Constitutional Convention Delegates.

ROBERT ALLISON, Port Carbon.
S. BIRD EDWARDS, Pottsville.
JOHN J. COYLE, Mahanoy City.

WADLINGER CIRCULAR.

The friends of Mr. Wadlinger have been distributing circulars saying that he is an American for persons to seek a third term, and have cited some cases arising in the walks of civil life. That this is not true of the judiciary is easily seen by a reference to the judiciary of the state. Judge Elwell was elected for the third term in the counties of Columbia and Montour, and the Republicans refused to nominate any person against him. Judge Pearson, of the Dauphin county court, was nominated and elected for his fourth term. Judge Bucher, of Union county, has been renominated for the third term and the Republican members of the bar unanimously endorsed his nomination.

Now that the object of the Democrats in Ohio to capture the Legislature has been made plain, that of changing the mode of electing electors, the Republicans are no longer pathetic and they will look after that body. The Democratic cause is hopeless.

less and they will trade off their candidate for Governor for the Legislature, but it will not work. McKinley and the Legislature are both safe.

WHERE an election takes place on the day preceding his twenty-first birthday a man can vote on age. The courts have so decided in a test case. That is, if a man's birthday falls this year on November 4th he can legally deposit his ballot at the election on November 3rd.

THE skies are growing brighter and brighter. The news from Ohio and New York is of a very cheering character. There is no longer any doubt of the election of McKinley and Fessett by rousing majorities.

SOLDIERS, remember your comrades when you go to the polls next Tuesday. General Gregg and Colonel Morrison are worthy of the suffrage of every ex-soldier or unionist in the state.

JUDGE GREEN'S election is as certain on Tuesday next, as the sun rises. There need be no alarm on that score. Every Republican should endeavor to make his majority as great as possible.

SENATOR QUAY will settle the O'Harrity's, Henzels, McClures, et al. in the courts. The mudslinging of this tribe will be brought to a sudden close and with swift punishment.

LET every Republican see that the vote of his district is gotten out next Tuesday. On a fairly full vote the Democrats have no chance of success.

BEWARE of spurious tickets. Compare your ticket with one that you know is right, before depositing it.

DON'T trade. Vote the whole Republican ticket. The Democrats will not give but take.

GREEN, Smith, Heffner, McGuinness and Clark should poll the full Republican vote.

A FULL Republican vote means a victory. Don't lose sight of this fact.

BEN SMITH is still gaining. He will make an excellent Sheriff.

If you want an able, fearless judge vote for Judge Green.

An Early Delicacy.

A shaw-faced man, dressed in faded and insufficient garments, with a knotted, sandy beard, skipped lightly into a Danbury dry goods store yesterday afternoon. He had huddled up close to him in one arm a glass jar with a bit of dingy muslin over it. He wanted to see the proprietor, and a clerk obligingly pointed out that gentleman to him, who was then engaged in the herculean task of selling a lady half a yard of linen. The stranger stalked up to him.

"Be you the boss, mister?" he asked, with a seductive smile.

"Yes, sir. Anything I can do for you?" "Yes," said the stranger, carefully depositing the jar on the counter, and with an air as if the counter had been erected with this object specially in view. "I've got a prime article of horse-radish here that I want to sell you."

"I don't want to buy any," said the merchant, with a tinge of pettishness in his tone.

"It's a prime article, I can tell ye."

"I don't want it."

"But you ain't looked at it, you ain't tried it," argued the vender.

"I tell you I don't want it."

"You can have it for fifty cents, although it's worth seventy-five. I'll dump it right out in a paper, or I'll leave the jar and you kin bring it back tomorrow."

"I don't want it, I say. Take it away," demanded the merchant, flushing slightly in the face.

"Don't you git in a hurry, boss," persuasively urged the proprietor of the condiment. "You don't git such horse-radish as this every day, I kin inform ye. I growed the roots that came from myself, by jeeke! I growed 'em back of a barn, an I took as much care of their cultivation as if they had been my own flesh and blood. Why, I've got up in the dead of night with a lantern, and went out back of that barn an tucked them up, as it were. An I said to my ole woman, sez I, 'Ole woman, them roots will go to make glad the heart of a merchant prince,' sez I, an here they be, graded up an ready for the table. What do you say?"

