SYNOPSIS.

The story opens at Harvard where Col. Rupert Winter, U. S. A., visiting, saw the suicide of young Mercer. He met Cary Mercer, brother of the dead student. Three years later, in Chicago, in 1906, Col. Winter overheard Cary Mercer apparently planning to kidnap Archie, the colonel's ward, and to gain possession of Aunt Rebecca Winter's millions. A Miss Smith was mentioned, apparently as a conspirator. Winter unexpectedly met a relative, Mrs. Millicent Melville, who told him that his Aunt Rebecca, Archie and the latter's nurse, Miss Janet Smith, were to leave for the west with the colonel and Mrs. Melville. A great financial magnate was aboard the train on which Col. Winter met his Aunt Rebecca, Miss Smith and Archie. He set his orderly, Sergt, Haley, to watch over Cary Mercer. Col. Winter learned that the financial magnate is Edwin S. Keatcham. On approaching Cary Mercer, the colonel was snubbed. Winter, aided by Archie, cleverly frustrated a hold-up on the virain. He took a great liking to Miss Smith, despite her alleged connection with the kidnaping plot, which he had not yet revealed to his relatives. The party arrived in San Francisco. It was thought that there were big persons behind the hold-up gang. Archie mysteriously disappeared.

CHAPTER V. Blind Clews.

"But this is preposterous," cried Mrs. Melville, "you must have seen the time.

He spoke to Miss Smith. She had his aunt's back; otherwise she was grown pale; he did not know that his preserving the mien of sympathetic own color had turned. Millicent stared solemnity which she was used to show from one to the other.

where; let me look!"

staring empty rooms, there was no aid of the police. colonel examined them all; had there taurant or in the office? been one open, he would have peered outside, frightened as he had never been when death was at his elbow. of his fruitless inquisition, Millicent But it certainly wasn't possible to appeared. jump through a window, and not only Forcing a civil smile, he awaited her shut, but lock it after one.

Under every bed, in every closet, he Mrs. Winter returned. By this time your power." Mrs. Melville was agitated, and, naturally, irritated as well. "I think it is unpardonable in Archie to sneak out you that he has been kidnaped?" in this fashion," she complained.

the town a bit," observed Aunt Rebecca, placidly. "Rupert, come in and pale; her agitation was quite notice- tioned at the Presidio. Thanks to sit down; he will be back in a moment; smoke a cigar, if your nerves need calming."

Rupert felt as if he were a boy of ten, called back to common sense out of imaginary horrors of the dark.

"But, if he wanted to go out, why nel; then he begged her pardon. did he leave his hat and coat behind him?" asked Miss Smith. "He may be only exploring the hotel," said Mrs. Winter: "Don't be so restless, Bertie; sit down." The colonel's eye was furtively pho-in the room; it lingered longest on is taking a little pasear on his own ac-Mrs. Winter's wardrobe trunk, which was standing in her room. Randall had been dispatched for a hot-water leash, especially-if you will excuse bottle in lieu of one which had sprung me-by, well, by ladies." a leak on the train; so the trunk stood, its door ajar.

"Maybe he is doing the Genevra to be done to him!" stunt there-is that what you are thinking?" she jeered. "Well, go and unaffected by the contagion of anx- from the darkening hills, and Archie iety about her; after a moment, while had not come. At eight, Mrs. Winter Rupert was looking at the wardrobe ordered dinner to be served in their trunk, and even profanely exploring rooms. Mrs. Smith had not returned. the swathed gowns held in rigid safety by bands of rubber, she moved about cheerfulness, which his aunt told him the rooms herself.

"There isn't room for a mouse in that box," growled the colonel. "Of course not," said his aunt languidly, sinking into the easiest chair; "but your mind is easier. Archie will come back for dinner; don't "How could he get by me?" retorted the colonel.

"Perhaps he went into the neighboring rooms," Miss Smith suggested. "Shall I go out and rap on the door of the next room on the left?" On the right the last room of the party was

Rebecca; but Mrs. Melville cut the ends of her words. "Pray let me go, Aunt Rebecca," ahead of her sentence.

