VISIT OF BRYAN TO EMPRE OF JAPAN

Extracts from Japanese Papers Regarding Visit of the Great Commoner.

The last issue of Mr. Bryan's Commoner contained the following: Japanese newspapers, copies of which have recently received at the Commoner office, give interesting accounts of Mr. Bryan's visit in Japan. It is impossible with the Commoner's limited space to reproduce all that these newspapers say concerning Mr. Bryan's visit, but some extracts will doubtless be interesting to Commoner readers. The Japan News, in one issue, tells of a dinner given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan by the "America's Friends Association." It is related that Viscount Nagaoaka proposed the health of President Roosevelt, which was heartily received and that then Mr. Bryan proposed the toast of the Emperor of Japan in these words: "Our Bible says that he that ruleth his own spirit is greater than he that taketh a city. I propose the health of one who has shown his ability to do both—his majesty the Emperor."

It is said that Mr. Bryan's toast was received with great enthusiasm. Baron Kaneko extended a welcome to Mr. Bryan, and the Japan Times says that Mr. Bryan responded in a speech which called for "continued applause." Responding to Baron Kaneko's address of welcome, Mr. Bryan said:

Bryan's Response.
"I appreciate more than words can express your cordial reception and this opportunity of addressing those who have shown their interest in the United States by attending its colleges. I thank Baron Kaneko for the kind words spoken by him in regard to myself and, on behalf of my countrymen, I reciprocate most heartily his expressions of friendship for the United States. He speaks of our countries as surrounding the Pacific and trusts that the relations between the two nations may always be pacific. When I began to read history I thought that the Mediterranean sea separated the Roman empire into a number of parts, but I soon learned that the sea was really a great highway which united the empire, and so the Pacific ocean is a bond of union between our land and yours, and allow me to express the hope that all our differences may be grown in its depths and that our sympathies may be united by its waters. Baron Kaneko has been kind enough to praise my speaking, but after hearing him speak a foreign language I can imagine how eloquent he would be if he spoke in his native tongue. I am sure he would be easily won to the prize ever if I tried to speak in your language."

Ideal Always Controls.
"I will not attempt to reproduce the Madison Square Garden speech to which he has referred, but will suggest a few lines which seem to me appropriate to the occasion. As the members of this society have paid my country a high compliment by visiting it for the purpose of study so one of your members paid me the highest compliment I ever received. When only eighteen he conceived the idea of visiting my home to study the science of government. Crossing a wide ocean and traveling nearly two thousand miles inland he became a member of our family. He remained with us for more than five years and his excellent conduct and exemplary habits gave us a very favorable opinion of the Japanese. It was an ideal that led this boy to cross the Pacific and it was an ideal that led each of you to go to America to pursue your studies. The ideal is a most important thing, for it is not only permanent but it controls the life. Give a man bread and he will hunger again; give him clothing and his clothing will wear out, but give him a high ideal and that ideal will be with him through every working hour, lifting him to a higher plane in life and giving him a higher conception of his relations to his fellowmen. I do not understand your politics well enough to know whether you have parties as we have, but the ideal controls the party as it controls the individual. That party which has the highest ideal will in time control the destiny of the nation. Nations also have ideals. Some individuals think only of what they get from others, while some think rather of what they can do for others. So with nations; they may have a low ideal and spend their energies in a selfish endeavor to get the best of other nations or they may have a high ideal and try to benefit the world."

Japanese Progress.
"There is no reason why nations should not be mutually helpful. Each nation is able to do some things better than any other nation. Each nation can impart knowledge. I hope that more of your people will visit our country and more of our people visit your country in order that each may in the fullest measure help the other."

Baron Kaneko has described our nation as the greatest republic on earth. I can reply that Japan has made more progress in the last fifty years than any other nation has ever made in the same length of time. Your emperor chose as the word to designate his reign a word which means enlightenment. The selection of this word was prophetic, for his reign has been one of great enlightenment. When he reaches the end of life and goes to join the ancestral spirits he will have the proud consciousness that no other ruler has ever witnessed among so many of his people such remarkable progress in what makes a nation great.

world by her valor and success on land and sea she has greater victories before her along the lines of peaceful development. Carlyle, in concluding his book on the French revolution, says that thought is stronger than artillery parks but that love is even stronger than thought. Let me close with the hope that good-will may exist between us and between all nations and that the rivalry may be, not to see which can injure each other most but which can contribute most to the welfare of the human race."

ALLIANCE OF THE BUILDING TRADES

Formed Last Night, When First Meeting Was Held—J. M. Johnson President.

A new organization, composing all of the men connected with the building trade unions of the city was organized last night. The new central body is to be known as the Structural Building Trades Alliance of America, and will control all of the carpenters, brick layers, plasterers, painters, decorators, etc., in the city. The meeting last night was for organization and five unions were represented when it was called to order, all of these connected with the above organizations. Officers were elected as follows: President—Jas. M. Johnson, of the Carpenters Union. Vice-President—W. L. Vermillion, of the Bricklayers and Plasterers Union. Secretary—Thos. Allen, of the Painters and Decorators Union. Treasurer—R. J. Gordon, of the Carpenters Union.

The object of the alliance is to encourage the formation of local alliances of building tradesmen and the conferring of such power and authority upon the several locals of this alliance as may advance the interests and welfare of the building trades; to adjust disputes along practical lines as they arise from time to time between unions and to create a more harmonious feeling between the employer and employee.

Dr. Finn's Testimony Interesting.

It stops irregularities and builds up the whole system. W. A. D'Alemberte, Druggist and Apothecary.

Feed Is More Than Breed

THE right feed will convert the veriest scrub into a paying animal. Add Sucrose Dairy Feed to the present ration. Note the immediate gain in milk and the improved appearance of the cow. The extra milk more than pays for the feed, while the evidence of better health indicates the complete assimilation of Sucrose Dairy Feed and a greater utilization of the roughage. It's the business end of the ration. A trial will convince.

Ausley & Co.'s Cotton Letter.
New York, Nov. 24.—The European markets made a very poor showing today, opening from 3 up on spots to 16 down on futures.

This caused our market to partly follow the European decline, and after a decline of about 15 points from previous close strong interests took charge of the market and forced prices back to a few points above last night's close.

In the afternoon the bear leaders began to get in their work and on reports of continued fair weather forced prices again to the lowest prices of the day.

The average estimates for this year's crop made up by the most conservative people in the trade ranges about 10,250,000, and taking into consideration the large increase in demand for cotton goods and the increased determination of the farmers to hold for higher prices we don't see how any sane man can afford to go short of the market and we adhere to our expressed opinion that cotton bought conservatively will show handsome returns.
