GENERAL LOCAL ITEMS.

Notices in these columns, ten cents per line, each insertion and whether marked or not, if calculated to forward any man's business interest are always paid for.

—New type at THE BULLETIN office.

—Judge J. J. Bird was elected one of the vice-presidents of the colored Springfield convention. Where was Hon. Washington Thomas Jefferson Scott?

—Job printing at THE BULLETIN office.

—A party of young people contemplate a visit to New Orleans in a week or ten days, a pleasure trip. Mrs. Menager, Miss Della Gordon and Miss McGrath are among them.

—New presses at THE BULLETIN office.

—Sixty persons have just been divorced in Chicago in one day. There would be more divorces in Chicago if it were not for the fact that many bridegrooms make their escape just before the wedding day.

—Printing and ruling at THE BULLETIN job office.

—One of the denizens of Pinch thought it about time yesterday to let the world know that Pinch was still extant. She raised Ned with a dusky companion and Justice Robinson fined her $5 and costs.

—Commercial printing at THE BULLETIN office.

—A gentleman, in the city or out of it, having a cottage centrally located in this city, which he desires to sell can learn the address of a cash buyer by perusing our special local column this morning.

—Wedding invitations at THE BULLETIN office.

—Headly was the twenty-sixth Democratic governor. Only eleven of the United States are now under Republican rule. Illinois is on the verge and will flop over into the Democratic ranks next year.

—The butcher shop on the south side of Eighth street, nearest Commercial avenue, is now run by Louis K. Koehler, sr., and Louis J. Koehler. Meats of all kinds and best quality always on hand. 4t

—A negro named Frank Barnett created a disturbance Tuesday night on Ohio levee near Twelfth street. He attempted to enter a negro den of vice there kept by Jennie Warren and being refused admission became furious and concluded by discharging a pistol at the door. He was arrested yesterday and was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Comings.

—There has been much mortality among hogs in the city during the last ten days. Chief Meyers has made the health of the city one of his principal objects all summer and has been constantly on the look-out for things that might prove injurious to the public health. Dead animals of different kinds have been found nearly every day somewhere; but during the last four or five days he has had, on an average, five carcasses of hogs removed from different parts of the city every day. It is evident that some kind of a disease prevails to some extent among the porkers of the city.

—The people of this country consume 1,225,000 tons of sugar and molasses. Of this 1,000,000 tons are imported, the duty on which is $90,000,000, every cent of which comes out of the pockets of the consumers for the benefit of the men who make the 225,000 tons. And besides this the people say the manufacturers of the 225,000 tons a bonus of over $20,000,000 direct. A protective tariff is a costly luxury.

—On the 29 and 30th of this month the people of Cairo will have an opportunity to see for the first time in Cairo some of the genuine Shakespearian plays, presented here by a company that is now drawing crowded houses in the principal theatre in Baltimore. Newspapers reports from there are to the effect that people are being turned away from the theatre doors every night for want of room.

—Another switchman on the Wabash road has been requested to appear before Magistrate Comings this morning to answer the charge of switching on Commercial avenue above Second street. It seems that though everything is so ought to be now in readiness in the Mobile and Ohio yards, so as to permit all the switching of freight there, this is not being done, hence the trial for this morning.

—We have had the pleasure of examining Geo. T. Cram's Unrivalled Family Atlas for which Mr. Wm. C. Hirte will make a thorough canvass of our city. He also desires to secure a few good agents to work in Kentucky, Missouri and Arkansas. Any person wishing a light, pleasant and paying business would do well to call on or address Wm. C. Hirte, general agent, DuQuoin, Ill.

—A cross woman with aching head and blistered hands; a house in general disorder with a "sunday" smell pervading everything; cold meals and colder comfort, used to be the lot of mankind on washing day. Not so now in the thousands of homes where James Pyle's "Pearline" is used. Compared with the old way, washing is a delight where "Pearline" is used. From an economical point housekeepers cannot afford to get along without it, and the saving of the nerves is a more important item than the saving of the clothing, and "Pearline" saves both.

