. At a distance of 700 miles from land no vessel either could or would anchor. The repair steamer of the company will start at once in search of the exact points of rupture. How long it will be before communication can be established cannot be said. It will be necessary to drag the bottom for the broken ends of each cable, and this is frequently a long operation. The authorities at the cable offices state that in the meantime the other cables will be amply sufficient to keep up the communication between Europe and America. If, however, there should be an unusual press of business there might be serious inconvenience and delay, which would prove most disastrous to commercial men.

At the Western Union office it was stated that the steamer Faraday, which is grappling for the Bennett cable, may have accidentally fouled the American cables and severed them. It was said that the accident leaves the pool six cables, and that under the pooling arrangement the Western Union lessees of the American Cable Company, will receive its full proportion of the pool earnings, the same as if the wires were in operation.

JOHN R. McLEAN

About to Marry the Daughter of General Beale.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Society here is all agog over the announcement that John R. McLean, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, will lead to the altar the beautiful and accomplished daughter of General Beale to-morrow evening. The bride is about nineteen years of age and of a brunette style of complexion. The wedding will be a very select though brilliant affair, and has been kept a profound secret.

Basking at the Thieves' Resort.

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—It is now definitely known that Andrew and George C. Buchanan, the fraudulent Louisville, Kentucky, distillers, who so mysteriously disappeared from that city September 21 last, are quietly journeying in Windsor, Ontario, opposite Detroit; that they are contemplating the establishment of a distillery or a large liquor store in that city, providing the necessary licenses can be obtained from the Canadian Government.

New York, Oct. 7.—There was a prize fight in Long Island City at daylight yesterday morning between Paddy Smith and Patsy Dempsey's unknown for $300. The fighting was brisk until the twelfth round, after which it was very tame. In the twenty-fourth round Smith was knocked insensible, and the unknown was declared the winner.

Iron Business Improving.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—A dispatch from Chattanooga, Tennessee, says the iron interest is reviving in the South. The Woodstock Iron Company has just closed a contract for 15,000 tons of car wheel iron at $30.50 per ton. This is the largest order placed in the South since the depression began. Reports from other furnaces indicate increased inquiry for iron.

Murder and Suicide.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Oct. 7.—Charles Austin (colored), having quarreled with his wife last evening, drew a revolver and shot her three times, inflicting dangerous wounds. He then placed the revolver to his own head and blew his brains out.

A Want of Water.

PETERSBURG, Va., Oct. 7.—The closing of all cotton factories in this city and vicinity, in consequence of scarcity of water, throw out of employment over 700 men, women and children, nearly all of whom are actually suffering for want of the necessities of life.
