MOTHER'S FRIEND

REAPPORTIONMENT WILL BE AN ISSUE

Tallahassee Sun

Two bills in the house and one in the senate have been introduced to reapportion the representation of the counties in the senate as well as in the house of representatives.

By the constitution of Florida this reapportionment should be made every ten years, the time of the last session of the legislature in nineteen hundred and seven being the end of one of these decades. That legislature neglected to do this and the question arises as to whether this body should take action or whether the matter should lie dormant until nineteen hundred and fourteen.

The members who will gain something by reapportionment and a majority of those who will neither gain nor lose will be in favor of an overhauling of the whole state representation. In their minds a change should be made since there are over a dozen large counties which have only one representative in the house. Having talked to several of these men we find that the general sentiment of both the houses is in favor of some kind of reapportionment.

By the bill of Mr. Harris introduced in the senate some of the smaller counties, (according to population), will lose a representative or a senator.

According to the bill of Mr. Stokes, of Escambia, no county will lose; every one shall have at least as many as she now has and the larger ones according to their population will get, as Mr. Stokes says, almost as much as they should according to their larger population but none of these thinly populated districts will lose.

"An' how about the senate?" asked our reporter.

"Each county," said Mr. Stokes, "will be a senatorial district which will give every county a senator instead of under the present condition when two and three counties have to take turns about every four years to get represented in the senate."

The other measures to this effect are bills under the present constitution while that of Mr. Stokes is a constitutional amendment to be "put to the people." The bills could never be satisfactory since the constitution only provides for sixty-eight representatives and thirty-two senators. By a just reapportionment to the larger counties under the present constitution the bills could never favorably pass the representatives that would be lost by it.

"I should think your bill would go straight through Mr. Stokes."

The same bill was introduced in the house last session and passed the house but was lost in the senate. It is almost a certainty that some measure will be carried out, and Stokes seems to have the one that will get the votes. The bill shows care in preparation throughout. Some one asked Mr. Stokes if the halls would not have to be enlarged to hold and seat the new members, but he replied that measurement had been taken of the halls before the bill was prepared; which goes to show that no detail was neglected.

Forced Into Exile.

Wm. Upchurch, of Glen Oak, Okla., was an exile from home. Mountain air, he thought, would cure a frightful, lung-racking cough that had defied all remedies for two years. After six months he returned, death dogging his steps. "Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery," he writes, "and after taking six bottles I am as well as ever." It saves thousands yearly from desperate lung diseases. Infalible for Coughs and Colds, it dispels Hoarseness and Sore Throat. Cures Grip, Bronchitis, Hemorrhages, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, 50c and $1.00, trial bottle free, guaranteed by all druggists.

Easily Explained.

The old farmer with the blue umbrella stood in front of a modern apartment house. Up on the third story two couples were billing and cooing from their respective windows, down on the second there was spooning on the fire escape, while in the basement the janitor was making love to a maid.

"Ha! ha!" laughed the old farmer, triumphantly. "Now I know why they call these here apartment houses 'courts.' Never saw so much courting going on in my life, by heck!"

Behind the Scenes.

Harker—Who is that little dried up man with the long nose. Doesn't look as if he weighs eighty pounds? Barker—Why, that is the 'heavy tragedian.' Harker—And who is the big six-footer with the shoulders like an ox? Barker—Oh, he is the light comedian.

Correct.

Hi—Jim Tagwood says he kin juggle ten eggs 'n' wunst! Keek 'em all in th' air an' never smash a one! Hi—Gee! He must be ambidextrous! Hi—By gum! He is, if that's Greek for "blamed liar!"

COST OF LIVING HAS INCREASED

FORTY-SEVEN PER CENT MORE THAN TWELVE YEARS AGO—THE DINGLEY TARIFF BILL.

If the cost of living increased 47.4 per cent during the ten years of the Dingley tariff between 1896 and 1897, how much more will it cost the average family to live under the tariff bill now before congress?

This is a problem for tariff arithmetic for the public to think over while congress is preparing to pass the Payne bill with a few minor changes. The Payne bill, after revision by the senate finance committee, is admitted an advance in rates over the Dingley or present tariff law. Just how much of an advance, not even the Republicans know for a certainty. The increase over present rates is estimated all the way from 1.44 to 30 per cent. The exact increase cannot be known until the last administrative measure of the bill has been incorporated, which will probably be in the few minutes just preceding the passage of the measure.

To understand what the real meaning of an increase of tariff rates over the Dingley law is to the consumer, the record of the effect of the Dingley tariff is interesting.

Dun's commercial agency has for years kept careful track of prices of the commodities which are of general daily consumption. The cost of living increased 47.4 per cent during the ten years of the Dingley tariff preceding 1907. What could be bought for $72.45 in July, 1897, cost $106.79 in June, 1906. The rise was steady and gradual.

While wages during the same period increased nominally 18 per cent, the cost of living increased 29.4 per cent in advance of wages.

What Records Show.

The statistical abstract of the United States shows the effect of the Dingley law on various commodities. In reading each of the following comparisons it should be borne in mind that the present tariff bill materially increases the Dingley tariff.

