And what they have to say of the Political Situation.

FAIRFIELD COUNTY REPUBLICAN.

As Governor Nash is a candidate for renomination, the county conventions must indorse him for renomination or else go back on his administration, which would be impolitic. We do not think any county will fail to indorse Governor Nash for re-nomination. The indorsements do not by any means indicate that he will get the full Republican vote everywhere he is indorsed. If Governor Nash is renominated, Lieutenant Governor Caldwell can not be turned down or forced into retirement. He must be treated the same as Governor Nash. To renominate Mr. Caldwell would be a factor in reducing the vote of Governor Nash, as the Anti-Saloon League will bitterly oppose his election. The nomination of Nash and Caldwell will mean a very hard fight to elect them. The only way out of the dilemma is to nominate new men for Governor and Lieutenant Governor. This can only be done by Governor Nash declaring against a renomination.

BELMONT CHRONICLE.

John J. Lentz is now a candidate for Senator. This is not especially new, but the matter in which his candidacy is announced is the important thing. Tom Johnson speaks for Lentz, and Lentz when approached manifests a becoming surprise and shyness. He says he has been very busy with his law practice. That is the usual way it is put. Then he goes on to say that he appreciates what such a great and good man (Tom Johnson) says and that he, himself, may say something later on. This is sufficient; Lentz will be a candidate.

LONDON TIMES.

Kilbourne stock seems to be on the rise since the idea has gone out that he is the McLean candidate. Tom Johnson did it with his little interview last week when he said that the "State convention might indorse John R. McLean for Senator and kill the ticket if it wanted to." This interview also destroyed Cleveland's prospect of landing the Democratic convention.

VAN WERT REPUBLICAN.

The leaders in the Democratic camp are making a desperate effort to harmonize the brethren who have traveled in the gold wagon the last four years, to return to their first love, the genuine Democratic party. McLean, of Washington, D. C., seems to be chief dictator in the scheme which means that the contents of his barrel will be handed out liberally, providing there is any show to accomplish anything.

WYANDOT REPUBLICAN.

The State platform of the Democratic party for the past third of a century having been repudiated by the people, and rotted or become obsolete, the leaders of the party are now very busy hunting timber with which to build a new one for the next campaign. What's the matter with '16 to '17?

LEBANON STAR.

Ohio Prohibitionists nominated a State ticket at Akron. For people who have the courage of their convictions the Prohibs are entitled to first place. It will even require a petition to get their ticket printed on the ballot this fall.

OHIO STATE JOURNAL.

During the present visit of Lewis G. Bernard to this city, the matter of selecting a McLean Legislative ticket will be taken up. It is known that McLean has his preference in this matter, and the chosen ones will soon be known, neither is it any secret that Sunday and yesterday Colonel Bernard had conferences with several of the candidates with a view to learning whether they were all right on the Senatorial issue. Whoever are named will be assisted by the McLean machine to secure their nomination and election. There are likely to be some very interesting developments along this line very shortly. If the talk of those who are left out in the cold is to be taken for anything.

YOUNGSTOWN TELEGRAM.

It is little wonder that local Democrats are slow in saying which particular boss will have their support. Two years ago there was a split over reaching a decision between Kilbourne and McLean. This year McLean and Kilbourne are traveling in the same automobile. It will be recalled that the fight for the nomination at Zanesville was most bitter, the Kilbourne men claiming that their man was counted out by the McLean floor managers. Before this was done forty Kilbourne delegates were unseated and their places given to McLean. In view of all this it is not strange that Mahoning Democrats are backward about declaring themselves. Truly politics makes strange bedfellows.

TOLEDO BLADE.

That Kilbourne has elements of strength there is no doubt. There is no political weakness as certain. He has a most pleasing personality and is a gentleman in the best sense of the word. But in politics Colonel Kilbourne is an amateur and he has made a number of blunders which have aroused the enmity of some of the leading Democrats of the State. It is a fact that many politicians think Colonel Kilbourne is too new to be made a candidate for Governor and that, while he is a nice fellow and an excellent business man, he should let politics alone.

MASSILLON INDEPENDENT.

If Colonel Kilbourne is nominated by the Ohio Democratic Convention he will run on a platform dictated by John R. McLean. McLean has been quoted as saying that the time is now ripe for the party to enunciate a platform that is Democratic in every line and syllable. Kilbourne hates Populism and free silver and other strange gods which his party has been wandering after for the past few years. Herein lie the only harmonious possibilities in the general Democratic situation.

MARION STAR.

Colonel Kilbourne is so sure of his nomination for Governor that he is said to be interesting himself in the candidates for the other places on the ticket. It is thought that the delegates will be accorded the privilege of doing the ratifying.

AKRON BEACON.

All the dust which the Democrats of Ohio are trying to throw into the eyes of the Republicans regarding the alleged strife in their ranks is but a ruse to divert attention from the bitter struggle and internecine war over the Governorship and Senatorship in their own ranks.
