DILL MURDER.

The Bloody Club With Which the Farmer Was Killed Found by a Detective.
Columbus, O., Sept. 25.—Additional evidence was developed in the Dill murder case Thursday when Detective Fox recovered the club with which Wille Dill, the son of the murdered man, said Heimlich had killed his father. The club is a long, heavy one, and has several marks of recent blood stains upon it. Heimlich still maintains his innocence. When informed that the club had been found, and that its hiding place had been revealed by the boy, he replied that was another lie of the boy's. He was then told of the blood stains on the stick, and re-sponded: "The blood on the club came from some chickens that were killed at different times, and spurted from their necks after their heads had been cut off." Further than this, with the exception of again deny-ing his guilt and advancing the theory that Dill committed suicide, Heimlich refused to talk. Prosecutor Vorhees used to talk.

A PLAIN TALK TO WORKINGMEN The A B C of the Silver Question

Clearly Put. Let us not get mixed up with complex matters in connection with the free silver idea. Let us not befog our brain with arguments about the crime of 1873 or bother with the many theories which the advocates of free silver are giving

But let us take a common-sense viev of the situation.

Now, to start with: Suppose Bryan was elected and the free coinage act had been passed and that free coinage was an actual fact. Suppose that silver could be taken to the mint and coined into silver dollars at the ratio of sixteen to one.

How would that affect us? We haven't got any silver bullion. A whole lot of people who own silver mines have it, and so they could have it coined into sixteen to one dollars, but not having any ourselves we could not have a solitary, single dollar coined under the free silver act. Now, suppose, however, that all the silver mine owners and others who had silver took it all to Washington or Philadelphia or to some other United States mint and had it coined into sixteen to one dollars, and

Suppose so much had been coined that all the silver in the world was made into sixteen to one dollars, and Suppose that everyone of these dollars was piled in one heap right on

Suppose every single one of them was worth 100 cents here and everywhere. What good would they do us unless the next block, and we had something we could trade by which we could get one? Well, we have something to trade; everybody has. Some have labor, so much for a dol-Some have lumber, so much for a dollar. Some have sugar or potatoes or hams or coal or something else, all so much for a dollar. We have advertising and subscriptions, so much for a dollar.

When we want one of those silver dollars, we cannot go and take it. They don't belong to us. They belong to the men who took the silver to the mint to be coined.

If we took one, it would be steal-

If we asked for one for nothing, it would be begging.

If the owners gave us one for nothing, it would be a gift. If we borrowed one, it would cost us interest, and so

Most of us, to get one, must trade labor, lumber, sugar, coal, advertising or something to get it. This is absolutely and honestly so, isn't it? Well, being so, why do we take any chances on the dollar?

We can get gold now. It is worth 100 cents on the dollar everywhere.

So we have supposed the silver to be, Suppose it isn't? What then?

What is the use of taking a chance unless we can do better? A silver dollar won't be worth more than 100 cents, We are getting that now. Let well enough alone. Some say duty compels a democrat to back up and vote for a democrat.