The others waited: they were si the adjacent room," proposed the convanient, thim times."

and rang up the number of the next man minutely about Mercer's conduct room. There was no response; but on the train. It was absolutely comwhen she called the number of the monplace. If he had any connection room adjoining, she seemed to get an (as the colonel had suspected) with answer, for she announced her name. the bandits, he made no sign. He "Have you seen a young lad?" she con- sent no telegrams; he wrote no lettinued, after an apology for disturbing ters; he made no acquaintances, he by chance got into your room? and newspaper. Indeed, absolutely the is he there?" In a second she put only matter of note (if that were one) down the receiver with a heightened was that he read so many newspapers color, saying: "They might be a lit- -buying every different journal tle civiler in their answers, if it is Mr. | vended. At San Francisco he got into Keatcham's suite.

suite-Mr. E. S. Keatcham-as if that around to the St. Francis later, and input getting into it quite out of the quired for Mr. Mercer, for whom he question. Some underling, I presume." had a letter (as was indeed the case he left the room. Indeed, she called him back to exact a promise that he would not make Archie's disappearance public. "We want to find him," was her grim addendum; "and we can't have the police and the newspapers hindering us."

In the office he found external courtesy and a rather perfunctory sympathy, based on a suppressed, but perfectly visible conviction that the boy had stolen out for a glimpse of the city, and would be back shortly.

The manager had no objection to telling Col. Winter, whom he knew slightly, that the occupant of the next room was a New England lady of the highest respectability, Mrs. Winthrop Wigglesworth. If the young fellow didn't turn up for dinner, he should be glad to ask Mrs. Wigglesworth to let Mrs. Winter examine her room; but he rather thought they would be seeing young Winter before then-oh, his hat? They usually carried caps in their pockets; and as to coatsboys never thought of their coats.

The manager's cheeriness did not especially uplift the colonel. He warmed him had he come out of the room; you it over dutifully, however, for his womwere directly in front of the doors all ankind's benefit. Miss Smith had gone out; why, he was not told, and did not "I was," admitted the colonel; "can venture to ask. Mrs. Melville kept -can the boy be hiding to scare us?" making cautious signals to him behind at funerals and first visits of con-"How ridiculous!" she exclaimed; dolence and congratulation to divorced "of course not; but he must be some- friends. Mrs. Winter, as usual, wore an inscrutable composure. She was Look as they might through all the still firmly opposed to calling in the vestige of the boy. He was as clean Did she object to his making a few vanished as if he had fallen out of inquiries among the hotel bellboys, the the closed and locked windows. The elevator boy and the people in the res-

Not at all, if he would be cautious. So he sallied out, and, in the midst pleasure. "Go on, don't mind me," said she, mournfully; "you will feel prowled; he was searching still when better to have done everything in

"But I shall not discover anything?" "I fear not. Has it not occurred to

"Hmn!" said the colonel. "And did you notice how perturbed Miss Smith seemed? She was quite in "the old -th," a sergeant, now sta able.

"She is tremendously fond of Archie." "Oh-she knows more than she will

"Oh, what rot!" sputtered the colo

"Wait," he counseled, and his man's resistance to appearances had its effect, as masculine immobility always has, on the feminine effervescence before him. "Wait," was his word, "at least until we give the boy a chance to tographing every article of furniture turn up; if he has slipped by us, he count; lads do get restless sometimes if they are held too steadily in the

> "If he has frightened us out of our wits-well, I don't know what oughtn't

> "Oh, well, let us wait and hear his story," repeated the soldier. But the last streaks of red faded out Light as her tone was, she was not of the west; a chill fog smoked up The colonel attempted a military bluntly, later in the evening, reminded her of a physician's manner in critical cases where the patient's mind must tinued:

be kept absolutely quiet. But she ate more than he at dinner; although her own record was not a riage men, if that auto-you have very good one. Millicent avowed that written a description, I see, as well as she was too worried to eat, but she very fair meal.

It is not to be supposed that Winter put a guard in the hall and had seen by telephone as soon as you know any-"Why, you might," acquiesced Aunt Haley, who reported that his wife thing. If I'm not here, speak Spanish and child had gone to a kinswoman in and have them write it down. Be Santa Barbara.

