Vice Chancellor Stevenson Decides Suit Over Mrs. Thompson's Notes.

PECULIAR REVELATIONS

Court Doesn't Believe in Wager on Walk From Brooklyn to 'Frisco.

Adrian Hitt, inventor, champion walkbrought against him by Dr. W. W. Var-

One was for $33,000 and the other was for $10,000. Both purported to be signed by Mrs. Thompson. Dr. Varick, however, claimed that the signature to the $33,000 note was a forgery. The other signature, the administrator admitted, Hitt was disputed.

Vice Chancellor Stevenson, before whom the case has dragged along for months, sitting in Jersey City yesterday afternoon, handed down his opinion against Hitt, and although he did not declare the notes a forgery as claimed by counsel for the estate, still he announced that in his opinion Mrs. Thompson had never given Hitt the notes.

It was at the afternoon session that Vice Chancellor Stevenson announced that he would decide the case, but not enter fully into all the points. The counsel in the case were:-Mesrs. J. B. Vredenburgh and Isaac S. Taylor for the estate and Messrs. R. Lawrence and Gil-

"I will merely give an outline of the matter so that you gentlemen will be endesire before my complete opinion is dethen he talked for over two hours. REVIEW OF THE CASE.

$10,000 check matters. He then referred to the fact that in 1885 Mrs. Thompson was a woman between fifty-five and fifty-eight years of age, one who had taken the best of care of herself and who at No. 38 Newark street, Hoboken, on Louisa M. Heitman, Dorothy M. Highwas enjoying an income of about $1,800 January 16 and stole $4 in cash and a am, May F. Irwin, Florence M. Johnson. yearly from her property which was pair of gloves. He was found by the Harriet M. Kuhn, Emma B. Kohlmann valued at about $30,000 to $35,000.

"She lived alone but was on the best of terms with her relatives, a sister and two brothers and numerous nephews and pieces," said the Vice Chancellor. HITS AT HITT

"Then along comes Hitt, a stroller from the West, a man of whom no one knows much, who stops at the door of Mrs. Thompson's house, engratiates himself with her and in two years' time has taken up his residence with her. From 1887 until the time of Mrs. Thompson's death in 1900, the evidence shows that Hitt and Mrs. Thompson had relations of the most friendly kind. It has been stated by Hitt that they were married and this may be so, for Mrs. Thompson's letters to Hitt show such regard as a wife would have for a husband.

"It was not until after the death of Mrs. Thompson that Hitt acknowledged their relations or that the notes for $33,000 and $10,000 were offered by monies loaned by Hitt to Mrs. Thompson, the $10,000 note a gift from her a few weeks prior to her death. THAT WALKING BET.

"From a perusal of the evidence Telephone service now cheap enough for anyone. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, 8 Erie street, Jersey City.

cannot find that Mrs. Thompson owed Hitt anything. He had come to her from the West with nothing practically, although it is declared that he had won $8,000 by walking to San Francisco and back, but no authentic record of the same appears and the tale seems to me

Then the Vice Chanceller told how Hitt's inventions had been backed by Mrs. Thompson's capital, and how, alhough he received money for them, there could have been no such sum as $33,000 turned over to Mrs. Thompson. He commented on the peculiar fact that when Hitt met Mrs. Thompson she was worth $33,000 and yet thirteen years afterward she owed Hitt that amount. CULVER'S IMPROBABLE STORY.

Then he spoke about the stories told by George M. Culver, who is alleged to have witnessed the signing of the $82,000 note; but whose story did not hang together very well. Hitt and Culver had een friends for years and while the latter would probably have been selected by the former to act as a witness, still he was not the kind of a man that Mrs. Thompson would have selected in the matter.

The Vice Chancellor said he did not believe Culver was ever asked by Mrs. Thompson to witness the signing of the $33,000 note. The question of the alleged forgery he would not enter into as two experts had declared the note genuine and two said otherwise, but he would decide that there was no reason why Mrs. Thompson should have given the note as she could not have owed Hitt

Regarding the $10,000 note he said that while Mrs. Thompson may have intended to make Hitt a present still the fact that she had not endorsed the note which was made payable to her by another party to Hitt's order was peculiar; also the fact that the only witness was was genuine, but the possession of it by a niece of Hitt's. He therefore threw out this note. The alleged shady reputation of Hitt, he declared, had nothing to do with the case.

Counselor Lawrence of counsel for Hitt declared that an appeal is probable.

MEDAL PRESENTATION.

Gen. Spencer Reviews Members of the Fourth Regiment and Distributes Prizes.

The review and medal presentation of he Fourth Regiment Armory Wednesnight was a splendid event. Several nundred sharpshoters' and marksmanship medals were presented by General Bird S. Spencer, Inspector of Rifle Practice of New Jersey.

The Armerry was crowded as usual and the large gathering enjoyed the programme immensely. There was standing room only when the regiment band began the exercises. The review took place first. General Speacer and Coloneel Smith and his staff inspected the seldiers after which the medals were presented. Then the dril followed under the comand of Colonel Smith. The boys eccuted the various movements very well and earned plenty of aplpause.

Dancing followed. This continued un-til two o'clock. The list of medal winners was published in the News of Sat-

Four hundred men employed in the melting department of the American Sugar Refining Company's works were laid off this morning. About 1,500 more of the hands will be laid off tomorrow. The reason given at the offices of the company was that there was an over suply of stock on hand which the firm desires to reduce before manufacturing more. It is likely that the men will be out of work about two weeks.

The announcement to the workers this morning caused a great amount of excitement, the men gathering in groups at the street corners in the neighborhood of the Sugar House discussing the situation.
