

NO DISASTER IN UNITED STATES AFTER THE WAR

New York Banker Takes No Stock in the View That a Business Crash Will Come When the Great Conflict Ends.

EUROPE WILL STILL NEED AMERICAN AID

Rebuilding of Devastated Cities Will Create Demand for Money and Nations Will Turn to This Country to Secure It.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, takes vigorous exception to the view that business disaster will come to this country with the end of the European war and the cessation of war orders. He addressed the Chicago Bankers' club at a banquet tonight. Bankers were present from all over the central west. Persons who view the after-the-war period pessimistically, he called "misleading alarmists." The supplying of materials for the rebuilding of devastated cities and districts in Europe will be enough to prevent serious business depression in this country, he claimed.

MUST LOAN TO EUROPE.
"We must lend Europe the money it needs as well as sell the things it needs," he said. "This, he said, the United States would be abundantly able to do. Conditions in this country are fundamentally sound, he declared, and the United States is now the most prosperous nation in the world."

"Another reason for believing that there will be no great depression after the war," he pointed out, "is the enormous amount of building and other work in this country that has been held up since hostilities began." He predicted that there will be no idle factories. Those now engaged in manufacturing articles of war, will find plenty of other things to turn to when peace comes.

MUST FACE PROBLEMS.
He gave a warning of the approach of a crisis in American finance at the close of the European war. Collective buying, state aided industries, government control of ocean-borne commerce and other governmental co-operation with business on the part of European nations were among the problems he declared American business may have to face.

"Sound economic thinking" is the solution he advanced for such problems. In that connection he condemned the "autocratic power of great labor unions." He said the federal reserve board ruled unwisely in advising member banks against investment in short limitations of the bellicent's powers, declaring such investments would be wise because they would "restrict further gold importations which may lead to dangerous domestic inflation."

OPPORTUNITIES GREAT.
While emphasizing the dangers of the coming period, Vanderlip declared the opportunities were even greater than the perils. The present situation he described as having given the United States a "responsibility of trusteeship of the world." The country will gain the esteem of the world in the measure that these responsibilities are rightly met, he said.

The country at present is untrained to think properly for the discharge of these duties, he declared, describing America as a "country of economic illiterates."

Vanderlip roundly condemned the income tax and urged instead a tax upon expenditures for production purposes, which he called a double destruction, robbing society of the services of the capital and destroying the ability of the spender to render society service. While deploring the growing tendency toward government intervention in business, he praised the federal reserve act.

OFFICER'S HEROISM SAVES MANY LIVES

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 16.—Several Iowa national guardsmen were saved from possible death in a wreck of the International and Great Northern military train near Grapeland early today by the heroism of Lieutenant Luth.

One of the overturned Pullmans caught fire. Luth, who was helping to extricate the injured, could not reach the fire apparatus in the car and the blaze demanded instant attention, so he beat it out with his hands, sustaining severe burns.

All of the eight injured, including six members of Battery A, Iowa field artillery, and two trainmen, were reported out of danger at the railway hospital at Palestine, Tex., tonight. Most of them were cut by flying glass.

North of the Osobanos valley the Russians obtained a local advantage. It was stated, but the stubborn combat continues west and northwest of Ochna.

In the forest of the Carpathians Russian attacks near Konushy diminished and south of Zborow, Austro-Hungarian detachments gained a footing in the trenches of Russian positions along a frontier of a quarter of a mile.

HARVARD DEEPLY MOURNS PASSING OF MUNSTERBERG

One of His Last Public Utterances Was the Expression of a Desire That Peace Should Come.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 16.—All Harvard tonight mourns the death of Hugo Munsterberg, one of the leading psychologists of the world, and the central figure in several international controversies. Munsterberg collapsed while lecturing to Radcliffe college girls on elementary psychology and died within a few minutes, before medical aid reached him. Death was due to apoplexy.

The Harvard "mind wizard" occupied much the same position in his line that Thomas A. Edison holds in the field of invention, having performed or directed many startling practical experiments into the powers and efficiency of the human mind.

EXPRESSIONS OF REGRET.
Expressions of regret came tonight from many parts of the world where Munsterberg was known as a psychologist and because of his writings on international questions. He earned the name of "Harvard's $10,000,000 professor" when in 1914 Major Clarence Weiner of Surrey, England, a Harvard graduate, offered to leave the university a legacy of $10,000,000 providing Munsterberg was dismissed. Harvard refused.

"For the sake of all humanity and civilization I desire a speedy peace," was one of Munsterberg's last public utterances.

POLICE FIND WHISKY CACHE; WRECK CAFE

Seattle, Dec. 16.—After the discovery of a cleverly concealed whisky cache at The Breakers cafe on Cherry street, the police "dry" squad wrecked the place with axes. A false ceiling had been built over the office of Bert Pedely, proprietor of the Breakers, and a hole between that and the sidewalk overhead were discovered large quantities of bottled liquor. The value of fixtures destroyed was $5000. Pedely was placed under arrest.

BRETHREN MEET IN AMEN CORNER; WOMAN APPEARS

New York, Dec. 16.—After excluding one member because he did not "eat enough nor drink enough," the Brethren of the Amen Corner sat down to bubbles, braised beef and laughter at the Waldorf Astoria here tonight.

"Twas a program that let no guilty man and very few women escape.

After dealing the grand old party a resounding whack by parading and hectoring a decrepit old man as the last living Republican, the Brethren went straight down the line from soup to Roosevelt.

MISS RANKIN APPEARS.
An exact replica of "Congresswoman Rankin" interrupted what was supposed to be a session of the electoral college under the misapprehension that it was a session of congress.

Criticizing so much reference to George Washington as the father of his country, the congresswoman suggested it was about time the country looked into its history and found out who were both its parents. She interspersed her address with such remarks as "Goodness! I can feel my hat slipping down on one side!" "Goodness! I believe my stays are loose!"

Then, getting no answer to her repeated "who pays the bills that are introduced in congress" she said she thought congress is "real mean" and went home.

WIRELESS FROM COLONEL.
Miss Rankin's departure was interrupted by the row of a wireless station over by the chairman's soup dish. "Wireless from T. Roosevelt," said the chairman. "He says the river of doubt isn't in Brazil, it's in California."

Here's one from Thomas Mott Osborne: "Take it from me there are

Why do we say that the New Edison is not a "Talking Machine"?

Here is the answer

THERE are nearly 100 different makes of talking machines and so-called Phonographs on the market. Each differs from the others in certain mechanical details, but all have a common characteristic in varying degree, viz.:—a strident and unnatural tone. So much for all talking machines.

Now with reference to

The NEW EDISON

BY actual comparison with more than a score of great singers and instrumentalists it has been demonstrated that the New Edison re-creates all forms of music with such literal fidelity that the original cannot be distinguished from the Re-Creation when both are heard in direct comparison. The truthfulness of this statement is not open to question. These comparisons were made in public before more than 300,000 people and are chronicled in nearly 300 of America's principal newspapers.

No talking machine could sustain such a test and no talking machine manufacturer would dare to submit his machine to such a test in public. Therefore, you will understand why we say the New Edison is not a talking machine.

"VALUE"

is a much-abused word, especially in some of the recent uses as applied to

JEWELRY

Webster's Dictionary says "value" means "that which renders anything useful or estimable."

A thing is useful only so long as it WEARS, especially an article of jewelry. And upon its quality depends the esteem in which it is held by the recipient.

"Laughlin" Jewelry possesses TRUE VALUE and LASTING QUALITY in every sense of the words. Our Christmas stocks fairly radiate sterling worth, and everything is marked at the same low prices that prevail here the year 'round.