"Sure the woman has a fine house she begged, suiting the action to the intirely, and she's fair crazy over the words, and was out of the door almost | baby that's named afther her, for she's a widdy woman with never a child excipt wan that's in hivin, a little Should he tell her his suspicions and lent; little flecks of color raddled gurrl; and she wudn't let us rist 'til their ground? Wasn't he morally Winter's cheeks. They could she'd got the cratur'. Nor I wasn't obliged, now, to tell her? She was cohear Millicent's knock reverberating. objectin', for I'm thinking there'll be guardian with him of the boy, who, he sit. I-I understand Mrs. Winter-ah, There was no answer. "Telephone to something doin' and the wimin is on- had no doubt, had been spirited away your aunt, is an elderly woman."

The colonel admitted that he shared "I'll telephone," said Mrs. Winter, Haley's opinion. He questioned the "He belongs to our party; has smoking his solitary cigar over a a cab and Haley heard him give the What did the beggar say?" bristled order: "To the St. Francis." Having his wife and child with him, the ser-"Only that it was Mr. Keatcham's geant couldn't follow; but he went

"There is the unoccupied room be-veen. That is not accounted for. But with one), but no such name appeared tween. That is not accounted for. But it shall be. I will find out who is in there." Rupert rose as he spoke, pricked by the craving for action of a man accustomed to quick decision. He heard his aunt brusquely repelling heard his aunt brusquely repelling Millicent's proposal of the police, as Millicent's proposal of the police departure. With the head decodorized to have her present when he told his was not there since morning. She was not there since morning. The policy of the dedorized to have her present when he told his this hope of the policy

ly thereto by a friend of his, formerly him, Haley could say definitely that Mrs. Wigglesworth had returned. Mercer was not at any of the hotels or more prominent boarding houses in the city, at least under his own name.

"And you haven't seen him since he got into the cab at the station?" the colonel summed up..

Haley's reply was unexpected: 'Yes, sor, I seen him this day, in the morning, in this same hotel."

"Drinking coffee at a table in th coort. He wint out, havin' paid the man, not a-signin' an' he guz the waiter enough to make him say 'Thank ye, sor,' but not enough to make him smile and stay round to pull aff the chair. I follied him to the dure, but he got into an autymobile-"

"Get the number?" "Yis, sor. Number-here 'tis, sor, I wrote it down to make sure." He passed over to the colonel an old envelope on which was written a number *"M. 20139," read the colonel, carefully noting down the number in his own memorandum book. And he reflected: "That is a Massachusetts number-humph!"

Haley's information ended there. He heard of Archie's disappearance with his usual stolid mien, but his hands slowly clenched. The colonel con-

"You are to find out, if you can, by scraping acquaintance with the carthe number-find out if that auto left was tempted by the strawberries and this hotel this afternoon between six carp, and wondered were the Cali- and seven o'clock. Find out who were ready for you to give him from me; back here to-night by ten, if you can, yourself.'

Haley dismissed, and his own apby his report, Winter joined his aunt. by Mercer and his accomplice; and hadn't she a right to any information on the matter in his possession? Reluctantly he admitted that she did have such a right; and, he admitted further, being a man who never keeping the talk of the two men from her had not been so much the knew perfectly well were of a robuster fiber than those of most women 20 lent longer? Kicking this question about in his mind, he spoiled the flavor of his after-dinner cigar, although his aunt graciously bade him smoke it in

And still Miss Smith had not re-cisco which he could find, aided great- would have his mind settled one way or another. Here the telephone bell rang; the > manager informed Col. Winter that "Wigglesworth? What an extraor dinary name!" cried Millicent when the colonel shared his information.

> "Good old New England name; I know some extremely nice Wigglesworths in Boston," Mrs. Winter amended with a touch of hauteur; and, at this moment, there came a knock at the door.

There is all the difference in the world between knocks; a knock as often as not conveys a most unintentional hint in regard to the character of the one behind the knuckles; and often, also, the mood of the knocker is reflected in the sound which he makes. Were there truth in this, one would judge that the person who knocked at this moment must be a woman, for the knock was not loud, but almost timidly gentle; one might even guess that she was agitated, for the tapping was in a hurried, uneven measure.

