BRYAN'S DOUBLE, H. K. WOLF OF TEXAS.

This is not a picture of William J. Bryan, but of H. K. Wolf of Dallas, Tex., who is known all over the United States as Mr. Bryan's double. He is member of the Dallas lodge of the Elks and was prominent in the recent convention of the order in Philadelphia. His profile is much like that of Mr. Bryan, and he wears his hair as the distinguished Nebraskan does. He also affects a slouch hat of the type the editor of the Commoner customarily wears.

The liver is a convenient thing to blame because you drink too much the night before.

If it weren't for the money to be saved a man could give up drinking and smoking without any trouble.