Breadstuffs costing $10.50 in 1896 cost $18.16 in 1907.

Meats costing $7.05 in 1896 cost $5.64 in 1907.

Dairy and garden products costing $7.37 in 1896 cost $14.46 in 1907.

Other food costing $8.53 in 1896 cost $9.82 in 1907.

Clothing costing $13.60 in 1896 cost $26.10 in 1907.

Metals costing $13.23 in 1896 cost $17.52 in 1907.

Miscellaneous items costing $13.52 in 1896 cost $19.24 in 1907.

The Give and Take Scheme.

"The increase of the cost of wearing apparel and foodstuffs under the Dingley tariff was gradual and steady," said Hon. James M. Graham in the house. "Figures speak eloquently of the absolutely scientific manner in which the workingman's wages are reduced in fact, although the unions have been able to obtain a slight nominal increase. They give the laborer eighteen cents with one hand and take forty-seven cents from him with the other."

The condition of labor at the end of ten years' operation of the Dingley tariff was shown at a meeting of the prominent labor men of the country at the office of former Secretary of Commerce and Labor Oscar S. Straus on February 10, 1909.

Samuel Gompers, on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, reported that he had sent out circular letters to the executive officers of the international trade unions in December, 1908, and from the replies gathered the following information:

Blacksmiths, 50 per cent unemployed; those employed averaging about four days a week; carpenters, 40 per cent unemployed; cigarmakers, 10 per cent unemployed; commercial telegraphers, 30 per cent unemployed; freight handlers, 30 per cent unemployed; hod carriers and building laborers, 60 per cent unemployed; butcher workers, 40 per cent unemployed; tobacco workers, working on two-thirds time; iron moulders, 70 per cent unemployed.

Mr. Gompers: "I am sure it is not an exaggeration to say that there are now in our country, and have been with very little variation since October, 1907, nearly 2,000,000 wage-earners unemployed."

Secretary Straus: "Do you mean that before that period 2,000,000 wage-earners were employed?"

Mr. Gompers: "I do, sir."

"Whah's det onery bull pup yo' owned, Mistah Simpson?" asked the neighbor with the bucket and white-wash brush.

"Huh!" grunted Mistah Simpson. "Dat dawg got so vicious Ah traded him off for a plug ob tobacco."

"Gosh, dat was a queer trade, wasn't it, Mistah Simpson?"

"Not et all, sah. Ah knew ef Ah kept dat dawg he'd chew me, so Ah thought Ah'd trade him off for a plug ob tobacco en do sum chewing mahself."

The Small Brother Again.

It was the first warm night of springtime and they sat out in the park under the stars. Suddenly there was the sound of a snapping twig in the tree near them.

"Dear me, George," she whispered. "What kind of a tree is that?"

George looked up and discovered a pair of juvenile eyes peering through the branches.

"Hm!" he muttered sleepily. "Looks to me like a rubber tree."

ECLIPSE IN JUNE MOON AND SUN

THE MOON WILL BE HIDDEN ON THE THIRD—IT WILL BE VISIBLE HERE.

Astronomers are greatly interested in the coming total eclipse of the moon, which occurs on the evening of Thursday, June 3d. The phenomenon may be observed all over the continent if the sky is clear.

In this section the rise of the moon will be almost normal and the people may watch the shadow of the earth gradually steal over the lunar body. But further in the continent, probably on the other side of the Mississippi, the inhabitants will first see an odd looking disc of a faint reddish color rise from the east.

When the moon rises here only a narrow portion of it will be observed. Gradually it will enter deeper and deeper into the earth's shadow until the moon gives no light and is only barely perceptible.

Not a Black Eclipse.

This year the moon does not enter into the heart of the earth's shadow, so there will not be a black eclipse. The moon, however, will be in the shadow of the earth for over an hour and practically the only light from the heavens will be that of the stars.

The reason why the moon will be invisible is the influence of the earth's atmosphere, which bends the sun's rays at the edges of illuminated hemispheres of our planet and throws on the moon a faint glow, generally of a red copper hue. It results from the absorption in our atmosphere of the green, blue and violet rays in the sun's light while the red rays pass through it. It is much the same as the sunset glow, though infinitely more faint.

As the phenomenon of the eclipse develops, the children will be able to see for themselves the truth of the statement they learned from their geographies.

Eclipse of the Sun.

An eclipse of the sun will be witnessed a fortnight later, on Thursday, June 17th, shortly before sunset. The only effect that it will have is to send the chickens to roost an hour or two earlier.

The lunar eclipse is precisely the same as that which saved the lives of Columbus and his party in the isle of Jamaica in the year 1504. The natives refused them food. Columbus, knowing that an eclipse was due, told them that God was angry because of their inhospitality, and would take away the light of the moon. The moment that the natives saw the light going, they rushed to their storehouses and brought out their choicest viands, supplicating the "white angels" to bring back their moon. Columbus handed it back in about an hour.

The earliest account of an eclipse was discovered in the tomb of a Chinese emperor. The date has been fixed by chronologists as January 29, 1136 B. C.