"I believe it is Mrs. Wigglesworth herself," declared Aunt Rebecca. "Ber tie, I'm going into the other room; she will talk more freely to you. She would want to spare my nerves. That is the nuisance of being old. Now open the door."

She was half-way across the threshold before she finished, and the colo nel's fingers on the doorknob waited only for the closing of her door to turn to admit the lady in waiting.

A lady she was beyond doubt, and any one who had traveled would have been sure that she was a lady from Massachusetts. She wore that little close bonnet which certain elderly Bosfornia fowls really so poor; and gave in it. Find out where it is kept and ton gentlewomen can neither be drivthe sample the benefit of impartial and who owns it. Get H. Birdsall, Mer- en nor allured to abandon; her rich fair examination, in the end making a chants' Exchange building, to send a and quiet black silken gown might man to help you. Wait, I've a card have been made any year within the last five, and her furs would have had been idle; before dinner he had he has sent me men before. Report graced a princess. She had beautiful gray hair and a soft complexion and wore glasses. Equally evident to the observer was the fact of her suppressed agitation.

and strapped to the shoulders in such a manner that it crossed the breast. She waved aside the colonel's proffered chair, introducing herself in a fact that bullets became spent in passpetite for dinner effectualty dispelled musical, almost tremulous voice with ing through these rolls. It happened and my knees knocked together. Cold the crisp enunciation of her section of the country. "I am Mrs. Wiggles- that in the heat of the fight my roll was cut right through where the two had neither cloth nor handkerchief in worth; I understand, Col. Winterends were fastened together by the you?-y-yes, no, thank you, I will not stroke of a keen-edged tulwar, which was intended to cut me. "As the day was warm, I was rather

"This is my sister-in-law, Mrs. Melville Winter," explained the colonel. "My aunt is elderly in years, but in at night there was a difference in nothing else." The colonel, in a few words, dis- from patrol duty and wanted to lie played the situation. He had pre- down to sleep, I felt the cold, wet cheated at solitaire, that his object in vailed upon his visitor to sit down, and grass anything but comfortable, for a while he spoke he noticed that her kilt is not the most suitable article hands held each other tightly, al- of dress on a cold November night in desire to guard her nerves (which he though she appeared perfectly com- upper India. posed and did not interrupt. She an- "My company was encamped in and swered his questions directly and about the tomb of the first king of or 40 years younger than she); no, he quietly. She had been away taking Oudh. A large inclosure surrounded admitted it grimly, he had not so much tea with a friend; she had remained the building of the tomb itself, and spared his aunt as Janet Smith; he to dine. Her maid had gone out ear- on the inside of this were small rooms could not bear to direct suspicion to- lier to spend the day and night with a built for the accommodation of pilward her. But how could he keep si- sister in the city; so the room was grims. When I entered the inclosure empty between six and seven o'clock. I noticed these apartments, and asked dream. I showed him the powder "The chambermald wasn't there, permission to sleep in one of them,

> "I don't think so. She usually does the room and brings the towels for the bath in the morning. But I asked her, "It struck me that some of the Se toward Millicent, who said, "Certain-| watch. He is made up as a bellboy ly," at a venture; and looked fright- (with the hotel manager's consent, of "And you found-?" said the colonel. "Only this. I went to my rooms, doors and the next room ever since I turned on the light and was taking off my gloves before I untied my bonnet. gone out with our seeing him. If any One of my rings fell on the floor. It suspicious person goes out, we have it

ILLUSTRATIONS &

a place where there seemed no reason for its presence. These details seem trivial, but-" "I can see they are not," said the colonel. "Pray proceed, madam. The ring had ro"ed under the rug!" am party pointed out to him; he saw ful nod. "Yes, it had. And when I removed the rug I saw it; but as I bent to pick it up I saw something else. In one father." place there was a stain, as large as the palm of my hand, a little pool of-it looks like blood."

