MISCELLANEOUS.

No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. Rice, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Clin. O., Nov. 16, 1881.
Gents—The foolish wasting of vital force in pleasure, vice, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes you prepared to die sooner; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

Longfellow said, "In this world a man must be either axil or hammet." Longfellow was wrong, however. Lots of men are neither the active hammer nor the sturdy axil; they are nothing but bellow.

If the style in bathing costumes continues to progress as it now is doing, it will be but a few seasons until the equatorial bathing suits will be all the rage. The equatorial consists of an imaginary line drawn around the middle.

"What are you going to do when you grow up if you don't know how to cipher?" asked a teacher of a slow boy. "I'm going to be a school teacher and make the boys do the ciphering," was the reply. That boy will get along if he couldn't cipher.

There is a beautiful pectoral common throughout a portion of Mexico, for little children to kneel before a stranger and pray that he may have a safe journey. And the mothers of the children have a pride, not so beautiful, of "laying" for the stranger in the forest with a jack-knife two feet long.

"She thirsted for one food—she starved for a kiss denied," says Ella Wheeler in one of her poems. Poor thing! In these days, when "food looks" are flying all about from every street corner, and "kisses" are not defined when anybody sees them, it is hard to do without them. But after all, she did it.

Before marriage: "Excuse me, George. Did my parasol burn?" says the woman. "Oh no, my dear. It would be a pleasure if it did." After marriage: "Great heavens! There was never a woman under the sun that knew how to carry a parasol without scratching a fellow's eye out." And there never was a man that knew enough to walk on the right side of a woman with a parasol. "There isn't any right side to a woman with a parasol."
