POULTRY KEEPERS SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

In order to produce a record crop of baby turkeys, most of our equipment will be devoted to turkey hatching during the month of May.

To offset this, we will take off large hatches of chicks until May 1, and we urge you to fill your needs before that time if possible.

A post card or phone call will reserve yours for you. No deposit necessary. Chicks available now.

It is your duty to produce eggs and poultry meat to the limit of your capacity—and it will be profitable too. Free folder on "care of chicks."

White Bluffs Folks Make Arrangements to Leave

White Bluffs—Several of the local families have made arrangements for moving from this district. While not required to actually vacate until the first of June, many want to get located so as to be ready to handle spring farm work.

Dorman D. Hall, one of the local farmers, has purchased a farm at Grandview, which he plans to operate this year. Alex Parke has purchased a soft fruit ranch across the river from Prosser and is already at work there although he has not yet moved to the place. Sam Allard, mayor and chief factotum of White Bluffs is renting an apartment in Grandview. Ed A. Schilling has purchased a five-acre tract in the Nob Hill district at Kennewick. D. J. Burch has purchased a place two miles below Prosser on the Yakima river, while Chris Henderer and Francis Moede have purchased apple orchards in Wenatchee. C. I. Wright has moved to Yakima as has also Fred Gilhuly who has purchased a home there. F. N. Henssley and F. N. Arnold have both secured jobs at "Big Pasco" and will probably move to that vicinity to be near their work. Residents who have been evacuated are not required to relinquish any of their personal property, regardless of rumors to the contrary.

Most of the organizations in the Hanford-White Bluffs area have decided to disband, some of them having had a life of 30 years or more. Several of them held final get-together meetings and dinners during the past week.

The local cannery, a cooperative organization, held a meeting last week to disband. There were originally some 50 members, each of whom contributed $20 toward the organization. After the assets were sold, each member received something over $16 as his share.
