WOLF CATCHER'S SONS RIDE TO MEET ROOSEVELT

Young Abernathys Gallop Across Continent to Meet Big Hunter on Return to Gotham.

Washington, May 28.—After riding on horseback most of the day across the continent to meet Col. Roosevelt on his arrival at New York, Louis and Temple Abernathy, of Oklahoma, the wolf catcher and friend of the former president, arrived in the national capital last night. They rode in from Frederick Md., to-day, a distance of fifty-seven miles. Temple dropped off to sleep the minute his head touched the pillow. While the little fellows were curled up restfully under the white covers Louis talked of their trip.

"Temple and I," he said, "want to see some of the animals Mr. Roosevelt sent from Africa, and to-morrow we will go over to the Smithsonian Institution to see if we can have a look at some of them."

When asked what he intended to say to Mr. Roosevelt when he met him in New York, Louis replied that "it would depend on what Mr. Roosevelt said to them," and that he "could not cross that fence until he came to it."

President Taft will receive the two little travelers.

Where Money Goes

Although the statistics of our foreign trade show that we sell to Europe and other foreign countries a great deal more than we buy from them, and that consequently there should be a considerable balance in our favor, yet as a matter of fact we know that there is actually no balance, and we have frequently to make good our debts to Europe by considerable gold shipments.

One of the reasons why we send to Europe money in payment of debts, when ostensibly there are no debts, is the vast exodus annually of Americans to Europe. It is believed that at least 20,000 Americans annually make a pilgrimage to Europe, and this year it is expected that all previous records will be broken. These tourists, who represent 90 per cent of the total number of passengers handled by the transatlantic lines, spend on the average probably $1000 apiece. If this be so, as there seems to be no reason to doubt that it is, at least $250,000,000 of good American money sent to Europe is readily accounted for.

Just why Americans should develop such a mania for traveling in Europe is hard to comprehend, but the desire to make a European trip appears to be over-whelming, and it is also a fact that any person who has made one trip constantly yearns to repeat the experience. As a consequence there is an enormous annual drain of money to Europe, which, added to our imports, goes a good way towards evening up the favorable trade balance due to excess of exports over imports.—Picayune.

LOUISIANA PRESS

"I am a Democrat and I believe that the people of New Orleans should vote on whether they want their mayor's salary increased to $10,000. I believe in the referendum," said Representative Locke, when the above bill was up before the House Monday. Wonder what Mr. Locke was two years ago when the division bill was up? He opposed a referendum and everything else. Guess he must have been a Republican then, and has now switched and landed on the good old Democratic principles.—De Ridder Enterprise.

The movement in this State against "the importation of foundlings," as it is called, is ill-advised. While it is right to remove some of the restrictions that have made it difficult for even good people to adopt orphans from the homes within the State's borders, the fact remains that the majority of persons wishing to adopt a child prefer taking one that has no known relatives, and this militates more largely against Louisiana orphans finding good homes than any other one factor. Persons prefer adopting children without family connections, and for this reason rush to get the orphans brought here from New York. So long as environment does more for a child than heredity there can be no great danger in giving homes to the children brought into the State.—St. Francisville True Democrat.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature, which if passed, will mean a great deal to the local merchants throughout the state. The bill provides for a license tax on all foreign solicitors of clothing, houses, dry goods concerns, etc. To be liable to the tax, the people must be soliciting for a house located outside of the community in which the business is solicited.

For some time, the merchants of the several parishes have been suffering severely as the result of the large city houses sending out salesmen soliciting business, and later making deliveries. This works an injustice and hardship on the local merchant for the reason that he is forced to financially contribute to the welfare of a parish from which he receives no protection in a business way, while the city merchant is reaping the benefit of the prosperity brought about through this forced contribution on the part of the merchant.—Point Coupee Banner.

THERE'S MONEY IN IT

A new discovery has been made for the use of marsh grass, of which there are thousands of acres going to waste each year. It has been tested for hay, and those who are supposed to know say that it makes the finest in the market, and we will not be surprised to see hundreds of mowing machines at work across the broad acres, in the rear of Franklin. Its nutritious properties have always been known, for it fattens stock rapidly, but no one seems to have thought of it for this purpose until recently. Baker Island, the property of Mr. Emmet Alpha, is being mowed, and as soon as it is cured, a consignment will go to market. One feature about it is that it grows all the time without reference to seasons, covering the ground so thick that much labor is required by a man to walk through it. Hundreds of tons can be gathered with no expense except to cut and bale it.—Franklin Watchman.
