WILSON AT ARLINGTON

President Harding could do no more gracious thing than to extend an invitation to former President Wilson to be present and have a prominent part in the ceremonies at Arlington cemetery on Armistice Day. When the nation is doing honor to the dead who died for us, through the interment of this unknown boy, what more fitting than that his commander-in-chief should be among those taking part in such formal honors?

Woodrow Wilson was our chief in those days. He led the nation through this war, and as he typified the nation at that time, he should have a large part in this ceremony. History will have to fix the place of the late president, but no man, however partisan he may be, can deny to him an idealism that was far ahead of the vision of the other nations. While we are honoring the dead, who more fitting than one who is equally a wounded comrade—whose life, while not given, was shattered by his service in the same war? He who was commander-in-chief of those we honor should have a part in the ceremony.—Sandusky Register-Republican.

AMBASSADOR HARVEY DENOUNCED

The following resolution was adopted, a copy of which was sent to President Harding:

"Be it resolved, That the words of George Harvey at the Pilgrims' banquet in London are a miserable calumny, worthy only of a little mind, dominated by envy and jealousy and incapable of appreciating the higher ideals of life and, therefore, ascribing to others the only motives which it is able to understand; that we therefore, respectively represent to the president of the United States that the said George Harvey is unworthy to hold any office whatsoever in the gift of the American people, and that a public rebuke and immediate recall would be punishment mild in form compared with the enormity of the offense which is committed."

No, the foregoing was not adopted by a Democratic convention, or political meeting of any kind. It came from the American Legion National convention, which met last week in Kansas City—a gathering of the soldiers of the late world war, which represented the millions of American ex-soldiers and the highest type of American patriotism. Still Harding has never by word, or action of any kind, let it be known that he disapproved in the least, the Harvey utterances, so but one conclusion can be drawn, and that is that they are the President's sentiments also. And why doubt that they are, since was it not about the same time he killed the soldiers' adjusted federal compensation bill?

It was this man Harvey who concocted the venom that poisoned the minds of thousands against President Wilson. And by the way, this same American Legion passed, amid loud cheers, a resolution extending greetings to Wilson, the former commander-in-chief of the American army and navy, wishing him a speedy and complete recovery from an illness incurred in the service of his country.

What more fitting feature of an observance of Armistice Day could there be, while a bereaved nation mourns for its dead, and rejoices with its living, than for press, pulpit, various organizations, societies, and individuals to reiterate that demand made by the American Legion for the recall of Ambassador Harvey, who if his words were true in any sense of the word would make of Armistice Day a hollow mockery and a national shame.

HOME PAPER WEEK

This is "Support-Your-Home-Paper-Week" in the United States. This week the editor has a perfect license to forget his modesty, toot his own horn, and boost his paper as hard as he does hundreds of other enterprises. It is also the week set aside by the home town newspaper fraternities to try and add as many new names to their lists as possible, and collect back subscriptions that are due.

Speaking from actual experience we know that running a newspaper is a mighty hard game. Should the editor of a country paper remember all the knocks he gets during a year, compare them with the mighty few boosts he receives, and knowing that the coming year he will have just as many to face, he certainly would throw up the game. Most readers want the editor to tell the plain truth about everything and everybody except themselves. Someone has said that running a newspaper is like running a hotel—only different. A man goes to a hotel and orders his dinner. The chances are that something will be brought to him that he does not like. What does he do, get mad and quit the hotel? No, he simply sets the one dish aside, eats what he likes, and keeps on patronizing the hotel. Note the comparison with the newspaper.

son with the newspaper. A subscriber may take a paper for years, and enjoy every line of it, but some day let even two or three lines be published that he dislikes, but which please hundreds of other readers, then what happens—"stop my paper."*(-???) Zip Bang.

While we may feel that our newspaper lot is a hard one, and there is no getting around the fact that it is a strenuous game, still we realize that ours is an easy one compared with hundreds of others in the same position. We believe in this community and have stood back of it. We have made careful investigations and know whereof we speak when we say that for the population of the county, there is not a county in the state that can boast of such a large subscription list of steady subscribers, as can the Morgan County Democrat. Neither can a similar community boast of a better county weekly paper, or even one so good.

CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY

We are glad this community is to give proper recognition to Armistice Day. Friday morning beginning at 9:30 short exercises will be held at Rocky Glen sanatorium. This will be in honor of those who in making Armistice day possible, were hit hardest, save those who gave their lives. A number of the sanatorium boys are down, and the manager of that institution has expressed it as his wish that as many of the citizens as possible go to the sanatorium for the exercises, and to greet these boys who are unable to be out. In the afternoon a splendid program which is published in this paper, has been arranged by the American Legion, and will be given in the Opera House. The mayor has issued a proclamation in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States, asking the citizens here to suspend all labor and business at 12 o'clock Friday for a period of two minutes and devote such period to remembrance of all those who gave their lives on the altar of their country; and also asks that all places of business close during the time of the exercises in the opera house.

Friday evening at 7:30 the men of the Malta M. E. church Bible class will entertain at the church, members of the American Legion, and all ex-service men, including members of the G. A. R. Sunday morning at 10 o'clock Rev. R. O. McRae of the local M. E. church will conduct special services at the church appropriate to Armistice Day, and has issued an invitation to the G. A. R., and auxiliaries, the American Legion, and all ex-service men to be present. All exercises should, and we feel sure will be, well attended.

OUR NEW MAYOR

Dr. Donald G. Ralston, our newly elected mayor, is one of our best young men, of clean habits and splendid ability. He is a busy man. Besides looking after his extensive practice as a physician he is commander of Maltonia Post, American Legion. He is secretary of the chamber of commerce, and has been selected as captain of the new guard company just organized here. It is a common expression that if there is a duty to perform, it is the busy man who will do it best, and we feel sure it will be true in this case. He was nominated and elected as an independent candidate, and he will fill his new office as mayor with the same marked ability, he shows in looking after his profession, and the other activities with which he is engaged.

AGRICULTURAL NEWS NOTES

Pisgah Institute
The institute season was opened by the recent meeting at Pisgah, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4-5, Bloom township. This was an independent institute and the interest manifested showed what a community can do without the financial aid from the state. The attendance was very good averaging more than 100 for the five sessions. The speakers were: Mr. T. M. Burroughs, Noble county; Miss F. Gertrude Aiken, Columbia Station; R. E. Helt, County Agent; and Prof. J. S. Taylor, McConnelsville. A fine musical program was conducted by Miss Josephine Birch, assisted by Miss Bernice McConnell.

Sheep Accounts Reviewed
Mr. C. R. Arnold, Extension Specialist, O. S. U., was in the county during the past week to check up the records of the sheep cost account men. Time did not permit all the men to be visited. The county agent will complete the work.

Farm Account Schools
The attention of all interested farmers is called to two farm management schools to be held in cooperation with the O. S. U. Extension Department and Morgan County Farm Bureau. The first of these two schools will be held at McConnelsville, Nov. 22, and the second at Chesterhill, Nov. 23. The schools will be conducted in two sessions, forenoon and afternoon. Every one who attends will be expected to be present at both sessions. The forenoon session will begin at 10 o'clock and the afternoon at 1 o'clock. Further information can be obtained from either the county agent or the township farm bureau chairman.

Motion Pictures Shown
As an educational feature, the U. S. department of agriculture film "The Farm Account Book" will be shown at the McConnelsville High School, Friday, Nov. 11, at 8 o'clock.

NOTICE
This is to notify that no hunting or trapping of any kind will be permitted on my premises. Dan C. Head. 1043

Victrola

buyers are no different

Than the rest of us—they want the biggest value for the least money.

That is why we are selling so many Victrolas today. The demand is greater than ever, which may cause a decided shortage again this year as the season advances.

There is never an over production of Victrolas because of the time and care in every detail of construction.

It is time now to arrange for your Christmas Victrola to be sure to have it at that time.

"From Wool to Cloth" was shown last Monday night at the Twin City opera house. More of these educational pictures are promised by the management, and interested farmers should watch closely for announcements of these productions.

Cow Testing Report for October
By M. W. Hervey, cow tester, in charge. In the Washington County Ohio Testing Association cooperating with Morgan and Wood counties, we find 17 cows making the honor roll for October, 1921.

C. E. Chase of Stockport leads with his registered Holstein, "Muskingum Belle," 3-year old cow. Her record for the month was 2943 lbs. milk and 75.6 lbs. of butterfat.

Of the 17 cows producing over 40 lbs. of fat, 4 were registered Jerseys, and the rest grade Jerseys, with the exception of the Holstein owned by Mr. Chase.