Mrs. Wigo esworth gave him a grate-

Mrs. Mellville uttered an exclamation of horror. The colonel's face stiffened: but "May we be permitted to see thisah, stain?" said he. The three stepped through the corridor to the outside door, and went into the chamber. The rug was flung to one side, and there on the gray velvet nap of the carpet was an irregular, sprawling stain about which were spattered other stains, some crimson, some almost black.

Millicent recoiled, shuddering. The colonel knelt down and examined the stains. "Yes," he said, very quietly, 'you are right, it is blood."

There was a tap on the door, which was opened immediately without waiting for a permission. Millicent, rigid eyes of her aunt.

Rebecca Winter. "I think I have a the other two had their backs to Winright to the whole truth."

CHAPTER VI.

The Voice in the Telephone. "Well. Bertie?" Mrs. Winter had gone back to her parlor in the most docile manner in the world. Her submission struck Rupert on the heart;

He was sitting opposite her, his shrunken in the huge, ugly upholstered easy chair; he kept an almost constrained attitude of military erectness, of which he was conscious, himself; and at which he smiled forlornly, recalling the same pose in Haley whenever the sergeant was disconcerted.

"But, first," pursued his aunt, "who was that red-headed bellboy with whom you exchanged signals in the hall?" The colonel suppressed a whistle. 'Aunt Becky, you're a wonder! Did you notice? And he simply shut the palm of his hand! Why, it's this way: I was convinced that Archie must be on the premises; he couldn't get off. So I telephoned a detective that I before him. He entered the rooms police, to send me a sure man to

Incident of the Famous Sepoy Rebellion in India.

The recent death of the son of Sir rebellion. One of the strangest inci-

"Many a man owed his life to the temperature, and when I was relieved comfortable to sleep.

poys might have dropped their blank-course); either I, or Milicent, or that boy has kept an eye on the Keatcham found Archie was gone. No one has went under a rug, and I at once re- arranged to detain him long enough marked that it was a different place for me to get a good look. I can tell for the rug to the one where it had you exactly who left the room."

BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

been before. Before, it was in front "It is you who are the wonder, Ber of the dresser, a very natural place, tie," said Aunt Rebecca, a little wear! but now it is on the carpet to one side, ly, but smiling. "Who has gone out?" "At seven Mr. Keatcham's secretary went down to the office and ordered dinner, very carefully. I didn't see him, but my sleuth did. He had the secretary and the valet of the Keatch-> Arnold, the Arnold's son-' "The one who has all the orange groves and railways? Yes, I knew his them. They had one visitor, young

"That one; he only came a few moments since. Mr. Keatcham and his secretary dined together, and Keatcham's own man waited on them; but the waiter for this floor brought up the there was no change in his polite at- brought out and my man helped thence rebounding upon himself.—Mer-Keatcham's valet to pile them a lfttle farther down the corridor in the hall."

These items the colonel was reading out of his little red book. "You have put all that down. Do you think it means anything?" "I have put everything down. One can't weed until there is a crop of information, you know."

"True," murmured Aunt Rebecca nodding her head, thoughtfully. "Well, did anything else happen?"

"The secretary posted a lot of let ters in the shute. They are all smoking now. Yes-" he was on his feet and at the door in almost a single mo tion. There had been just the slightest tattoo on the panel. When the with fright, could only stare helpless- door was opened the colonel could ly at the erect figure, the composed, hear the rattle of the elevator. He pale face and the brilliant, imperious was too late to catch it, but he could see the inmates. Three gentlemen "What did you say, Bertie?" said stood in the car. One was Keatcham, ter. One seemed to be supporting Keatcham, who looked pale. He saw the colonel and darted at him a single During Change of Life, glance in which was something like poignant appeal; what, it was too brief | Says Mrs. Chas. Barclay for the receiver to decide, for in the space of an eye blink a shoulder of the other man intervened, and simultane

it was as if she were stunned, he felt. ously the elevator car began to sink. There was need to decide instantly slender, rather short figure looking who should follow, who stay on guard. Rupert bade the boy go down by the stairs, while, with a kind of bulldog instinct, he clung to the rooms. The lad was to fetch the manager and the keys of the Keatcham suite. Meanwhile Rupert paced back and forth before the closed doors, whence there penetrated the rustle of packing and a murmur of voices. Presently Keatcham's valet opened the farther door. He spoke to some one inside. "Yes, sir," he said, "the porter hought to be 'ere now."