—The young local scribe of the Paducah News in an effort to be funny at the expense of Cairo young ladies, tries to make it appear that a Cairo belle tried in vain to get a Cairo belle to put on and wear a huge shoe displayed as a sign at a shoe shop in the city of never-to-be-realized "great expectations." The Cairo belle couldn't wear the shoe; of course not, as well try to make a sun bean don a universal night. But the exultation of the funny News man at this failure of one of Cairo's fair ones leads one naturally to the conclusion that for the Paducah belle a "No. 40 shoe requiring two cow hides for its construction" is a very comendous, a very "dresy," "Sunday-go-to-meetin'" foot gear.

—The Cleveland Plain Dealer says: "Republicanism had 15,559 majority in Ohio the year before the presidential election in 1856; it had 13,236 majority the year before the presidential election in 1860; it had 101,099 majority the year before the presidential election in 1864; it had 2,953 majority the year before the presidential election in 1870; it had 20,158 majority the year before the presidential election in 1872; it had 5,544 majority the year before the presidential election in 1876; it had 17,129 majority the year before the presidential election of 1880. And now in the year preceding the presidential election of 1884 it is beaten 10,000 on the highest vote ever polled in the state. The Republican party must go."

—Cram's Unrivalled Family Atlas is the best work of the kind that has yet been issued. One of its merits, and it is the least one, is the low price at which it sells, placing it in the reach of every family. It not only gives a county map of every state and territory of the United States, but goes further and does what no other American publisher has yet done, gives a county map of each of the different divisions of Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. The population of each, number of miles of railroads and telegraph wire, increase and decrease of public and state debts,—an insight into astronomy,—in fact, is a half dozen volumes condensed into one. Mr. Hirte, of DuQuoin, is general agent for the work, and will give our people an opportunity of examining the book for themselves.

—The Tenth street sewer is rapidly approaching completion, though it is being very carefully constructed. It will be a very important improvement in our sewer system. It is being very substantially constructed. The brick used is all hard-burned brick, such as is being used in the construction of our sidewalks. They are laid on edge in cement, three deep, making the walls of the sewer about thirteen inches thick. The joints are all what masons call "shove joints," so that the cement is pressed into the joints from all sides, preventing leakage from either side. While the sewer, when finished, will emit an immense quantity of water people must not expect too much from it, for it may be that the connecting sewers, many of which are not large, were, in very great measure, the cause of the slow outflow before, and will serve as a check in the future just as in the past. Certain it is, however, that the new outlet will prove of ample capacity to afford passage for all the water the connecting sewers can pour into it.

—Notices are up in different parts of the county, ordering an election to be held on the 6th day of November next, for the purpose of electing one county commissioner and of voting upon the proposition of prohibiting cows and hogs to run at large within the county. The latter proposition is submitted to a vote of the people of the county upon a petition by the voters of Clear Creek precinct, where timber is so scarce that fences can not be built around all the farms without importing it or resorting to wire fencing. It will be voted upon by the people of the whole county and the result will, of course, apply to Cairo as well as other parts of the county. The question will doubtless call forth considerable discussion and induce the polling of a much larger vote than the election of a commissioner only would have done. Commissioner T. W. Halliday's term expires.

—A special feature of the business situation is the record of failures for the quarter ending with September. During that period there were 1,803 failures, against 1,300 for the corresponding quarter of 1882, while the amount of liabilities was $52,072,884, against $18,073,898 during the same quarter the preceding year. But the New York Tribune remarks that the quarterly report of failures, though decidedly the reverse of cheering, caused no surprise, because the recollection of numerous and heavy failures in New York and in New England was fresh, and has prepared everybody for an unfavorable report. It is still the prevalent feeling that business is generally sound, and will be the safer and more healthy for the weeding out to which several branches have been subjected. With regard to the prospects for the next six months the Financial Chronicle observes that whatever the outcome, great caution and conservatism are sure to characterize business operations for some time to come. But reports show trade in general to be good. The Chronicle remarks that in the west and south the feeling among merchants shows more satisfaction with their business transactions than appears in the east. As to foreign trade, the figures for August show improvement over those for July; imports were heavier, but the exports were $8,000,000 larger. The result is, that instead of a balance of trade of $4,000,000, 000 against us in merchandise, as in July, there nearly $3,000,000 in our favor.

