Mrs. James Erwin Gives Party In Honor of Her Children's Instructors.

Unique and enjoyable was the reception iven Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. James Erwin, No. 91 Clifton place It was a Salmagundi party—a party where all sorts of games from lotto to euchre are played, after the manner of a progressive euchre, with prizes at the con clusion-and was given in honor of every teacher Mrs. Erwin's three children, Margaret, Martha and James, had been taught by during their school life thus far. The house was prettily decorated, as far as numerous tables scattered about the rooms would allow, with palms and spring flowers. Water rained without, but fun reigned within and everybody had a right royal time. There were five tables and six prizes, one and a fourth for each table, and after about two hours of interesting play prizes were awarded to Miss Christine McKlernan, who won t beautiful bonbon dish; Miss Walsh, a handsome hand painted placque; Miss Jessie Thompson, a pretty puff box; Miss Maud Vail, a lustre olive dish; Miss Elsie Whyte, a lustre nut bowl; Miss Emily Robinson, a hand painted cup and saucer, and Miss Smack, a pretty little match box. At the conclusion of the game refreshnents were served and the teachers spent delightful hour in singing college songs. performing upon the plane, chatting and doing other things generally beneficial to Sothern's article on the need of culture for the actor. Besides these articles there is in the May "Criterion" a curiously musical poem by Gelett Burgess with the refrain, "Come and Have a Man Talk," which is certain to be as widely repeated as "The Purple Cow," although it is of a much more serious character than was Mr. Burgess's first famous work. There is also a poem of deep thought and beauty, entitled "Sunsat from the Colosseum," by Duffield Osborne," and there is liction by Wolcott Le Clear Beard, Baldwin Sears and C. F. Lester.

"And thus from spring to spring we meet When bloom the violets blue and sweet, So may our hearts with friendship beat

The Odd Volumes held their annua breakfast Saturday afternoon in the Jer sey City Club Theatre. To be sure ther was no indication of that "spring" the club sings so much about, save in the decorations and in the gowns of the guests. They certainly did look "springy," and as if to make up for the gray overhead and the wet under foot outside, a poetic sky of violet" had been festooned across the ceiling by means of bunting and string, while the mere fact of its being a club woman's feast vouched for its dryness. The guests as they arrived were received by the committee in charge, Mrs. George W. Case, Miss Katharine Crowen, Miss Pitcher, Mrs. Robert Myers, Mrs. John Headden, third, and Miss Adriance, and assigned to their respective places, marked by pretty name cards attached to the programmes by violet ribbon. These programmes consisted each of an enoris violet hand painted by Mrs. Pitcher, while name cards were of like design, only about five sizes smaller. Each table held twelve guests, with the exception of the head table, which accommodated the President, Mrs. Cecella Gaines-Holland and the guests of honor; Mrs. Daniel Butterfield, Mrs. Izora Chandler, Mrs. Mary S. Bowen, Mrs. Gaines, Mrs. Oliver Bird Cushman, Miss Olive Lord Hollister, Miss Mary E. Currie, Miss Burdick and Mrs. below the stage, a regular "Midsummer Night's" forest of palms and flowers, and festoons of wisteria vines, while on top was a garden of white roses, violets, lilacs, wisteria, lilies and greens. The other tables diverged from this in a sort of triangle, leaving a wide passage way from the entrance to the theatre, formed into an aisle by means of small tables laden with roses, lilacs and wisteria. The other tables were decorated, each with violet shaded silver candelabra surrounded with flowers, dying with envy at the array of everlasting Easter bonnet flower gardens towering above their violet

It was all lovely enough to enhance the flavor of the delicacles offered in various courses, and conversation heightened to such an extent that when the final course, "the flow of soul," came round, the ladles were glad to rest their tongues together with their knives and forks. This was the "toast" course, and was introduced by the President, Mrs. Holland, who responded to "A welcome from the Presiin her own genial way, and then gave a glowing history of the Odd Volumes and their work in Jersey City. According to her the Odd Volumes must be the mother of Jersey City Club land.

"When we had been in existence seven years." said she, "another club was formed the Woman's Club, our dear young daughter, of which we are so proud," and she then went on to tell how the Odd Volumes had State Federation, of how some of their members had attended the National Federation two years ago and of their inhoped to see every Odd Volumes name on the Pallsades League membership list.

Butterfield, who arose gracefully and bowed graciously by way of acknowledgment and greeting.

Mrs. Edward Markham was not present though the president explained she might be wandering through the wilds of Jersey City and would probably arrive later. But to be omitted, though the club did its best to make up for the omission on its own responsibilities.

Mrs. Edward Addison Greely was unable to be present and sent a telegram, so the 'Balzac' toast to which she was to re-

Art Department of the New York Press toasted "Art." She spoke of "Old Masters" paintings of Saints and one to the other, and gradually passed on to the portraits of mortals.

"There is no more tender complim said she, "than for one person to ask another for his portrait. Pictures that ok down upon us from the walis have study the character from within as well as from without. There are moments when everybody is at his best and then is when his portrait should be painted. There is something beautiful in everyone." Mrs. May E. Bowen responded to "Odd Thoughts" for Odd Volumes:-

"Odd thoughts for Odd Volumes," said Mrs. Bowen, "I expected would occur to me at odd moments. Strange to say they have not occurred. George Lewis said:-'If a book was to be written about the chest and bath tub and go to the East for ten years. The national disease of Americans is indigestion or in its chronic form, dyspepsia, and for the very reason that it is so common many people neglect taking proper treatment for what they consider triffing stomach trouble, when as a matter of fact, indigestion lays the foundation for many incurable diseases. No person with a vigorous, healthy stomach will fall a victim to consumption. Many kidney diseases and heart troubles date their beginning from poor digestion; thin, nervous people are really so because thir stomachs are out of gear; weary, languid, faded out women owe their condition to imperfect digestion.

When nearly every person you meet is afflicted with weak digestion it is not surprising that nearly every secret pattern medicine on the market claims to be a cure for dyspepsia, as well as a score of other troubles, when in fact, as Dr. Werthier says, there is but one genuine dyspepsia cure which is perfectly safe and reliable, and moreover, this remedy is not a patent medicine, but it is a scientific combination of pure pepsin (free from animal matter), vegetable essences, fruit salts and bismuth. It is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Dyspepsia, Tablets. No extravagant claims are made for them, but for indigestion or any stomach trouble, Stuart's Dyspepsia, Tablets are far ahead of any remedy yet discovered. They act on the food eaten, no clieting is necessary, simply eat all the wholerome food you want and these tablets will digest it. A cure results, because all the stomach needs in a rest.
