GEORGE AT WORK.

Our Senior Senator Urges Anti-Option Laws.—Other Matters.

Washington, Feb. 1, 1895.—Senator George, of Mississippi, has been confined to his house for several days by sickness. He has ready for presentation to the Senate the report of the committee on agricultural depression, which he has been investigating for several months past. A considerable portion will be devoted to arguments for the suppression of dealing in options. There is no chance for the passage at this session of the anti-option bill. Two of the chief advocates of that bill, Senator Washburn of Minnesota, and Mr. Hatch of Missouri, will not be members of the next congress.

A bill has been favorably reported from the house committee on public lands, providing for the restoration to the public domain of lands in Alabama and Mississippi not needed for naval purposes. In the early part of the present century a number of tracts of land in the states of Florida, Alabama, and Mississippi were reserved from the public domain for naval purposes, as a source of supply for live oak timber. At that time the probable future needs of the government appeared to warrant the segregation from the public domain of these extensive tracts, particularly in view of the fact that live oak was then the chief material used for the heavy timbers of naval vessels. In consequence, however, of the general disuse of wood in a naval construction, such timber is now no longer required in any quantity for naval uses, and the department has for many years past given no attention to said lands.

CHILD INSURANCE.

War Being Raised Upon the Practice in Tennessee.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Since the introduction of a bill in the Legislature seeking to prohibit life insurance companies from insuring the lives of infants in Tennessee, the fight against the practice may be said to be on an earnest, and it seems to have made its seat of war at Chattanooga. Some time ago Dr. Holland, ex-City Physician, received a letter from President Plunkett of the State Board of Health, requesting him to look into the matter here, as he believed many children were being murdered for the insurance money. Dr. Holland had entertained some suspicions of that kind himself, and his investigation that followed only confirmed his belief. If the bill now pending in the Legislature passes it will put a stop to this awful practice, which, of course, is found mostly among the lower classes and negroes. There are, however, two companies doing infant life insurance in Tennessee. The favorite method used to put the children out of the way is strangulation—starvation having the second choice.
