

LIFE OF SOLDIERS IN THE JAPANESE CAMP

Sturdy Islanders Have Little to Do and Seem to Enjoy Themselves Thoroughly. Typical Scenes About the Camp.

Field Headquarters, H. I. J. M., Second Army, Manchuria.—It is now five weeks since the battle of Sa-Ho was finished, and during all that time the army has been lying practically unoccupied. There has been a little fighting on the flanks, but not much, and of course, the trenches and the fighting line have been heavily manned night and day. But there has really been little work for the soldiers to do and they have plenty of time to rest and play, both of which things they needed after the terrible fatigues of the eight days' desperate fighting which were required before the position now held was occupied.

Preparing for Winter.

And the army is enjoying itself and preparing for winter. Just opposite our quarters in this little village a hundred Chinamen are busily engaged all day long in cutting firewood. The village has been denuded of its fine old trees that the soldiers in the trenches may be kept warm. It seems too bad to cut down the glorious old trees, but everything must give way before necessity, particularly in time of war. A little way down the road a dozen brick ovens have been built in the side of a bank, and there are a score or more of soldiers burning charcoal. In Japan great quantities of charcoal are used in the "hibachis," the little metal bowls in which fires are kept burning and over which the Japanese warm their hands. At the front the soldiers must still have their "hibachis," but here they are made of empty shrapnel cases. The Russians are using some very large guns, nearly six inches in diameter, and lucky is the soldier who secures an empty shrapnel case fired from one of these guns for his "hibachi." Whenever one of these shells strikes inside the lines the soldiers rush for it and any time of day, when the Russians are firing, one can see a dozen men good-naturedly squabbling for one of these coveted shells in the headquarters of the regiments or the divisions the favorite "hibachi" is formed of a captured Russian drum.

A Typical Village.

Our village is a typical one. There are a score or more just like it within a radius of a few miles. It is composed of little mud-walled compounds in each of which are one or two old brick houses. All the houses in Manchuria, at least all I have seen, are old. The compounds are dirty, of that one may be absolutely certain, before even entering them. It certainly never enters

FIRST UMBRELLA IN AMERICA

CAUSED A RIOT IN THE STREETS OF BALTIMORE WHEN IT APPEARED IN 1772.

(Baltimore Herald.)
How many persons know that Baltimore is the American home of the umbrella; that away back in 1772 the first umbrella ever seen in the United States marched through Baltimore town with a man under it; that good old colonial dames ran for their lives at sight of it; that horses hopped fences and tore wildly from meeting-house posts; that barmaids in yeg good old tavern, with ye good old grog in their hands, ran to doors and windows to see the show, while ye star dipsomaniac shouted with "much power and great vigor" that he would never touch another drop; that small boys throw stones at it, and that the town was in an uproar?

Yet such is history. A book in the city library says it is so; hence it must be so. In fact, there is not the slightest doubt of it, for the night watch (who is called night watch because he worked in the day) sent in a riot call, and re-enforcements were only prevented turning out because there was only one night watchman on the force in those good but somewhat uncertain days.

It is to be regretted that the umbrella was not made here. It was a foreigner, thought it was brought by a Baltimorean on a Baltimore ship from India. Imagine the figure the gentleman must have cut in the eyes of the populace as he meandered from the dock with the village dog at his back and the village dogs at his heels. There is no record to show whether he was chased out of town on the quaint old charge of being possessed of the devil or was taken gently but firmly to the ducking pond and dropped in. But whatever happened to him it is a very good bet that he did not wander around long without encountering trouble of some kind.

Yet if he lived it was to laugh. He lived to see others adopt the imported instrument which at first caused so much apprehension. He saw the idea expand and broaden. The fame of the Baltimore umbrella traveled to Philadelphia, and soon it was adopted by the Quakers with much enthusiasm. Next it was heard of in New York, where the Holland Dutch, who had brought nothing with them from the other side but the language they spoke marveled among themselves, saying, "Verly this is a good thing to push along."

