ALMOST BLIND AND A CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM, NUMBER 40 GIVES RELIEF

Read the following unsolicited testimonial from Mrs. W. F. Smith, box 592, Murphysboro, Ill.: "My daughter was almost blind with corneitis (inflammation of the eyes) had inflammatory rheumatism so bad she had to go on crutches. The doctors gave her up, so we tried change of climate, but nothing did her any good. I read an advertisement of Number 40 Fog The Blood and decided to try it. After taking the second bottle she was much improved, has now taken five bottles, her eyes have both cleared and her limbs are sound and well, and she has not the least symptoms of the trouble returning. My father, 65 years of age, was an invalid for nine years with rheumatism, is now taking his fifth bottle, can get around as good as anybody, and says he feels 15 years younger since taking Number 40. My daughter's case has opened the eyes of quite a number of sufferers from rheumatism as well as myself, who believe 40 the best medicine on earth." 40 is demanded in chronic inflammation of mucous membranes; in chronic rheumatism, catarrh, eczema, skin eruptions, constipation, indigestion, stomach, liver and kidney disorders. Made by J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., 40 years a druggist. Sold by McIntyre Drug Co.

Life Was a Misery

Mrs. F. M. Jones, of Palmer, Okla., writes: "From the time I entered into womanhood . . . I looked with dread from one month to the next. I suffered with my back and bearing-down pain, until life to me was a misery. I would think I could not endure the pain any longer, and I gradually got worse. . . Nothing seemed to help me until, one day, . . . I decided to

TAKE

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"I took four bottles," Mrs. Jones goes on to say, "and was not only greatly relieved, but can truthfully say that I have not a pain. . ."

"It has now been two years since I took Cardui, and I am still in good health. . . I would advise any woman or girl to use Cardui who is a sufferer from any female trouble."

If you suffer pain caused from womanly trouble, or if you feel the need of a good strengthening tonic to build up your run-down system, take the advice of Mrs. Jones. Try Cardui. It helped her. We believe it will help you.

MR. PENGUIN'S QUEER WAYS.

"Some of us," said Mr. Penguin, "are very handsome fellows. Green-black and golden backs and plumage about our necks and chests—ah, very lovely, very lovely. We're known as the King Penguins, we are; pretty fine, high-sounding family name."

"And we are known as the Mrs. King Penguins," said Mrs. Penguin. "It's funny they never called us queens when they call you kings."

"Of course, it doesn't mean that you are kings and live on thrones and wear crowns. It's just a name you have, just a name."

"I'm glad," said the King Penguin, "that I don't have to wear a crown. What a nuisance it would be. In fact I'm a simple soul. I'm perfectly pleased when you call me Mr. Penguin, or your loving mate, rather than King or Your Honor."

"I never heard anyone call you that," said Mrs. Penguin, "any more than I ever knew anyone who called me Your Ladyship."

"My cousin, Mr. Penguin, known as the Emperor Penguin," said Mr. King Penguin, "also enjoys South Georgia, as we do. We like living far away. I've heard there's a state called Georgia in the United States—but that's not where we are, and if folks would care to take out their maps, they'd see where we are."

"Now Mrs. Emperor Penguin stays about on the ice when her young is born; just as you do, my love, just as you do. And lays the eggs on the ice, as you do, too."

"There are no land animals down here—no, indeed; we have things pretty much to ourselves."

"There are seventeen species of us, I believe. Now, take some of the cousins. There's young Johnny Penguin, a relative of the Adele Penguin family."

"There are penguins to be found about many of the islands far south. In the Southern hemisphere, I believe it is called; and under the equator we have cousins known as Gallipoli penguins. And there are penguins at the Cape of Good Hope and the African coast."

"Ah, yes, we're a large family when counting all of us and all our relatives besides."

"But, don't you think I'm a good fellow, Mrs. Penguin, said Mr. Penguin, as he stood and looked at his mate. His black feathers and his white waistcoat looked smarter and more handsome than ever to Mrs. Penguin's affectionate eyes."

"You're good, except when you fight," she laughed. "But I don't suppose you can help that."

"But, Mrs. Penguin," said Mr. Penguin, "what difference does it make

"What a Nuisance!"

If I fight? I never do any real harm. I never have hurt IT. Have I?"

"No," admitted Mrs. Penguin, "you haven't."

"And we make friends with great men they call explorers, who come to far out-of-the-way parts of the world to see what places there are they can discover. We help to make their time nice and sociable."

"Yes," said Mrs. Penguin. "But, of course, you can't do that now, for you're in the zoo."

"Of course, I can't do that now," said Mr. Penguin, "but I am telling you that I'm really a pretty good fellow, after all."

"What do you mean by 'after all'?" asked Mrs. Penguin.

"Nothing in particular," said Mr. Penguin. "It's just a way I have of talking."

And Mr. Penguin is a pretty good fellow, too, for he carries the eggs (which will be the little penguins) for Mrs. Penguin in his pouch, after she has laid them.

He does enjoy a good, jolly sort of a fight, and he doesn't care whether he is carrying an egg or so, or not! But it doesn't make any difference, for, though he may fight and have a regular penguin battle, still the eggs never break, safely kept in the soft skin, which makes a little place for the egg between his feet.

So Mrs. Penguin had to admit, and all the Mrs. Penguins have to admit, that the Mr. Penguins are pretty good fellows. They may fight in a fun-making sort of way, but the eggs of the little penguins are always, always safe with them!
