GENERAL LOCAL ITEMS.

Notices in these columns, ten cents per line, each insertion. Marked *

—Mr. Charles Mason is sick, though not seriously so.

—Check books, receipt books, order books, etc., made to order on short notice at THE BULLETIN office.

—Mr. John Lebrer, the efficient assistant of Wm. Kluge in his grocery business, went to Paducah yesterday on a visit to his relations.

—Sailing on Lake Elmwood was a favorite amusement among some of the young folks Sunday, but the lakes are now rapidly disappearing.

—WANTED—Boy to learn to set type and work in THE BULLETIN news-room. Apply by letter in own hand-writing.

—"Frank Rexford," the trotting stallion of L. J. Koehler, sprained his right hind ankle a few days ago. He is rapidly recovering under proper treatment.

—WANTED—Two good farm hands; steady work for the season and good wages paid. Apply to No. 56, Ohio levee.

—Mr. T. E. Clark, of the C. & V. Ry., has taken Walt Wright's new cottage, and will occupy it with his family as soon as it is completed.

—Galesburg is strictly temperate—no saloons. People get their whisky imported in soap boxes and molasses kegs, and there is in consequence more drunkenness than in larger towns where licenses are issued.

—Wallace Luttrell, of Fulton Ky., was in the city yesterday. He is preparing with his brother to open up in Paducah, Ky., in the clothing business, on the first of April.

—The county commissioners met at the court house yesterday and began the transaction of business. They will have about all they can do for two or three days more.

—Two coal barges, which probably floated down the Mississippi river when it was at its highest this season and was on the fall, were stranded near the Mississippi levee, opposite the gas-house, where they now lay.

—We advertised for a boy to learn printing. We have had several answers, but the one published in another column carries the best recommendation with it. "200 pounds that never runs and will stand right by us in a fight." That's the kind of boy we are looking for.

—Messrs. Bush and Hubbard, of Columbus, Ky., will be here to-day, and speak at the Reform hall to-night and to-morrow night. These gentlemen are both good speakers and earnest temperance workers, who never fail to impress their hearers with the justness of their cause.

—The member of the company of Boston Lancers who was struck in the forehead by a piece of an iron hook on the end of a hawser, which was being used in replacing the engine of the excursion train on the track at Centralia, died before he reached home. His name was Wm. Daily.

—The alarm of fire was sounded for the second time yesterday about half past one o'clock and was caused by the burning out of the flue of a house on the corner of Fifth street and Jefferson avenue, occupied by Mr. John English. The fire was put out before the engines got there. No damage was done.

—Geo. Chellet was on the street yesterday afternoon shaking hands with his acquaintances and receiving congratulations over a happy event that happens in nearly every well regulated family—the welcoming of the first born. George is the father of a bouncing boy—11 pounds—born 10 a. m. yesterday. Next!

—The city council meets to-night. The business to be transacted is mostly routine; but not entirely without importance. The most important will be the settlement of the fire limits, about which there seems to be some excitement and dissatisfaction among some of our citizens, especially those who contemplate the erection of new buildings.

—The negro Redding will have his preliminary examination to-morrow, when it will be established whether or not there is any necessity of holding the two other negroes that have been arrested. The feeling against him in the community where the crime was committed is intense, and his story implicating the negroes Black and Perkins is not believed.

—Captain Miller, of the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans railroad, reports the business of the road to be greater than its facilities for transportation can accommodate. Calls for more freight cars from the south are quite frequent, which is not only a sign of the popularity of the road, but also of the prosperity of the south; for it proves that a southern produce and manufactures are beginning to move to northern markets and a corresponding movement of ready wealth to the south.

—From the two entertainments given lately by the Cairo Amateur Dramatic Company for the benefit of the Sisters of Loretto, $198.40 gross was realized. On receiving the net proceeds $87, the Sisters thanked the ladies and gentlemen of the company for their voluntary and energetic efforts to help them replace their burnt building. They were also pleased to know what a profound interest our citizens generally manifest in our enterprise having for its object the early completion of their new and much longed for academy.

—A fire broke out through the roof of the frame building occupied by Mr. Daniel Hele as a shoe shop in one side and by a negro, Thomas Freeman by name, as a barber shop, in the other. It came through the side occupied by the latter, and destroyed a good portion of that part of the roof. But the fire engines were promptly on hand and the building, which is the property of Mr. Hele, was saved. Freeman sustained some loss to his effects from water, but this is only nominal. There was no insurance upon the property.

—We would like to trade our telephone wire, or number for some other number or wire, or a small boy to carry messages or anything else that can be depended upon. Number 62 will do very well in bright, clear weather, when one would as soon "take a walk" as not, but let it rain or snow, or even threaten and immediately and invariably the wire gets crossed, tied up and mixed up with every wire in the city, and we hear everybody and everything but the person or thing we want. Who wants to trade, borrow or buy? Don't all shout at once.

—The Young Folks Temperance Club had a splendid meeting at Reform hall last night. In spite of the fact that it rained the greater part of the evening and the sidewalks were wet and crossings muddy, quite a number of the members and some visitors were congregated to witness the exercises and enjoy a social evening. Miss Nellie McGahey was the first on the roll with a select reading; then came a historical question, by Miss Emma Shepard, and next another select reading, by Miss Jennie Wright. All were exceedingly well rendered. Two weeks from yesterday the literary exercises will give place to a social and a feast on coffee and sandwiches.