"I say, as I said before, that I don't want your stuff, and I want you to take it away from here at once," said the merchant, who had now become very red in the face.

"Stuff" ejaculated the man, with a start, while his eyes watered and his under lip trembled. "Stuff! You call that stuff—that which grew right behind my own barn, an which has had a lantern above it in the dead of night—graded up by my own hands, an with a pint of the best cider vinegar in the country dancing through its veins—you call it stuff, do you? an you stand right here in the broad light of day declares that none of that horse-radish will fresco your cold meat, an set up before your children like a thing of beauty? All right." (He gathered the jar up in his arm again.) "You can't have this horse-radish now. You needn't whimper for it. Not a word from you," he added, with as much earnestness as if the merchant had dropped on his knees and was agonizingly begging for a hopeless favor.

"You ain't got money enough in your hull store to buy a grain of it. You shouldn't git as much as a smell of it if you was to git right down on your snoot an howl till you were cracked open. Gosh darn me!" he suddenly shouted, "I'll go out on the boundless prairie an eat every bit of it myself, if it burns a hole clean through me as big as a tunnel, an sets the prairie afire an devastates the land."

And with this terrific threat he strode gloomily away in search of a prairie.

TOWN TALKER!

THOUGHTS OF THIS AND THAT THREADED TOGETHER.

THEMES TERSELY TABULATED

The Tattle of the Tattlers Timely Taken and Told Typographically in a Tasteful and Tempting Tone.

The road of the newspaper man is, indeed a rough one—especially at the present time.

A HERALD reporter scoured the town today for news, but failed to find any. All of the Justices of the Peace wear a most mournful aspect. "Nothing doing," said one, "Politics form the bulk of all movable things just now. Thank goodness Tuesday will end the agony and give the poor 'quires a chance to get in a bill of costs."

A party of local Democratic politicians went down the valley today to spend a few dimes in Girardville and Ashland. They returned smiling, but it is rumored that the results will not develop according to their expectations.

Assistant District Attorney Shay was in town today. He said, "Pottsville will give Judge Green 1,000 majority. The Independent Democratic Committee is doing excellent work throughout the county. The report that those gentlemen are not in earnest is absurd."

It is a nice thing for the friends of a candidate for judgeship to be promising kegs of beer.

So that all may know the fact: Candidate for Judge, George J. Wadlinger, is married to a Welsh woman. The friends of Mr. Wadlinger seem very anxious that this should be impressed upon the minds of the Welsh voters of the county. I see no objection to helping to impress the fact, but would say that if George J. Wadlinger is elected judge his wife will not preside at trials.

It is said that "Jim" Smith, of town, would not object to accepting a deputy sheriffship. "Jim," in this case is quite wise. Should he say he wanted a deputyship we should be tempted to criticize him.

The man who seeks a judgeship and his tactics should be dignified. The office is one of dignity.

Harry McGinnis was in town today. Harry is in the race and will be able to report on Tuesday.

Get the Genuine. If you suffer with lame back, especially in morning, Allcock's Plasters are a sure relief.

If you cannot sleep, try an Allcock Plaster, well up between the shoulder blades—often relieves—sometimes cures. Try this before you resort to opiates.

If any of your muscles are lame—joints stiff—feel as if they want oiling—or if you suffer with any local pains or aches, these plasters will cure you.

If you use them once you will realize why so many plasters have been made in imitation of them. Like all good things, they are copied as closely as the law allows. Don't be duped by taking an imitation when it is so easy to get the genuine.

If you always insist upon having Allcock's Purus Plasters and never accept a substitute, you will not be disappointed. 3f

Special Sermon. By special request of Major Jennings Council, No. 267, Jr. O. U. A. M., of town, Rev. Wm. Powick, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will deliver a special sermon to-morrow evening, the subject being: "Patriotism, a Religious Duty." The organization will attend the church in a body. The large congregations that attend this church on Sundays to hear the able pastor, is evidence of the treat in store for the members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. to-morrow evening.

The "Hookies" Anniversary.

On Tuesday evening, next, the Raccoon Hook & Ladder Company, of town, will celebrate its seventeenth anniversary. A supper will be held in the house of the company, the Grant Cornet Band will be present to render some of its excellent music, and the festivities will close with a hop.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my Lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all, eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store, regular size, 50c. and $1.00.
