A NEW PARTY.

To the Voters of Delaware. [The following was written for the press in February last, but publication was deferred until it could be seen and approved by others.]

Recent articles in two of the opposition papers of this State, exhibit a desire at least on the part of those who penned them, that there should be a union, or partial alliance of the various interests in this State, hostile to the party which calls itself the Democracy.

The Democratic Party (so called) of the country, has accepted a position which has not attracted to it any large number of voters.

It has been so long, and so long protracted at the shrine of a visionary theory, and as a consequence, the great agricultural interests of the State have been lessened.

The country was then warned of the danger, and the Democratic Party, by its own conduct, has shown that it is not prepared to meet the emergency.

It is now the duty of the voters of this State, to determine whether they will support the party which has thus abandoned its principles.