—It is not generally known that hotels as a class are imposed upon by professional beats, who are so cunning that it is only with great shrewdness one is outwitted and brought to justice. All manner of tricks are resorted to in order that landlords may be defrauded. Empty trunks often secure a week's lodging at a first class hotel. The female beat is by all odds the worst of all. It is often played that they are robbed of various articles, and sooner than have the report gain currency a small fee is given, besides the loss of board, &c. Quite often men have gone into hotels with naught but a long duster and no trousers on. A big row is raised and the unsuspecting keeper feeds the alleged victim of bold robbery and he goes about again doing likewise unto others. No landlord tells of his misfortune to a fellow business man in fear of damage to his house. And thus they are allowed to prowl about devouring all whom chance may have thrown in their way. It was only yesterday that one of these human parasites or walking and talking sharks attempted to beat a prominent hotel of this city.

—The Knights of Honor will celebrate their second anniversary to-night with music, dancing and feasting. The organization has reason to feel good over the manner in which the first two years of its existence have passed away. There is not an institution in the city that has been more prosperous from every point of view that it has been. It has lost only one of its members by death and has constantly increased in membership, and its assessments have always been promptly met. The celebration to-night will be a grand affair.

—The Mystic Krew celebrated the installation of their newly elected officers last night in a magnificent manner. The full membership was present including a great many invited friends and the ceremony was conducted in a manner highly creditable to those who had it in charge. The table was especially fine and called forth many exclamations of satisfaction from those who partook of its dainties. It was spread by Mr. Wm. Cundiff, G. G. C. and his wife. We regret that the lateness of the hour and the lack of space prevent us from saying more about it at this time.

—The latest addition to the telephone directory is the residence of Mr. Andrew Lohr, which is numbered 121. Mr. S. P. Wheeler's law office has also been connected and is numbered 133. The system seems to continue to spread, slowly but surely, in spite of the fact that so many muttered implications are called forth from some of the subscribers. There are various ways in which all things may become a nuisance, but in most cases where a really useful article becomes so the cause is not in its use but in its abuse. The telephone system here is one of incalculable value, but it is just like all other great blessings—it is not entirely beyond the reach of evil minded or mischievous persons who use it, or rather misuse it, for the purpose of vexing persons, who have neither time nor inclination to serve as the butts for foolishness. And when they have irritated some poor overworked clerk into madness they withdraw and let him find out the best way he can who his tormentor was. The victim, then filled with wrath, strikes a trail and pursues it in hot haste until he comes upon what he supposes to be the wretch that dared to mock and abuse him. He pounces upon him intending to chastise him for his brazenness; but alas, the supposed wretch proves a pretty good punner himself and the victim of verbal abuse now becomes the victim of physical abuse. This is shameful. The telephone is to blame. Through it the mischief was done. It does not shrink the responsibility and it should feel the heavy hand of the victim.

—The difficulty experienced in securing jurors in murder cases where the accused has money or friends suggests the advisability of a change in the law defining the qualifications of jurors in murder cases. As the law is at present it is almost impossible to get intelligent jurors. In every community nearly everybody is a newspaper reader, and those who read little else are pretty sure to read the accounts of murders. Everyone is influenced in some measure by what he reads, but because a man forms an opinion from newspaper statements, it doesn't follow that he is unable to change that opinion if the testimony brought out on the trial of a case justifies a change. A man is hardly entitled to be considered intelligent who, having formed an opinion from a statement of facts which he has read or heard, admits that his already formed opinion would not be affected if the statements on which he based his opinion were shown to be erroneous. A great many intelligent men, in order to escape jury duty, take advantages of the law and boldly declare they have formed no strong opinion that it is impossible for them to judge fairly between the state and the accused person. Very few of them would be so positive in their declarations if they were not influenced by a desire to avoid the performance of a disagreeable duty, or if they did not think that their private business matters were of more importance than the enforcement of the laws against criminals. The result of this condition of the law which encourages false swearing on the part of those who are summoned as jurors is that the proceedings of courts are obstructed and delayed, the state is put to a very heavy expense in securing a jury.

To always protect the weakest parts is a duty, and it is especially the duty of those whose lungs are being weakened by the constant wear of coughing to protect them by using a soothing remedy, such as Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents.

THE ROD.

WHO PASSED UNDER IT YESTERDAY AS IT WAS HELD ALOFT IN THE HANDS OF JUDGE OLMSTED.

Rich Grace was drunken with too much of the liquid, which eateth away the understanding, and was arrested by the conservator of the peace and brought before his honor who fined him as the ordinances and the nature of his offense demanded. But, though Rich, Grace had not a red and he went to the dismal city dungeon for four long days.

Thomas Smith was drunk. He was not only drunk, but he was crazy drunk, for he acted as though there was only one Smith in the world. He was white, so-called, but he blackened the good name of a numerous and withal a glorious family, and therefore his crime was the more heinous. The judge pondered over Tom's case long and sorrowfully, but finally sent him to jail for a time to sober up and repent.

Thomas McCarty was drunk and found it difficult to move about without being run up against by rude men and women and apple-stands and lamp-posts and things. An officer pitied him and took him to Judge Olmsted's who fined him one dollar and costs, which was paid.

Frank Jenkins was arrested on the charge of brutally beating one of his nudes but the evidence was insufficient to sustain the charge and he was discharged.

Last but not least, they are especially grateful to the Rough and Ready Fire Co. for the use of the hall in which the anniversary exercises were held, and to Mr. W. C. Melner and Mr. C. Tell for favors rendered on that occasion.
