MISS ELIZABETH RISQUE BROWNSON

Miss Elizabeth Risque Brownson, one of this season's post-war debutantes, is the elder of the two winsome daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Brownson and though she has not always made her home in the city, Pensacola claims her as one of her own daughters. The magnetic personality and sweet, appealing personal charm has made her one of the favorites in the Younger Society Set. Miss Brownson has a blonde beauty with exquisite delicacy of coloring and features of a pure, classical type.

STUDY QUESTIONS FOR SHAKESPEARE-BROWNING CLUB

Mrs. John Pace will be hostess to the Shakespeare-Browning club at the regular meeting on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Subject for study will be Act 11, of Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure."

Questions for study: 1—How does Escalus advise Angelo concerning the application of the law to Claudio? What irony is there in Angelo's reply? Compare the two magistrates. 2—What humor do you see in Pompey? Note the characteristics of Elbow. 3—Is there a dramatic purpose in Scene 11, that travesties justice? What is it? Escalus says, "Mercy is not itself that looks so," interpret this. 4—How is the thought of pardoning Claudio managed in Scene 11, so as to grow in intensity and to take the place as a part of the justice of things. 5—What is the temper of Angelo's speech? Explain lines 74-79. Scene 11. When does justice become pity in his philosophy? How near right was he? 6—By what turn in Isabella's pleading was Angelo won to reconsider Claudio's case? 7—Comment on Angelo's soliloquy. Was it to avenge his injured self pride that Angelo meditated the damage to Isabella's chastity? How does Angelo think the temptation comes? 8—Scene 111, while adding little to the action yet adds what to the plot? 9—What does Angelo imply in lines 35-46—Scene IV? 10—Is there honesty in Angelo's speech lines 43-49? 11—When Angelo accuses Isabella of craft in not following his meaning, is he not himself employing craft to lead her into a trap? Did Angelo add cruelty to his other trait? Why could not Isabella denounce Angelo for what he is?

Miss Van Dorn Clemmons of Mobile is spending several days in Pensacola. She will be joined by her mother Mrs. C. E. Clemmons today or tomorrow.

A LEAP YEAR GIRL.

(By Edmund Vance Cooke.)

"Suppose that I sit on the arm of your chair
And admire your new necktie and rumple your hair.
And tell you a story or two
Of Johnny and Jennie, and Harry and Kate,
And Mary and William and Selma and Nate—
Well, what are you going to do?"

"Suppose that I try to remember some tune
Of the revels of roses in rapturous
June,
But you cannot give me a clue,
And then I remember its name is 'The Kiss'
And I start in to whistle it something like this—
Well, what are you going to do?"

"Suppose that I tell you I realize quite That living is high and that rents are a fright
And twice one is commonly two,
But I don't believe that my love need grow cold
Just because I should keep the good job that I hold—
Well, what are you going to do?"

In joint celebration of their birthdays which come near the same time Dozier and Dorothy Andrews, little son and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Andrews, charmingly entertained about sixty of their young friends at the home of their parents yesterday afternoon.

The spacious home was opened en-suite and turned over to the enjoyment of the young people. In the reception hall and dining room quantities of yellow roses were used with ferns and palms and in the drawing room a profusion of pink carnations were background with palms and ferns.

Interesting and novel games were played, prizes being won by Gene Hancock and Jack Baldwin. All during the afternoon punch was dispensed from a large cut-glass bowl placed on a prettily rosebud and fern decorated table in the reception hall.

In the dining room, where a dainty ice course and confections was served the color motif of yellow was emphasized with wide yellow satin streamers extending from the chandelier to the four corners of the room. Two tables were placed each centered with a large birthday cake, beautifully embossed in yellow and white and placed on a large reflector surrounded with graceful sprays of rosebuds and ferns. At the ends of either table tall cut-glass vases held yellow roses with falling sprays of ferns.

One cake held six yellow candles and the other eight. White Cluny lace over yellow satin covered the tables and the favors were exquisite yellow rosebuds. The candies and mints were in yellow and white and the cream was served in dainty yellow flower cups. The fancy individual cakes were iced in yellow and white and monogrammed with the combined initials of the two honorees. Dozier and Dorothy received many lovely gifts as a remembrance of the happy event.

"EVERYTHING NEW THAT'S GOOD"

"Now that the war is over I'll save time and money"

We heard a woman say this recently and asked her what she meant.

"Why," she replied, "I heard so much about the patriotic duty of a woman to market personally and release delivery boys for the Service, I used to walk clear to the nearest Cash-and-Carry Store. By the time I was waited on, and had my packages wrapped and lugged them home, I was a nervous wreck. I never got the kind of merchandise I was accustomed to and lost money by gambling on unknown brands!"

Even if you could save 5c a day—that's 30c per week—don't you expend many times that amount in time and energy? Economy should be judged by the ultimate saving.

We save your time, your energy, and your money, too, because you are always sure of getting the purest and best provisions. We know the exact quality of the goods we recommend, because we test them.

Take RYZON—we were among the first to recognize that RYZON was a baking powder different from anything we'd ever tried.

The RYZON Baking Book takes the "guess" out of baking. 200 tried recipes give you a menu variety unheard of in any other manual. Original price was $1.00; it now costs 30c—ask us about it.
