He should have said: "We are all liable to err. These witnesses are not exempt from the frailties of human nature; and although they testified to what they believed to be the truth they were mistaken! We all make mismistakes, and it cannot be expected that these witnesses are superior to the human family generally, and infallible. Poor, frail, fallible mortals, like the rest of us, they are mistaken, but honestly mistaken!" This would have been solneing, and strengthened the speaker in the affections of his colored hearers, but he blurted out, Instead: "That miserable, old, decrepid negra woman swore falsely; she perjured herself before this jury. #### ANTICS OF A DERANGED NEGRO.

Strange Sabbath Divertisements. The attention of quite a number of our citizens was arrested, yesterday afternoon by the strange conduct of a negro. His first appearance was in the lower part of the city, where he offered his services to declined, out of respect to the day, he repaired to the rear of the premises, where like the madman that he was, he commenced demolishing the fence. . He was next seen on the Ohio levee, in front of the city, where his cuttings-up were undoubtedly those of a crazy man. He would take his stand on the top of the levee, and turn somersualts until he landed in the river. Observing a couple of boys in a he commanded them to "come right here." The boys refusing to obey the summons, he seized a brickbat and smashed it over his own head. Pass. ing to the top of the levee he appeared to find satisfactory entertainment in filling his mouth with mud, and in chewing Jamestown and cockle weeds. Seeing a sturdy, thick-necked yoke of oxen passing the street, he felt called upon to "take the bull by the horns," and was about to do when the menaced animal made a plunge at him that seemed to assure him that that particular bull was not the one he was hunting for.

At a later hour the crazed creature entered an appearance at the ferry landing. where, wading out into the river, he would sit down and hold his head under the water until the lookers-on believed him drowned. On one or more occasions he kept his head under water over a minute. What finally became of him we are unable to state. He manifeste ! a great anxiety to get money-was willing work for it, dance or sing for it, or undergo any kind of corporal torture for it. His boat was about to push out, he said, and he hadn't a cent to pay his passage.

One of the lookers-on denied that the poor fellow was crazy. "He's a Paducah negro," observed the speaker. "Paducah negroes all do that, every Sunday."

WAR BETWEEN THE STATES. SECOND VOLUME READY.

Mrs. Vandeventer will proceed to canvass the city for the second volume of Hon. A. Stepens' work, entitled "A Constitutional view of the late war between the States; its causes, character, conduct and result," as presented by the eminent author, in a series of colloquies, at his home in Georgia. The work, as known to those who have read the first volume, is a careful and thorough political analysis of the past, separating the real from the apparent causes of the late unhappy conflict, and furnishing an epitome of the brilliant periodwhen the distinguished author stood the peer of the immortal triumviate, Clay, Webster and Calhoun, in the halls of our Nation al Congress. Descending to a later period, it deals with those facts which the position of the eminent author as second officer of the Confederacy enabled him to collect, and with those deductions his great powers of investigation and comprehension enable meyer, at whose house the numtials were perjury. If Linegar expects to command of this work, perfectly familiarize himself with the political history of the country, close together, would stretch out for a disthe late war, its real causes and consequences. The two volumes, finely illustrated with steel portraits of the great men of the Republic, comprise nearly 1500 pages of reading matter, and may be obtained in any style of binding desired. Price per volume. Extra fine morocco binding 83,75; leather binding, library style, $4.50; half calf, very superior, $5.50. Independent of the consideration that the publication is richly worth its cost and is of a character that entitles it to a place every family or public library, the agent, Mrs. Vandeventer, is a deserving lady, upon whose efforts mainly depend the support of an invalid husband, as well as her own livelihood. Those who have the first volume will be sure to subscribe for the second. Those who have neither, should avail themselves of the opportunity presented by Mrs. Vandeveter to secure both.

WHERE TO GET 'EM.

It is said that the new Constitution, ratified by the people on the 2d instant, will relieve the tax payers of Illidois of a burden of at least $5,000,000 per annum. It is said with equal truth that if you will buy your whisky and brandy straights, your gin slings, your toddies, your wines, ales and beers at the Sun Flower saloon, presided over by the affable P. Fitzgerald, Esq., you will escape all the tortures and torments of aching heads, deranged stomachs and appetites inseparable from the use of impure articles. He keeps the very purest liquors in the market, and serves them up in a style that is perfectly irresistable.

CAIRO NEWSPAPERS. Names-When Founded, and How Long Published.

It will no doubt surprise even our oldest citizens who have given the matter no thought, to be informed that no less than twenty-five newspapers have been published in Cairo. Below we give their house a load of coal. His services being' names date of their establishment and the term of their existence:

WHEN POUNDED.

Those who have read that jolly book, Tom Brown's School Days at Rugby, may be pleased to learn that the genial author, Mr. Thomas Hughes, an Englishman of the healthy, muscular Christian type, is about to make a visit to this country. He is a fair-minded man, who writes pleasantly and tersely about whatever comes before him, and will look at us from about as unprojudiced a stand-point as any Briton who has "done" us for some time past. There is no malice or bile in Mr. Hughes, and he will, like "Latimer." when looking at "David Copperfield," remember that we are "very, very young" as a people, and bear with our national and individual greeness.
