

SOCIETY NOTES

MISS MARION ANTISELL, Editor Phone 1946-W

A week of unusual gaiety has passed. Many Halloween parties have been given. The Elks and Shriners also gave large balls. At the Piny Theatre the first number of the Lyceum course drew a large assemblage of society people.

Pleasant Afternoon

The ladies auxiliary of the Veterans of the Santa Anna Post were entertained by their president, Mrs. Fred Brumm, Friday afternoon, at her home, 1620 N. 11th St. A very novel game, worked out by their hostess, was a riddle of words, each word representing the name of one of the members of the auxiliary. Three ladies guessed the names correctly, Mrs. Duckworth, Mrs. Alden and Mrs. Blunt. Straws were drawn and Mrs. Blunt won the prize. The consolation was awarded Mrs. Antisell. Several selections on the Victrola were appreciated.

Mignonette and white asters formed the centerpiece of the dining table.

Birthday Party

Miss Helma Swanholm assisted by Miss Marcella Spalding entertained sixteen of her school girl friends at her home Saturday evening, the occasion being her fourteenth birthday. In the games that were played Miss Milda McCracken won the first prize and Miss Alyce Lester, the consolation. Several of the girls were musicians and their solos were very pleasing. However the climax of excitement was reached when in a darkened room, a dreadful witch (Miss Marcella Spalding) crouched over a fortune pot, and muttered dreadful incantations until the pot began to boil and the witch was forced to reveal each trembling maiden's future.

After a buffet luncheon dancing was enjoyed. Two very pretty solo dances were given by Miss Marcella Spalding.

Halloween decorations prevailed throughout the house. Cornstocks, pumpkins, black cats and witches were in evidence on the walls and curtains. Orange shades cast a mellow light over the merry revellers. The dining room table was artistically arranged with red autumn leaves and fruit. An orange shaded study lamp formed the centerpiece.

The young girls enjoying the evening were, Dean Curtis, Helen Brogles, Milda McCracken, Nell Burdick, Della Curtis, Mildred Minieley, Alice Bowman, Helen Tinsley, Mary Hull Loradu Larson, Katherine Hunter, Lucile McGirr, Alyce Lester and Edna Blaine.

Children's Party

The Catholic Women's League gave a party for the children in St. John's Hall Saturday afternoon. The children came clad as ghosts and witches. Games and stories made their afternoon a very pleasant one.

Halloween Party

Miss Agnes Marton entertained her Sunday School class of the Baptist Church at her home Tuesday evening. Halloween games were very much in accord with the harvest surroundings as each nook and corner told its own story in autumn wealth of pumpkins, apples and corn.

Twelve young ladies were present.

Evening of Music

The first number of the winter lyceum course appeared at the Piny theatre, Monday evening. Miss Fay Cord proved herself to be a young lady with a charming stage poise and a pleasing soprano voice. Mr. Kelly, baritone soloist, also found his way immediately into the hearts of the people. The violinist, Mr. Rummell thrilled his audience until wild bursts of applause demanded many of his selections a second time and when he left the stage the sounds of the appreciative applause, for still more rang thru the house.

Seldom has entertainers found so responsive an audience; but the musicians and the people were enthralled in the same magic web of melody and they carried their audience with them on each wonderful note to the very last number of the program.

TRAGEDY OF DANBURY

OVER one hundred workmen in Danbury, Conn., owning little homes and having small savings bank accounts went on strike to better their lot in life. The American Boycott Association, a labor crushing combination, filed suit for damages against these men and attached their homes and savings. The lower courts decided, of course, in favor of wealth. The case finally came before the United States Supreme Court. The decision of that court stripped from these workmen their homes and savings to satisfy a three-fold judgment, and left them paupers after a lifetime of industry, frugality and economy.

HUGHES ACCESSORY

CANDIDATE Hughes was a member of that court and did not raise his voice against this outrage, the greatest industrial tragedy of any age. Like every other member of the United States Supreme Court, Judge Hughes gave his consent and approval of legalized oppression of workingmen, and concurred in a punishment which rendered the efforts of their lives futile, while the same court and same judges have zealously guarded the wealth possessors. Candidate Hughes, in the face of this record, asks labor's support. The conscience of labor, stricken by his acts of the past, replies—

JUSTICE

"Weakness breeds insult; insult breeds war"—Chas. E. Hughes. Well, we can suffer it until Nov. 7. After that date you'll hunt a job.

A vote for candidate Hughes is a vote to endorse his decision by which the Danbury hatters in their old age were robbed of their savings and the homes which sheltered them.

"America will not hold her own by declamation"—Charles E. Hughes. Neither will a candidate running against Woodrow Wilson. Beat it.

Is a justice of the Supreme Court whose decisions have always been against Labor likely to protect or promote the rights and interest of Labor if he were to become President?

The Range of Possibilities With an Electric Range

An electric range will do everything that any other kind of a range cook stove will do and do it better.

There is no waste of fuel, as the heat is concentrated just where it is wanted and is always under instant control. Shrinkage of foods is also less than with other stoves. Electrically cooked foods taste better.

Neither smoke, fumes nor ashes are given off by an electric range. It is therefore, the ideal equipment for the kitchen. It is always ready for immediate use at the turn of the switch, night or day, and costs nothing for fuel when not actually cooking. Why not investigate this modern way of cooking, where the price of electricity makes it absolutely the cheapest fuel in this section.

Call our demonstrator, Phone 934, for further information.

A range for every purse, from $28.50 up in 17 different models.
