the country depends on an honest congress as well as an honest president.

It is difficult to believe that the silly charge that if Horace Greeley is elected the old slave-holders of the south will be paid for slaves freed by the war, finds credence among the most ignorant. But it does, and among the foolish and credulous freedmen, the still more ridiculous fear that they are to be re-enslaved if Greeley is made president, is fast gaining ground and the heart of many a nigger today is palpitating with dread and his eyes distended to twice their usual size under the influence of the picture which he sees of himself returned to "chains and slavery." The preposterous argument against Greeley is made use of by the radicals all the same as though it were grounded in truth, and the black man, a tool in the hands of his radical leaders, makes no effort to think for himself—to take a common sense view of the situation which would show him at once the utter impossibility of the freedmen ever again becoming the slaves of the white men south. "What old slave-holders," says the New York 'World,' "could to-day make proof of ownership and value of his former chattels? A bill of sale was all the writing this kind of property required, and where one bill of sale of a negro can be now found south you can find twenty confederate securities of diamond-like rarity as these themselves are. And even with the bill found. whar's the nigger ?"

LOGAN.

THE 'Sun' is desirous of information on the Logan question. It wishes to know if we believe Logan recruited men for the rebel army. We believe that Mr. Logan advised many young men, at the commencement of the war, to take arms in the Southern cause, and declared that he would do so. He damned Douglas, after that statesman had made his celebrated speech in favor of suppressing the rebellion, and denounced him as an abolitionist. It is a well known fact that Mr. Logan in Congress advocated the policy of allowing the seceded states to go in peace, and that after he concluded to go into the army he solicited personal friends, sympathisers with the South to go with him, saying that his object was to get arms into the hands of Anti-Abolitionists and turn them against the foes of the South. If the 'Sun' does not know that Logan's record is very black with disloyalty, it is ignorant of what no truthful man denies. But, it is true, Mr. Logan has changed his mind since his Southern-sympethising days. Then sympathy for the South was, in his opinion, more profitable than Abolitionism, and now hatred of the South is, in his opinion, more profitable than sympathy for that section. He is therefore at the present time a South-hater, and will continue to be until he becomes sure that peddling the milk of human kindness will prove profitable, and then he will become one of the most liberal men in the world. He is a trimmer, and has an eye single to the welfare of John A. Logan.

BOASTING OF DISHONESTY.

In his late speech at the Atheneum in this city, Mr. Clements boasted of the fact that his party uses the money of the people for campaign purposes. While he was discussing the sale of arms question, he was interrupted by the question: "What became of the two millions of dollars that were lost between the treasury of France and the treasury of the United States." Hesitating a moment, Mr. Clements pointed his index finger at the questioner, and exclaimed: "I reckon that money has been used to beat you fellows in this canvass!" This declaration was enthusiastically applauded by Mr. Clements' Radical audience.

In these days of almost universal corruption such expressions are little heeded by the people. They have become familiar with dishonesty, and its presence is to be expected; but we cannot suppress the belief that expressions like that used by Mr. Clements should be rebuked. Two millions of dollars were stolen in the sale of arms transaction, and it is a shocking fact—a sad commentary on the condition of the public mind—that a candidate for congress can assert amid the applause of his partisans, that the stolen money has been used to corrupt electors and control elections in the interests of his party.

We are aware of the fact that Radicalism thrives on thieving, but it has heretofore been the habit of the Radicals to deny the fact. Now they boast of their rascality. Well, what, in the language of the illustrious thief, Tweed, "are you going to do about it?" Nothing, of course.

THE BULLETIN FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

We propose, during the present campaign, to make THE BULLETIN a lively and interesting political paper, and that we may be enabled to do so with effect, we request our friends to do what they can in extending its circulation.

THE WEEKLY BULLETIN is one of the best journals in the State, and is furnished to subscribers at the low rate of ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR, a slight advance on the white paper.

THE BULLETIN is an advocate of the Liberal cause and the Liberal candidates, but it is one of the most independent Liberal papers in the country. It does not recogdise the right of managing politicians or—declaring that THE BULLETIN editor merits Liberal denunciation because he has been frank in his statements of his opinions and beliefs—because he has seen proper to exercise the rights of free thought and free expression of opinion on questions of public policy and gentlemen who proposed as Liberal candidates for office. These gentlemen cannot, by flourishing their truncheons thus menacingly over our heads, compel us to be their very obedient servants, and, if they wish to make such an issue with us, up comes the gauntlet! THE BULLETIN cannot be intimidated.

