The Reasons for the Club

To provide a way for those of moderate and even small means to bank their money.
To teach "the saving habit" to those who have never learned it.
It makes your pennies, nickels and dimes, often foolishly spent grow into dollars; dollars grow into a fortune. Start your fortune today.
To give you a bank connection and show you how our bank can be of service to you.

For Old and Young The sensible thing for all parents to do is to join our Christmas Banking Club and also put every member of their family into it. This will teach them the value of money and how to bank and have money. Maybe this little start you give them now may some day set them up in business or buy them a home.
How often have you wished that your parents had taught you early the value of banking your money. You would be well off today. Don't make the same mistake with your children.

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS

(From the New Orleans American.)

The name of John Sharp Williams has been suggested for the Democratic leadership in the United States Senate, a position that will be made vacant by the retirement of Senator Kern on the 4th of March.

The Senator from Mississippi should be chosen for this honor and his many friends should urge him to accept. "The best educated man in Congress is a title that has been conferred on him. He is held in high esteem by his colleagues, by the President, and by the country. Of long legislative service in the lower house and in the Senate Senator Williams has shown a staunch devotion to the principles of Democracy, brilliancy as a debater, wise statesmanship, and a delightful sense of humor.

In all of the memorable debates of recent years, the Mississippi Senator who says he never saw a republican until after he attained his majority, has made the members of that party with whom in his adult years he has got well acquainted assume the defensive

In his speeches this veteran statesman uses his wit, but relies mainly on careful preparation and a logical massing of facts and figures, which give his speech es permanent value. Many editorial writers throughout the country on opening a copy of the Congressional Record turn to a Williams speech, if one is to be found therein. Democrats steal his thunder; Republicans attempt to answer him, assuming the role of Ajax defying the lightning.

When the history of the United States of the present time comes to be written, it will not be complete without an account of the legislative work of John Sharp Williams, who is one of our lder statesmen, ripe in experience, sound in judgement, eloquent in speech; a Democrat of Democrats, a Southerner of whom the South is proud, an American who has earned the esteem and admiration of all Americans

BIRDS DESTROY BOLL WEEVILS.

At least 60 species of birds found in the cotton belt are of service in destroying the boll weevil, according to ornithologists of the United States department of agriculture. The most active of the feathered enemies of the boll weevil, it was found are the orioles, which are among the few birds actually taking the insects from squares of the cotton plant, and swallows, which feed on the weevil while the latter are in flight seeking to extend their range. In winter the most efficient enemies of the boll weevils are black birds, meadow larks and Carolina wrens. The cotton worm is eaten by forty one species of birds, of which the cuckoos are the most effective. These birds frequently consume 100 to 150 of the worms at a meal. Twelve southern birds attack the boll worm and seven feed on the cotton cutworm.

that the upper portion of the stream be made navigable. That section of the State is without railroad facilities, and assurance has been given that if the river is made navigable a number of small boats will be placed in service and confidence is felt that they would have a profitable trade.