And thus from town to town the umbrella craze spread. The bicycle mania of later years was nothing compared to it, and the "auto" craze is not worth mentioning in the same breath. Everybody cried for them. They became the fashion. They became inseparable from the village sages, who could not walk unless they had their umbrella under their arms, or mayhap over their heads. The umbrella became a badge of rank and dignity.

And all because away back in 1772 a lone man walked through Baltimore town carrying one, the first umbrella seen in this part of the world.

COMING EVENT AT LAKE WORTH

MANY FAST BOATS WILL ENTER INTERNATIONAL REGATTA TO BE HELD THERE.

(Jacksonville Metropolis.)
Three of the swiftest motor boats in America were shipped from New York Friday for the First International Power Boat Regatta and Carnival which will be held on Lake Worth, February 1st, 2d and 3d. A telegram to that effect was received this morning by Fred Steyer from Mr. W. J. Morgan, who represents the Palm Beach Power Boat Association in the North. Mr. Morgan said that at least one other racing machine would be shipped within a day or two.

The three boats shipped are owned by Mr. Frank Croker, Mr. Parker Smith and Mr. W. Gould Brokaw. All three are record breakers and in the local regatta will meet for the first time. The races which they enter will be worth going miles to see.

The best known of these boats is Mr. Croker's XPING, a 44-foot craft, which broke the world's record for long distance motor boat speeding. This record was made on the Hudson river between New York and Poughkeepsie. Mr. Brokaw's boat is a new one which showed up very well in her preliminary try-out.

No End of Interest.

No end of interest is being taken in the regatta and carnival by yacht clubs up and down the coast. Word has been received from Commodore Sewall, of the Gilbert's Bar Yacht Club, that a fleet of forty boats will cruise down the coast to Lake Worth and take part in the parade. High speed craft will enter the races.

The Halifax River Yacht Club is arranging to attend the regatta in a body, making the voyage from Daytona in fleet formation. They will meet at an appointed place near Palm Beach and steam into port together.

Commodore Allen said in this regard to a Palm Beach News reporter: "It will be a big advertisement for Daytona if we succeed in getting a large number of boats to go to the races at Palm Beach. Each boat would, of course, fly the flag of its own country in white letters on its official flags. We could assemble at some point north of Palm Beach and make our entry there a spectacular one."

Everything Satisfactory.

The boats of the Biscayne Yacht Club will have to make a voyage of eighty-five miles to participate in the regatta, but many of them are coming. The secretary of this club is Kirk Munroe, of Coccolan Grove, the well known writer of boys' books.

In one of the launches of the Poinciana fleet, two survivors went over the course Friday. They took soundings for me the four miles down the lake and just before the races the course will be carefully buoyed. It is the intention of the regatta committee to have the start and finish of the races near the Palm Beach shore; just below the Poincianas. This will add greatly to the interest of the race and enable those who do not charter launches to see the races to an advantage. The depth of water is entirely satisfactory and a few shoals will be carefully marked. The longest race for the auto boats is eight miles down the lake and return.

Insulted His Legs.

—Apropos of knee breeches a correspondent of the London Express quotes an anecdote from Captain Gronow's "Recollections" which puts the whole case in a nutshell. The ballie de ferrette was always dressed in knee breeches, with a cocked hat and a court sword, the slender proportions of which greatly resembled those of his legs. "Do tell me, my dear ballie," said Montmond one day, "have you got three legs or three swords?" Soon after which, we should imagine, the ballie went home.

Damages Enough.

There had been a railway collision near a Scottish country town, and an astute local attorney had hurried to the scene of disaster. Noticing an old man with a badly damaged head lying on the ground, he approached him with notebook in hand. "How about damages, my man?" he began. The injured man waved him off with the remark: "Na, na; ye'll get nae damages frae me. It wasna me that hit yer bloomin' auld train."

A Memory Method.

Association is the vital spring of memory, and any one who analyzes his thought process may catch himself recalling a thing by a series of allied things. Many people have tried to systematize association and arrange a scientific memory method.
