EXCITING OPPOSITION

Ascendancy of United States Stirs Europe to Action.

Likely That an Alliance Between Italy and Germany and Austria Will Be Formed to Control Commerce of Europe.

A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from Paris says: Addison Harris, former United States minister to Austria, is now in Paris on his way home. He gave to the correspondent the following statement on the commercial sentiment of European nations against the United States: "In 1887 the Austria-Hungarian minister of finance urged on the Austrian parliament the necessity for a continental bond against the United States of America. It was reported that he also addressed notes on the subject to European courts. Austria, in pursuance of this policy, is now engaged in framing a new tariff which it is expected Hungary will ratify, thus making the new Austro-Hungarian tariff take effect in 1903.

"That year the triple alliance expires by limitation, as also do the commercial treaties between the three powers. It is reliably reported that these powers will cooperate commercially at the same time as they renew their martial alliance.

"The board of trade of Austria is diligently engaged in collecting data and framing schedules, and the minister of finance will soon submit the proposed new law to the Austrian parliament. The terms of the schedule have not yet been made public, but one well informed said to me: "After we get our new and our commercial treaties with Germany and Italy, then if the United States want to trade with us they must offer high inducements."

"Of course, how Austria and Hungary may formulate their common tariff is not entirely assured. On this the commercial treaties with Germany and Italy must rest. But the sentiment of farmers and manufacturers is for high protection, with favoritism to their political allies.

"The operations of Mr. Morgan and his associates have energized the people of central Europe. They are not afraid; they have foreseen the fierce struggle with the United States and have been preparing for the fray. Including Italy, Germany and Austria, there are 150,000,000 persons between the Mediterranean and the Baltic. They produce everything we do except cotton. Germany's iron works are second to none, and the question every morning with the merchants of Budapest is, what is the price of grain in Chicago?

"The upholders of the triple alliance claim they have controlled the peace of Europe during the last two years. They contend that with a similar commercial alliance they can regulate the commerce of Europe.

"I do not think the Austrian minister sent invitations to the chancelleries of Europe to join in a coalition against the United States. If he had he would not tell. Anyway, the time is not ripe for such action. European coalition is not impossible, but it is exceedingly difficult."

PENSIONS FOR MAIDS OF HONOR

Ladies of Queen Victoria's Court to Have Small Annuities Given Them.

The ladies of the late Queen Victoria's court, after anxious waiting, have learned that they are to receive pensions, although minute ones. Many of these former members of the royal household, though of high lineage, have meager fortunes, and the maids of honor, etc., found their posts richer in honor than in profit. The excuse for the meagreness of the pensions is the inadequacy of the provisions for the royal expenses.

During the last few years Queen Victoria was unable to make the civil list meet the official expenditure and was obliged to draw on her private fortune. King Edward now has to keep up Balmoral castle and Osborne house, costing £31,000 annually, though he dislikes both places.

MAKES SULPHUR WATER.

French Chemist Powders Volcanic Stones and Then Treats by Boiling in Water.

An eminent French chemist, M. Armand Gaudier, has reported a discovery to the Paris Academy of Sciences which may prove of great hygienic value. He has found that finely powdered volcanic stones, treated by boiling in water at a temperature of 250 to 300 degrees Celsius, yield a liquid identical in composition with the ordinary sulphur water of mineral springs, except that it is stronger than the latter.

Stopped a Mountain's Journey.

A Lausanne correspondent writes that the Swiss engineers have succeeded in arresting the progress of the Moving moutain, near Neuchatel. The measures taken to save the village and valley from destruction were extremely daring and original. They consisted in building a huge cement wall to hold up the mountain, whose sides were full of small crevices, those also being filled with cement. By these means the mountain became firm and most of the danger has passed.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under The Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH, by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation.
