GAME LAWS

Work a Hardship on Natives of Alaska

The Alaska commission of the senate's territorial committee report the following concerning the Alaska game law:

In a territory so vast as that of Alaska, many sections of which have never been trodden by the foot of a white man, where the mountains are lofty, rugged, inaccessible and almost impenetrable, it is folly to claim that danger of extermination, or even depletion, of the amount of valuable game exists at the hands of the natives. The seal lion and walrus are protected by their natural habits from danger of extermination at their hands. The decrease in the number of walrus has come through their systematic slaughter by whalers, who, having failed to secure enough walrus for their oil, have sought the walrus for their oil.

WAS BUSY

Grand Jury Returned 41 True Bills

[Special Dispatch to Daily Alaskan.] Juneau, Jan. 26.—The grand jury of the First judicial district made its report to Judge Brown today. They have examined 111 witnesses and have returned 41 true bills and seven not true bills.

Speculation is rife as to what may be the meaning of so many indictments. It is by some conjectured that little expected frauds have been brought to light and by others that another naval movement will soon be on foot.

TONIGHT

Bishop Rowe Hospital Benefit Dance

Everything has been arranged for the Bishop Rowe hospital dance to come off at Eika's hall tonight with grand éclat. Callaghan's orchestra have been rehearsing their new music every day for the past week, and a number of airs will be performed that have never before been played in Alaska.

Miss Flora Hauksness, of the refreshment committee, says the spread that will be served without extra charge to all present will be a lasting monument to the culinary art of the ladies of Skagway.

The large number of tickets already sold by the committee assures a numerous attendance.

The dance is given for a good cause—the only purely humanitarian institution in the city—and should be liberally patronized.

Tickets, $1.50, at Britt's drugstore, ladies free.

Ordered to Egbert

Lieut. R. H. Pope received orders in the last mail to proceed to Fort Egbert, on the Yukon, and report for duty at that post. The lieutenant was assigned to Fort Egbert previous to his arrival at Skagway. He has tarried so long in this city, however, that the many friends the lieutenant and the ladies of his family have made in Skagway began to hope that his assignment to Fort Egbert might be countermanded. Lieut. Pope will not proceed down the Yukon until after the adjournment of the general court-martial, now in session at Skagway post, and when he goes he will leave his family here indefinitely.

Dyna Spuds

E. A. Klatt, the Dyna valley farmer, has sent for a three-horse power gasoline engine, which he proposes to install in his Columbia river fishing boat lately purchased from F. E. Anderson.

Mr. Klatt is making a specialty of raising potatoes and has made extensive experiments with every variety of seed he has been able to obtain. He is installing an extensive irrigating plant at the farm for the purpose of giving the sands two or three thorough waterings every season. This, he says, is essential to their thorough maturing.

Every fall he drives his team down to the shallower riffles of the Dyna river, and with a pitchfork tosses the dog-skin that glut the stream into his wagon. Load after load, to the extent of many tons, he piles these fish in layers, alternated with potato tops, straw or seaweed, into a huge stack. This compact heap is left to decay for the period of a year, and is then scattered on his fields to fertilize the crops.

To the Trade

As the old adage goes, if you want anything you must go after it. It is the same with a bargain. I have the remainder of W. H. Robertson's stock at warehouse, which consists of men's, ladies' and boys' shoes, neckties, collars, cuffs, sweaters, overalls, jumpers, caps, etc., which I will close out at cost.