Heretofore we have labored with diligence and without profit in the harness of the Democratic party and yet revere its principles; but we will not come or go as we are ordered by self-constituted leaders. THE BULLETIN will never be untrue to the fundamental principles of the Democracy, but it will act independent of the dictation of caucuses, supporting candidates who are worthy of support and opposing those who are unworthy. On no question will THE BULLETIN be neutral, on all questions of men and measures it will be independent, and at all times remain steadfast in advocacy of those vital principles which lie at the foundation of the Republic, in the overthow of which the liberties of the people will inevitably be destroyed.

—Presindent Grant attended the Newark exposition to-day, where he made the following speech:

"Ladies and gentlemen: I cannot but feel grateful for the reception I have received at the hands of the citizens of Newark and of New Jersey to-day. I had the pleasure of visiting the state fair, near Euzabeth, where I saw little else but people. I was at your exposition to-night, and again saw people, but little of what they had there to see. I hope to see to-morrow what I went to-night to see."

—In the town of Chapin, ten miles west of Jacksonville, a vein of lead ore of great richness has been struck.

—Gov. Brown, of Missouri, has offered a reward of $300 each for the arrest of parties concerned in the killing, some time ago, of Weeks, in Reynolds county.

—A special telegram to the Missouri 'Democrat' thus answers the charges against Grant in regard to the Rawlin-fund.

The folowing are the main facts; General Rawlins, on his death bed requested General Grant to act as guardian to his children. The trust was accepted, and a bond was filed and the usual proceedings had in the Orphans' Court. His relations, duties and responsibilities are precisely those of any other

LEGALLY CONSTITUTED GUARDIAN

General Rawlins was married twice, first to Miss Smith, of Goshen, N. Y., who died, leaving three small children, a boy and two little girls. During the war he met Miss Hurlburt, of Danbury, Conn., at Vicksburg, and soon afterward married her. She became the mother of two children, but both of them died before their father. After Gen. Rawlins' death Mrs. Rawlins returned to her father's house, in Danbury, Conn., taking with her the three children, to whom she was step-mother. When the Rawlins testimonial fund was raised and deposited with Gen. Grant as trustee of the subscribers and guardian ot the children of the deceased at the urgent request of Mrs. Rawlins, he took part of the money and purchased a house for her in Danbury, into which she removed with the children. They mainly were supported by remittances sent by the guardian, the same being derived from the interest on United States bonds, in which the balance of the funds had been invested. Shortly after it came to the knowledge of General Grant that the children had been sent off to school, and that was given them—that even the trunk in which their wardrobe had been taken to the school was sent after by the family, and this led to the discovery that the semi-annual remittances were not devoted to the support of the children. Developments were such as induced the grand-parents—General Rawlins' father and mother—who reside in Illinois, to take charge of the children of their deceased son, and remove them to their own home. General Grant sent General John E. Smith to New York to consult with the chief contributors to the fund, and in view of the attempt to deprive the children of the just interest a rate of division was decided upon. Out of these circumstances have grown the shameless charges against the President. These facts explain the intermeddling of the persons who claim to be acting as attorneys in the case of Rev. Mr. Haskell.

PERSONAL.

—Mrs. Senator Sumner resides in Venice.

—Katie Putnam has returned from Europe.

—A neice of the late Lord Palmerson lately passed through Minnesopolis.

—The youngest and only unmarried daughter of Queen Victoria is betrothed.

—Joe Jefferson still suffers from weakness in his eye and will not appear on the stage this winter.

—Two Russian editors have lately been fined and imprisoned for referring to the rumors of the Grand Duke Alexis' secret American marriage.

—Lillian Edgarton is lecturing in the south.

—The Mobile 'Register' says that J. Augustine Signaigo is entitled to rank as a poet with Bayard Taylor, J. R. Lowell, Walt Whitham, and produces gems to prove it.

—Post master Cresswell says "Either I am a thief or Lyman Trumbull lies." It has been proven that Trumbull does not lie, therefore Cresswell is a thief, on his own authority.

—Poor Dick Yates! Advertised to make a radical speech at Springfield on Wednesday, he made the attempt but was too drunk to proceed.

—Horace Greeley has been greeted with the greatest enthusiasm by the people on his western tour. At every station in New Jersey and Pennsylvania he was met with banners, music and the cheers of many thousands of men, women and children.

THE WOOD PILE.—The time is past in the West and South when it made no difference how much wood a family burned. Even in regions where wood is abundant, the expense of getting it is a large item of family cost, and people are learning to make their wood pile last as long as possible. There is no agent that aids this economy of fuel so much as an Evening Star Stove. Try it.