Following is a list of owners of 40 lb. cows, and the number of cows making the record: Luther Miller, Marietta, 5; all Jerseys; W. M. Harrington, 3; Jerseys; C. E. Chase, Stockport, 2; Holsteins; J. W. Moore & Son, Warner, O., 2; Jerseys. The following had one each: J. B. Hickman, Marietta, O.; Earl Bowman, Chesterhill, Dr. C. S. Dye, McConnelsville, and S. B. Tallman, Washington, W. Va.

We have stated in this part of the country what we hope and expect to develop into one of the greatest Jersey Centers of the state or states. We as an association, are young, but we expect to grow a great deal in the future. Our members, as a rule, have not as yet appreciated the value of feeding, and the ones that have we find producing the 40 lb. cows. I wish to call particular attention to Mr. Luther Miller who had 5 cows in the 40 lb. list. These cows have been fresh since spring, and the fact that they are doing so well is because he is an excellent feeder.

Says Few Children Get the Right Food
"Malnutrition is common in all parts of America and among all classes," said Prof. J. E. Lyman of the Ohio State University, speaking before the extension workers of Ohio at their recent meeting.

A nutrition survey in a state not far from Ohio recently revealed 57 percent of the children getting enough eating properly balanced to their nutritive requirements.

"The main deficiency was in vitamins-bearing foods, such as vegetables, fruit and milk. Failure to provide such food for growing children leads to conditions which differ only in degree from those in the Balkan countries. There, as here, the principal lack is in vitamins. They do not have such food; here we do not seem to know how properly to use what we have."

els, and adds that "Though the recent decrease of about 23 percent in the cost of gravel, sand and road material may mark a beginning in necessary reductions, it is barely a beginning and will affect but little the general level of freight rates."

"Before there can be a normal interchange of products between agriculture and industry there must be a closer relation between the levels of farm products, wages and freight rates," Prof. Falconer declares.

600 Farm Children to Visit University

Something over 600 Ohio farm boys and girls who toiled in field and kitchen throughout last summer's heat, to win county championships in their projects will come in to their reward during the third week in November, "Club Week" at the Ohio State University.

They will be brought to Columbus as a prize trip, lodged for the week in the most modern of downtown hotels, and be guests of honor throughout a week of talks, stunts, and events arranged especially for them by officials of the university.

The youngsters will observe farm hours, rising in time for a six o'clock breakfast. Separate instruction in agriculture and home economics for boys and girls will begin at 8 o'clock; at mid-morning there will be an hour of group recreation, conducted by specialists in organized play on the university staff.

General meetings for both the boys and girls will come mainly in the afternoon, and at night. At these meetings, say those arranging the program, the effort will be less to inform than to inspire. Leading men and women of the farm world will talk to the youngsters and try to open up to them a conception of the opportunity for achievement at home.

At the afternoon meeting on Friday, the last day of the conference, county championship medals will be presented by Dean Alfred Vivian of the College of Agriculture, and boy and girl state champions in farm and home contests will tell in their own words how they carried on the work that won them honor.

The Past and the Present

In the past our ancestors were content to use the candle with its dim flickering rays.

In the Present (Today) we are privileged to use the steady, brilliant Electric light—the product of science.

In the Past thousands of people went through life suffering from ailments that seem to be incurable.

In the Present (Today) thousands of people are finding out that these ailments yield readily to CHIROPRACTIC—the modern scientific method of removing the cause of Disease.

In this cut we see a vertebral subluxation (displacement) which almost completely cuts off the life current from the brain. Is it any wonder there is a lack of function and so called disease? Chiropractic adjustment will restore such vertebrae to normal and nature does the rest. Health, then, is certain, inevitable.

In the Past, the idea, a mistaken one, was to try and cure the effect without making any effort to find the CAUSE.

In the Present (Today) the SCIENCE OF CHIROPRACTIC strikes right at the root of the matter, adjusts the cause and Nature, the Great Healer, is given the opportunity to make the cure. Nature never fails in this task.

Live in the Present. Why live in the Past?

Special OVERCOAT Values

Have you seen any of the Overcoats we are selling

Special at $25?

If not you had better come in and see them.

Several who have seen them tell us they are as good values as they have been offered elsewhere at $35.00 to $40.00.

This seems like a big difference in Overcoat values. Really it is more than we would have claimed but after people who have looked at other lines tell us these things, and then buy, we feel they are sincere in what they say or they would not buy.

Investigate for Yourself

Look at other lines of Overcoats, then come in and see ours before buying. Then be honest with yourself and tell us whether you saved $5.00, $10.00 or $15.00 just what your investigation proved.

Whatever you do—do not buy an Overcoat until you have seen what we are offering.