The porter was there; at least he was coming down the corridor which led to the elevator, trundling his truck know here, a private agency, not the and busied himself about the luggage. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

nothing. Moving carefully I lifted the lamp over my head, looking cautiously 'round, until I was in the cen ter of the great vault, where my prog-

"I lowered my lamp and discovered

"I took in my danger at a glance,

There I was, up to my knees nearly in gunpowder, with a naked light in my hand. My hair literally stood on end.

perspiration broke out all over me. I my pocket with which to extinguish my light, and the next moment might be my last, for the overhanging wick already threatened to send the smol

sequences too dreadful to contemplate under the down-dropping flame, and clasping it firmly, slowly turned to the "Fear so overcame all other sensa tion that I felt no pain of the burn until I was outside; then it was sharp nough. I poured the oil from the lamp into my burned hand. Then I

"Next, I staggered to Capt. Dawson and told him. He did not believe me, and told me I had waked up from a still sticking on my wet feet. He in-

At the Earth's Center.

knelt down and thanked God.

"Quick as thought I put my left hand

NARROW ESCAPE

Henry Lawrence, the famous hero of ress was obstructed by a big black the defense of Lucknow, carries the at- heap, about four or five feet high, tention back to the days of the Sepoy | which felt to my feet like loose sand.

dents of that terrible time is told by I was standing ankle-deep in loose

William Forbes Mitchell in his "Rem- gunpowder. About 40 hundredweight iniscences of the Great Mutiny." Mr. of it lay under my nose, and a hasty

Mitchell, who was sergeant of a High- glance 'round showed me 20 or 30 bar-land regiment, had the misfortune, rels of the same substance, over 100 during a battle, to lose the greatcoat eight-inch shells all loaded and with what was known as a "Crimean roll," fuses and slow matches lying about.

glad to get rid of it, but by ten o'clock dering red top to my feet, with con-out was refused. I had to make the stantly roused the sleeping men and best of my position, but was too un- quenched every spark of fire on the which every soldier carried folded in fuses fixed, and a profusion of spare

SNAP FOR JIMMIE.

"Oh, Jimmie, our pa's been appoint ed postmaster!" "Good! Now I won't have ter put any stamps on de letters I senda

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh), that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

An Eye for Business. White-Why are you so anxious to lend that friend a dollar whenever he asks it? He only spends the money in drinks and cigars. Black-Oh, he always pays it back! White-But there must be some other reason for your ready generosity. Black-Well, there is. He always spends half of the money on me.-Judge.

For Headache Try Hicks' Capudine. Whether from Colds, Heat, Stomach or Nervous troubles, the aches are speedily relieved by Capudine. It's Liquid—pleas-ant to take—Effects immediately. 10, 25 and 50c at Drug Stores.

Honor is but the reflection of a man's own actions shining bright in dishes. At nine the dishes were the face of all about him, and from riam.

Remember you have once been young, and never forget you may one day be old.—Piggott.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

From the blackmailer's viewpoint, keeping secrets is a paying business.

Graniteville, Vt. - "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and can truly say that LydiaE.Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what LydiaE. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Chas. Barclay, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medcine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weak-nesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclaysays, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

these Little Pills. They also relieve Disress from Dyspepsia, In-ligestion and Too Hearty ating. A perfect rem edy for Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, TORPID LIVER.

Positively cured by

SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. Fac-Simile Signature

-NOTHING LIKE IT FOR oving tartar from the teeth, be

THE MOUTH Wash disinfects the and throat, purifies the breath, and kills the germs which collect in the mouth, causing sore throat, bad teeth, bad breath, grippe, and much sickness.

CATARRH Paxine will destroy the germs that cause catarrh, heal the inflammation and stop the discharge. It is a sure remedy for uterine catarrh.

THE PAXTON TOILET CO., BOSTON, MASS.