A Barrel Travels How Fast From A Point To The Columbia Bridge?

How long will it take for a barrel to float from a certain point on the Columbia down to the Pasco bridge?
 That sounds something like the old question: Which would you rather do or go fishing?

But in this case, the one who gets the closest will receive real money. It's a game of skill.
 July 9 has been selected as kick-off date for the Kennewick Swimming Pool parade and the opening of sale of tickets on the "barrel float" planned to take place Labor day, next September 5.

These decisions were among those made Friday night at the regular meeting of the swimming pool group at the offices of the Kennewick Chamber of Commerce.

The group's next meeting will be held June 29, to complete plans for the kick-off parade. Meanwhile all active organizations and individuals are urged to plan floats for the big parade. The group voted to accept the offer of the Jantzen Knitting Mills of Portland to furnish swim suits for the parade. Prominent residents, both men and women, will be asked to don the suits, which will present a chronological history of swimming styles from the 1880's on.

The "barrel float" will be handled similarly to the Alaska Ice break pool, except that instead of guessing on the day and hour of the ice break, the guesses will be on how long it takes a sealed barrel to float from a given point on the Columbia down to the Kennewick-Pasco bridge. Each ticket entitles the purchaser to one guess. The closest guesser will receive a percentage of the sales "take."

Midstate theatres in Kennewick are planning a Baby Bathing Beauty contest on the stage of the Benton theatre. Entrants will be sponsored by Kennewick business houses, and proceeds from admission fees will go into the swimming pool fund. The date will be announced later.

Henry Smith, vice-president, held the chair Friday night in the absence of President Hazel Hawkins. Mrs. Zee Selby, secretary, said the June 29 meeting would be open to all persons interested in aiding the swimming pool project.

Although the harbor of Buffalo, N. Y., is frozen over four or five months a year, it handles more than 16,000,000 tons of water-borne freight annually.

actually available. It is their contention that they will proceed with their plant establishment investigations now inasmuch as they know when power supplies again will be plentiful. They state that areas which are not prepared to present their cases aggressively and specifically will be largely ignored by industry.

"Benton and Franklin counties have many specific advantages for industrial location," said the statement of Bloch and associates, which prepared an industrial report on Bonneville which was used extensively by industry. "But unless its communities and representative groups can present the facts and make them available properly to industry, one can not expect major industrial establishment on the scenic area's advantages would make possible."

The company suggested that the survey should first provide a basis "for screening specific opportunities for industrial and economic development in the counties."

Important assets referred to by the company are the confluence of the three rivers here, close position relative to producing dams, close relation to Hanford development of the southern-most districts of the Columbia Basin irrigation project.

The company suggested that the survey should run over a period of two years and be divided into three parts—compilation of basic information, analysis of such information, and utilization of such information in contacts with industry and investment groups in the Pacific Northwest and important business centers of the United States.

The material to be gathered would include:

1. General description of Benton and Franklin counties.
2. Geographic and physical, topography, climatic.
3. General location in relation to raw materials, labor, markets, transportation.
4. Labor—supply and kinds, wage scales, union organization.
5. Industry and other sources of income.
6. Transportation—rail, road, air, water facilities.
7. Power, water, and fuels.
8. Industrial plant sites and areas suitable therefor.
9. Public facilities and finance, taxes, valuation, services, etc.

B. Industrial and other potentials.

1. Description of agriculture and land base.
2. Description of mineral resources—local and tributary.
3. Description of major potentials based on resources of counties and tributary areas (on basis of its "hub" location).

The information gathered could be compiled into booklet form and the firm suggests that this would provide necessary information to enable representatives of Benton and Franklin counties to meet effectively with industrialists, and to reach them in a business-like manner.

The company suggested that "a program of personal contacts with industrial leaders in the east would be desirable."

Turkey is now working on an 18,000 mile road-building program aided by American capital, know-how and machinery.

New Charter Presented To Scout Troop

A Boy Scout troop charter was presented to the Kennewick Scouts sponsored by the First Lutheran church men's Brotherhood Monday evening.

District Chairman James Dudley presented the charter, representing the East Benton County district of the Blue Mountain council.

Scoutmaster Lloyd Magnusen announced the formation of two patrols, headed by LaRalle Smith of the Rattlesnake patrol and Jerry Bayer of the Wolf patrol. Don Bowman is senior patrol leader.

Philip and Norman Vorvick are the assistant scoutmasters. They achieved outstanding Boy Scout experience during the years that troop 27 was sponsored by the American Legion.

Godfrey Smith is instructional representative of the First Lutheran church in Scout organization. Joe Heggen is chairman of the troop committee; other members of his committee are James Magnusen, Orris Otfelme and Ingvald Eliason.

Scouts in the troop include Tommy Toland, Dale Johnson, Keith Hoelt, Gerald Magnusen, Arthur Williams, Norman Eliason, Ted Ferguson, Rex Rye, Charles Turner, Bobby Kubik, James Turner, Iver Eliason and David Holmes.

Scoutmaster Magnusen reports an advancement hike taken south of Kennewick on Saturday.

Water Plans

opment of the KID system. Brand said $10,000 of these would be assumed by the district.

City Attorney Kenneth E. Serier told the council that the board might be authorized to sell the domestic water system under a law which says surplus property can be sold by giving notice and asking for bidders. "We all want to avoid a test case if this can be done," Serier said.

GOING TO OLYMPIA
 Brand and M. M. Moulton, attorney for the KID, are to be joined in Olympia Friday by Richard Thorgrimson, attorney for a group of bond buyers, and the bond question will be threshed out there with state officials.

Brand said chances that the federal government will take over the $215,000 worth of bonds are good because the revenue from the power plant has paid off the indebtedness for the Prosser power plant and that it will be available now for retirement of the bonds.

Roy Skill of the Pacific Power & Light company said the questions raised did not apply to the sale of his company's system to the city because his is a private company.

TO PURCHASE PIPE
 The council voted to authorize purchase of two-inch water pipe to be used in running a line to the fair grounds. This action was taken after A. C. Amon, fair board president, told council members that "if we spend the $1,500 necessary for this project, we won't have any left for the new building we expected to erect for exhibits."

Amon said the sheriff's posse had offered to furnish labor for the installation. Skill said the city's part of the cost could be added on to the total bill when the sale to the city of the company's system is completed.

Annual Picnic Is Held By The PTA
 Annual picnic was held at the city park last Sunday for members and families of the preschool Parent-Teachers association.

Ten families, including parents and children, attended. It was a potluck dinner. Mrs. Thomas Gillis president.

Viewpoints

 newick Irrigation District men, and Pacific Power & Light men, not to mention a lot of those who have felt that the city should not even go into the water business.

Now, with a million in sight for water, and a lighting program that will be confined to the downtown or old-town area, Keolger, Rector and the council have gained some lost prestige. Nobody knows the hours that these boys have used up after the day's work was done to solve the water situation. No council ever worked more faithfully.

And now that things are moving on this side of the river, it appears to be a poor time to go farther than to learn about the city manager form of government. The proposal made by Mrs. James Pearce that the change-over be made as soon as possible, was not out of line at all. But with a bond question to be submitted to the people, a campaign now to change government forms would be confusing. What we need now is not a change in the form but full steam ahead by those now in authority. The urging that has come from the Chamber of Commerce and from many not in the chamber has served a good purpose, if not any other than to put the council on notice that bold steps are desired.

But let's learn more about the city manager form of government. Let's have the speakers, but no steps toward a change-over yet.

No action could be taken anyway until the next general election.