—The state elections yet to occur this year will be held on Tuesday, November 6. The complete list is as follows: Connecticut will elect one-half its senate and its full house of representatives. Maryland will elect governor, comptroller, attorney general and legislature. Massachusetts will elect governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general, auditor and legislature. Minnesota will elect governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general and railroad commissioner, and vote upon three proposed amendments to the constitution of the state, which provide (1) that the general elections shall be held hereafter in November in each even year; (2) that the secretary of state, treasurer and the attorney general shall serve two years and the state auditor four years; and (3) fix the terms of service of the judges and the Clerk of the supreme court and of the judges of the district court of the state. Mississippi will elect its legislature. Nebraska will elect a justice of its supreme court and regents of the state university. New Jersey will elect governor, part of its senate and its full house of representatives. New York will elect secretary of state, comptroller, treasurer, attorney-general, engineer and surveyor and both branches of the legislature, and vote upon a proposition to abolish contract labor from the state prisons. Pennsylvania will elect auditor-general and state treasurer. Virginia will elect part of its senate and its full assembly.

—The Paducah News seems to think that the possible construction of the Wetaug road is, or ought to be, a source of displeasure to Cairo and ought to be cried down by us with all the energy of despair. And seeing that we have seen fit to regard the enterprise with much indifference, it has taken upon itself the "painful" task of pointing out to us the disastrous effects the construction of the road must have upon Cairo. While ordinary politeness would require us to thank the News for its solicitude (assuming, of course, that it were sincere), we must beg leave to differ entirely with our kind contemporary as to the designs of the Illinois Central company in projecting this new branch or the effects of the branch in case it is constructed. Though we can tell to a certain extent and with a great degree of certainty what are not the company's designs, we know nothing about what ARE the designs of the company in projecting the line; we do not profess to know what would be the objects of the company if it constructed the projected line—and this is all the Paducah News can say—not a word more. But the News has been entirely off in its belief that either the projection or the construction of the line has any terrors for the people of Cairo. Cairo would look with pleasure upon th completion of this new branch of road, because it would open up to her a rich country that is now tributary only to the small, inland country villages, or little river towns, like Paducah. The Cairo flour mills, among the largest in the state, consuming vast quantities of grain and drawing their supplies from every county in southern Illinois and from all the adjoining counties in Kentucky and Missouri, and then often failing in supply, look with especial pleasure upon the proposed new road, for it would open up to them a vast tract of rich grain fields, right in front of Paducah, from which they would draw additional supplies. So far from being a source of displeasure to anybody in Cairo, the new branch is one of much satisfaction. The News' warning we laugh to scorn; its pity we do not want. Cairo is not a fit subject for pity from any source, particularly not from an old clucking hen that is still dripping from the last ducking she got. Cairo's prospects for a prosperous future are brighter now than they have been; business in all its branches has been steadily improving during the last few weeks; everybody is hopeful and cheerful. The city is in better condition than she has ever been before and she looks with the utmost unconcern toward the next flood, which is more than Paducah can say for herself in view of the ravages there of the last high rise. We repeat, Cairo doesn't want pity from the Paducah News or any other source.

WESTERN RAMBLINGS.

Special Correspondence to The Bulletin: DENVER, COLO., Oct. 14.—In this, the first of a series of letters, we will speak to your many readers of this, the Queen City of the plains, as it is called. Denver City, with its seventy thousand inhabitants, is a wonder to most visitors on their first arrival. The long, weary stretch of road crossing the almost barren plains before Denver is reached, fits one for a change and one is not disappointed when the train moves alongside the magnificent Union depot. A change indeed is to be put down amidst the bustle and confusion of a real business mart, where everything is carried on in a style similar to what one is used to in the eastern cities. The many large business blocks towering up from three to seven-stories high, is quite a surprise. The city is tidy and well kept. Evidences on every side denote thrift and wealth. Indeed it is the home of many millionaires. A short scrap of the early history of this, the metropolis of the Rocky Mountain region, will, we are sure, be full of interest.

Twenty-five years ago, the first band of pilgrims, headed by Green Russell, from the valley of the Mo., landed, or went into camp, at the mouth of Cherry Creek, the present site of Denver, and went to work prospecting for gold. Their search was not in vain. Other sections were prospected over and the glittering lure found in many places. The great Pike's Peak rush soon followed. Scores of persons came and from that day to this the prosperity of the territory, now a state, has been remarkable. From 1878 to 1881, 20,000 people came to this country. A certain old-timer, speaking of the early settlement of Colorado said: "The first sound of the church-going bell that broke the stillness of these valleys and echoed among the pine-clad hills stirred."
