The Day After Tomorrow.

Message to the Rankers of America from the President of the American Bankers Association

Everywhere one hears the query "What is the outlook for business?" Never before have we faced so many great problems clamoring for intelligent solution. To America is the world looking for tar-seeing and constructive leadership and upon us largely depend the conditions which shall prevail here and abroad on the day after tomorrow—the day after we after tomorrow—the day after we shall have passed through the period of re-adjustment and re-vitalization shall have passed through the period of re-adjustmeut and re-vitalization and be once more actively engaged in prodicing and consuming in an orderly business-like way.

Good business then depends upon good judgent now. With good judgement go individual initiative and hard work as the essential elements in making 1922 a stepping-stone to financial stability and industrial activity.

What is our first step? What is our most important task at this hour? What needs our most careful—yes prayerful—attention? There is a real challenge in the answer—Agriculture.

The fundamental wealth of America is the productivity of her soil. Transportation—manufacturing — jobbing — banking—merchandising—labor—all take on new life when the farmer prospers—all suffers when his purchasing power is materially curtailed. God in it is bounty has given us the land and the water. We have the man-power—we have the machinery—we have the gold—shall we put them all actively to work that the world may be clothed and fed and America's new era of prosperity built upon the firm foundation of new wealth created.

A crop that can be made and is for any reason not planted or harvested.

tion of new wealth created.

A crop that can be made and is for any reason not planted or harvested is an opportunity forever lost—time and money that can never be regained. Rotation of crops is agriculturally sound and-diversification is desirable—provided—for a commodity of which there is a great surplus supply there submitted something more sorely needed.

world movements indicate a gradual clearing up of the foreign financial skies. If the series of international conferences being held result in reestablishing the buying power of Europe the fall may find us facing an active demand for our fundamental commodities. It will then be too late to plant the necessary cross commodities. It will then be too late to plant the necessary crops.

Should the foreign situation not improve materially then financial America must provide the machinery for enrying the surplus temporarily and present decorations and present decorations and the surplus temporarily and temporarily and the surplus temporarily and temporarily and

Attention Parents

It is important for pupils entering high school to realize the importance of regular and consistent daily preparation of their school work. Since all of the lessons can not be prepared during school hoors, no pupil, unless he is of exceptional ability, can do satisfactory high school work un til he is willing to set apart s time meeting of the Legislature in May. for study at home. Parents are therefore urged to see that their children have a regular study period at home, and that nothing is allowed to interfere with it. Parental firmness on this one question will help to reduce the number of failures. Most of the failures the past term were due to the lack of home preparation.

Parents and guardians should do all in their power to see that their children attend school regularly. Irregular attendance is also an important cause of failures.

You will render your child, as well as the school a great favor to co-operate with us in the above. M. C. TAYLOR.
