MEX. WOMEN AND BOOKS.

EDITED IN THE INTEREST OF THE CAIRO PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The death is announced of William Harrison Ainsworth, an English novelist whose works were widely read in the circulating libraries of America and English. He was born in Lancashire in 1805.

WITHIN the past week the fund for the endowment of a Garfield professorship at Williams College has received an addition of about $5,000 in Boston. The total raised for the purpose is about $35,000. About $15,000 more is needed.

A PORTRAIT of Luther, until now unknown, has been discovered in an old Leipzig church. It is stamped upon gilt leather, and bears an inscription which identifies it. It is well preserved and is a good likeness and a fine work of art.

THE latest gift of Mr. Robert L. Stuart, of New York, to Pinceton seminary is a lot of houses opposite to the new professor's houses which were built by Mr. Lenox, costing $5,000, and the sum of $18,000 for the erection of a house thereon for Professor Patton.

A HOUSE built by Daniel Symmes, brother of John Cleve Symmes, the founder of Cincinnati, has just been demolished. It was the oldest landmark in the city proper. John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," was a frequent guest within its walls.

Mr. WHITTIER has written thus to a New Haven school which recently celebrated his birthday by recitations of his writings: "I wish these writings were better, for your sake as well as mine, but I trust you will find them not unfaithful to truth, duty, freedom, patriotism and Christian charity. With every good wish for your progress in knowledge and virtue, I am very truly thy friend, John G. Whittier."

A CANDIDATE for the appointment to the Bodleian librarianship, who flatters himself that he is skilled in Latin hymns, lately bored Mr. Swinburne for some time by a conversation on hymnology. The poet, with characteristic audacity, invented a line and a half of monkish Latin, and asked if his interlocutor happened to know the hymn from which they came. "Know it!" was the answer; "why, I say it over every night before going to bed!"

Mrs. A. D. T. WHITNEY, the author, lives at Milton, near Boston, and has a most picturesque home. The house is a quaint, old-fashioned brown one, with a broad veranda across the front, supported by pillars, over which climb trailing vines. Every room has its shelves or table of books—they are scattered everywhere in charming profusion. Mrs. Whitney, like many another woman writer, does away with the blue-stocking "tradition," and is as neat and practical as a housewife as she is delightful as an author.

Mr. A. B. ALCOCK and his daughter, Louisa, celebrated their birthday last Tuesday by addressing poems to each other. Mr. Alcock wrote not long ago some pretty little verses to his two-year-old grand daughter, the child of his dead child May. Thus they begin:

My babe! my pleasure! day by day
I court thy soft and sunny smile,
Whilst round my chamber thou dost pray,
And woo mine eyes with cunning wile.

Mr. HENRY JAMES is, it is reported, about to write a novel of Cambridge life. Mr. James is now nearly forty years old; he is a man of medium height, of firm figure and full and now ruddy face. His hair and eyes are dark, his forehead is high, his full beard close-cropped. A correspondent of Hartford Courant says that his dress, air and manner are those of an Englishman, and that in his general contour of face and form he resembles the Prince of Wales.

SUCCESSFUL LITERARY NAMES.

Clemens, the humorist (better known as Mark Twain), has done better than any man of his time of labor. He has been 15 years before the public, and during that time has become rich enough to live off his income. His property in Hartford is worth more than $80,000. Mrs. Stowe has made more by her pen than any other American woman, and has probably cleared $100,000. This may seem like a large sum, but when it is spread through a quarter of a century it is not such an immense sum as it first appears to be. Marian Harland (Mrs. Terhune) who has written industriously for 20 years, has probably made $30,000 by a dozen novels. Her cook-book has also been very profitable. Mary J. Holmes has been also highly successful. Gail Hamilton (Miss Dodge) enjoyed a good sale of her books during her early days of authorship, but her vanity got the better of her judgment, and she quarreled with her publishers. Her next book was devoted to the quarrel, and at once impaired her popularity. She now has a corner in the papers, but will never do much in books again. Walworth, who was shot by his son, never made much out of his books, and they were, in fact, too inferior to sell without extraordinary puffing. Josh Billings (Shaw) has found unusual popularity. He is witty and says many wise as well as funny things. It seems a pity that such a clever fellow should be obliged to borrow the jokes of poor Artemus Ward and print them as original, but such is one of the weaknesses of funny fellows. Carleton has paid Shaw $30,000 for his almanac, which has been issued for ten years or more. —Rochester Democrat.

Eggs from Different Breeds of Fowls.

A correspondent of the Ohio Farmer, Fanny Field, gives the results of some experiments and observations, as follows:

After repeated experiments with the different varieties, and comparisons with others who have experimented in the same direction, I have concluded that the laying capabilities of the principal varieties are about as follows:

Light Brahams and Partridge Cochins—eggs, seven to the pound; lay 130 per annum.

Dark Brahams—eggs, eight to the pound; lay 120 per annum.

Black, white and buff Cochins—eggs, eight to the pound; lay 125 per annum.

Plymouth Rock—eggs, 3 to the pound; lay 150 per annum.

Houdans—eggs, 8 to the pound; lay 130 per annum.

La Fleche—eggs, 7 to the pound; lay 130 per annum.

Black Spanish—eggs, 7 to the pound; lay 130 per annum.

Leghorns—eggs, 9 to the pound; lay 160 per annum.

Hamburgs—eggs, 9 to the pound; lay 150 per annum.

Polish—eggs, 9 to the pound; lay 125 per annum.

Bantams—eggs, 16 to the pound; lay 90 per annum.

I regret very much that I did not keep account of the cost of food consumed by each variety.

The Rose and the Glove.

Why did he leave like this? Heaven knows; Why, I think of his love; He left me a kiss and a new-plucked rose; And I—for the fancy's sake, I suppose—Gave him my violet glove.

The ships sail over the seas, I know, Too far for a maiden's sight! The ships sail on, the strong winds blow, And some to the lands of the Orient go, And some to the starry night!

I look, and over the waves afar The white sails flicker and gleam, And the ship rides gayly over the bar; But the night is black, with never a star, And my heart is sad with its dream!

Only the dim of the sea's far strand, Only the dark I see; But he left me here, by the trodden sand, With only a rose in my little hand, And never a word for me!

He Didn't Take It.

He said he was looking for a suitable holiday present for his girl, and after the stationer's clerk had showed him boxes of writing paper, gilt covered volumes of poetry, scrap books, fancy ink bottles and various other things, he finally led him up to a pile of albums and announced:

"Now, then, here is the very thing you want. An album is the gift to be appreciated at all times, and the girls are always crazy about 'em'."

"They put photographs in 'em, don't they?"

"That's what they are for. Your betrothed will place your photo here in the first page."

"Yes."

"On the next will be the photograph of her noble father. Then comes the fond
