FLASHES FROM THE PARISH SEAT

The finest pecans seen in this town this season came from the country home of Mr. W. T. Peter-man.

Salt water has appeared in the Bayou Teche, in this vicinity, causing apprehension on the part of the owners of sugar mills, as its continuance will seriously affect the operation of these mills, producing boiler trouble. The salt water is probably produced by high tides in the Gulf, and the low stage of the Bayou.

Court resumed its session Thursday, trying the case of the Gooch-Craighead Co. against John Messeto for damages to one of their autos.
The plaintiff company claims that the defendant drove out of his yard in an auto and hit their car, passing by, breaking it up considerably. Quite a number of citizens from Patterson were present as witnesses, amongst whom were Mr.
William Folse and Mr. Jesse Collins.

The School Board of the Parish of St. Mary has been called to meet in special session, Wednesday, November 21st, for the purpose of opening the ballot boxes, used in the recent school tax election, officially count the ballots, and promulgate the results. There is a feeling of general satisfaction throughout the Parish that this tax carried by a substantial majority assuring a continuous 9 months' session of public schools, the payment of the present school deficit, and permitting money needed improvements in building and facilities. As soon as the opportunity to receive an education has been put within the reach of every child by sufficient schools and transfer system, compulsory education will follow and the next generation will not witness any resident of this Parish, male or female, unable to read and write.

The Y. M. C. A. Drive of War Funds is still on. The amount assessed against Franklin is $600, which will be raised within the time limit. Mr. R. E. Brumby has supervision of the collections and is assisted by professional and business men of the town, who are willing to give their time to the work.

Franklin is very proud of having exceeded the other towns of the Parish in the number of Christmas gifts to the soldiers. The rivalry between the towns in this Parish in Red Cross work is friendly, the different units cooperating with each-other and each special instance all honoring the one making the best showing in addition to the Red Cross, individual boxes have been sent to France from Franklin by relatives and friends of soldiers already there.

Credit Given Foot Ball

The "High School Reporter" evidently did not see all of the good playing in Saturday's football game.
Not enough credit was given to some of the players. Bella, our full-back did splendid work, making most of our successful bucks and also a great many of our successful tackling. He could not have played a better game. There was also Oliver (right guard) who did good tackling. Tetroe, although, handicapped did well. Kahn held his man but was taken out on account of "lack of experience."

Now we come to the second team who played against Patterson, some of their players did not get enough credit, also. Morse, a crack player, played his game well. Greenwald, anxious to get in and do some tackling, caused several penalties, but his tackling was great, so was Soumellion's.

PROPER STORAGE WILL SAVE SWEET POTATOES

VALUE OF CROP OFTEN DE-CREASED BY CARELESS METH-ODS OF HANDLING.

STORE IN WELL BUILT HOUSE

An Abandoned Tenant House Can Very Often Be Utilized For This Purpose.

Improper methods of harvesting and storing sweet potatoes are responsible for large losses which greatly decrease the value of the crop, according to A. F. Kidder, professor of agronomy, Louisiana State University. Louisiana's sweet potato crop for this year is estimated to be 8,000,000 bushels, and growers would do well to take precautions against undue losses through careless handling.

Some of the things to be observed are as follows:

1. Potatoes should be thoroughly mature before being harvested.
2. They should be handled carefullly to prevent bruises, as such places cause rot very quickly.
3. Injured potatoes should not be stored with sound ones.
4. The potatoes should be subjected to a temperature of 85 to 95 degrees Fahrenheit as soon as they are put away, and the moisture content reduced to 10 per cent or less.
5. Potatoes should be stored in a well built house, where the temperature can be kept uniform. This will save a large per cent of all good sound potatoes, while the old bank method usually causes a loss of 25 to 50 per cent. Old tenant houses can often be utilized for that purpose.

DISPOSE OF THE UNPROFITABLE HEN

Culling Should Be Done Frequently and Thoroughly.

After hens reach a certain age, depending upon the way they have been handled, they can no longer produce eggs profitably. Those which are forced for heavy egg production by the liberal use of stimulants will reach this stage quicker than the others. Whenever this stage is reached the hens should be marketed as soon as possible.

A pretty safe rule to follow with the average flocks which have not been treated with stimulants is as follows: Dispose of hens of the light, active breeds, such as Leghorns and Anconas, as soon as they have passed through their third laying season; and dispose of all the medium weight breeds, such as Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Wyandottes and Orpingtons as soon as they have passed through two laying seasons. At the same time, discard all younger hens which have baggy abdomens, which have a tendency to stay over-fat, or which lack health or vigor in any way.

The culling should be done frequently and thoroughly. It rarely pays to hold an old or a weak bird for a better market. The quicker they are sold the better. The average flock should be thoroughly culled at least once a month. Such practice will not materially reduce the output of the flock, but, on the other hand, will greatly increase the profits by reducing the required amount of high-priced feed and labor.—A. F. Rolf, Poultry Specialist, Extension Division, Louisiana State University.

OATS YIELD WELL FOLLOWING LEGUMES.

Some examples of successful oat production in different parts of Louisiana where the crop was planted on lands that had grown a leguminous crop the previous summer are given below. In each case the land was broken to a depth of from six to ten inches and then thoroughly disked and harrowed.

In the Red River valley, near Shreveport, a 40-acre field of oats grown on land that had been in alfalfa for four years yielded 84 bushels per acre. Two bushels of acclimated Texas red-rust-proof oats per acre were drilled October 15.

In the Ouachita River valley, near Monroe, 50 bushels of oats per acre were produced on land that had been in lespedeza. Two and one-half bushels of Louisiana red-rust-proof oats per acre were drilled October 15.

On the Bayou Macon ridge 58 acres produced oats as follows: 20 acres that had been in lespedeza were drilled to oats September 25 and produced 50 bushels per acre; five acres that had grown corn and peas were planted to oats October 10 and produced 30 bushels per acre; 28 acres of cotton land were planted to oats from October 10 to November 1 and produced 25 bushels per acre.

A farm in one of the Delta parishes produced 65 bushels per acre on land that had grown cowpeas and 40 bushels on land without the peas. Two or three bushels of oats per acre were drilled early in October.—L. S. U.
Farm Bulletin.
