

THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

(By Virginia Simms, member National Editorial Association of East Liverpool, Ohio.)

In the Land of Flowers,
Where the pixies dwell,
'Neath the moss-hung oaks,
Flows a magic well.

Or a fairy fountain,
'Mid the lilies' lush;
Ever from this wellspring
Magic waters gush.

Wee folks chant the legend
In a tinkling tongue,
'Whoso drinks these waters,
Ever will be young.'

But when men come seeking
For this fountain, fair,
Teasing little pixies
Cry, 'Lo! here,' 'Lo there.'

Some will bid us tarry
In St. Augustine;
There they say the fountain
Surely has been seen.

Lovely old New Smyrna,
Others gaily tell,
Is the surest place to find
DeLeon's famous well.

Others say the fountain
That all cares will drown
Is in Winter Haven,

Lakeland, Bradentown,

Healthsome Tallahassee,
Gainesville or DeLand,
Sunny, Gay Daytona
With its surf and sand.

When we reach Orlando
Some will bid us 'stay.'
Many say Miami,
Down on Biscayne Bay.

Eustis or Mt. Dora;
Others bid us choose;
Yet these honest pixies
Mean not to confuse.

Listen to the secret
That I overheard,
In the lulling warble
Of a mocking bird.

As the notes came floating
Clearly, on the wind,
'All may know the secret,
'All who seek may find.'

'Whoso drinks the sunshine
'In this Land of Flowers,
'Eats its wholesome citrus fruits,
'Basks within its bowers.

'Whoso comes a seeking
'Falls beneath the spell,
'Anywhere in Florida
'Flows the magic well.'

Short Items of Useful Information FROM "FORD'S" DEARBORN INDEPENDENT

An airplane, flying low over woods and swamps of Florida, is used by a deputy sheriff of that state to locate illicit stills. When moonshine operators are spotted, the sheriff returns to the city prepares to raid the stills. In one day he has found three stills, destroyed 1,000 gallons of mash and arrested three men.

An old apple tree, the oldest on the Pacific Coast, is located in Vancouver, Washington. When but a seedling it was brought to the mouth of the Columbia River by employees of the old Hudson's Bay Company, 100 years ago next March. This patriarchal tree is still bearing delicious fruit.

A steepjack in Chicago was marooned atop a 150-foot chimney in a cold wind for three hours recently. While putting the finishing touches on the chimney the hoisting rope broke and left him without any means to descend. Life guards finally shot him a hoisting rope which he grasped. He was almost frozen when he descended.

A community corncrib, large enough to hold all the corn that can be offered, will be erected in Neligh, Nebraska, if the plans of business men of that city carry. This crib will be made available for the use of any corn grower who desires to use it, and the grower will be paid, in cash the market price of his product on the day of delivery.

Two ships, the Minneapolis and the Marblehead, which helped to make naval history for America during the Spanish-American war, were recently sold for junk in Oakland California, and are now being dismantled at a shipyard there. During that war the Marblehead, in company with another cruiser, entered the harbor of Cienfuegos, Cuba, and cut a cable while under fire of the Spanish guns.

An Arctic adventurer recently sailed into Nome from the frozen north and not knowing that the war was over, tried to enlist in the American army to fight in France. He had been three years getting to Nome from the Coronation Gulf country. He left the gulf in October, 1918, on hearing that the United States had entered the war. The small schooner on which he journeyed was wrecked in the ice and he was forced to walk 27 days before discovering an Eskimo village. He lived on roots and small game during that time.

A Nebraska man has been married by wire to a girl in Paris. The judge who married them went with the groom to the telegraph office, where the court asked the groom the usual questions, receiving affirmative answers. The judge then sent a cablegram to the bride in Paris, in which he asked the question of the marriage ceremony. Seven hours later the answering cable was received, and the court declared the two man and wife and sent the bride a cable to that effect.

The Massachusetts Forestry Association offers as a premium, to plant 5,000 tree seedlings, approximately five acres, free of charge for any town or city in Massachusetts which will legally establish a town forest of 100 acres or more in area during the calendar year 1922. Fitchburg, Massachusetts, holds the unchallenged distinction, so far as the association knows, of having established the first town forest in the United States. Town forests in Europe prove very profitable, the inhabitants of such towns in many cases are handed checks instead of tax bills.

"Piggly Wiggly" Will Have a Home in Ocala

What's in a name? Piggly Wiggly came to town in Orlando, Miami and Tampa to demonstrate there is money in a name.

She is not yet registered in Ocala but the local bankers and business men who organized the Tri-State Piggly Wiggly Company state that with a little co-operation of Ocala families it will be possible to open a store shortly.

Piggly Wiggly was born in Memphis in 1916, the child of much business today.

Today marks a new era in the grocery business with Piggly Wiggly's debut all over the nation. Get your pocketbooks ready, ladies; she is going to save you money every day. We speak of "she" because the work will be for the women—more spending money for your allowance. Does not this mean good business? One is forced to believe Mr. Saunders who originated "Piggly Wiggly," that he had some advice of some smart woman to so understand the means of reaching a great end.

Just to think of two clerks serving from 100 to 4,000 people a day. And how is it done please?

When you go through the drill the way will be simple. Every purchaser becomes her own clerk. They pass through a turnstile and each is loaned a basket. Every article is plainly marked with a price. The shelves are arranged and standard brands of goods are placed together. Why, what has seemed so intricate at first is now so simple and satisfactory. You take what you want, place it in your basket and the clerk sums the total as you pass out, places your purchases in a sack for your convenience and returns your basket to its place for the next shopper, while you leave the cash in his charge.

Saving three cents on a pound of coffee does not seem worth while, but on three pounds you have 9 cents, and then three cents on most things you need each day will certainly figure to your own advantage. The grocery supply is complete.

Tri-State Piggly Wiggly Company will put in a store in Ocala as soon as capital is raised by local co-operation to about one-half of the amount needed to operate a store. The growth of this cash in of unique self-service stores has been exceedingly rapid, they having spread over the entire country in the last few years.

WATERSON'S PULITZER PRIZE WINNING EDITORIAL

Since the death of Henry Waterson, many papers have been reproducing his famous editorial, written on April 7, 1917. It was printed in the Louisville Courier-Journal and was accorded the Pulitzer prize as being the best editorial of the year.

The title of the editorial was "Vae Victus" (Woe to the Vanquished) and the gifted editor, whose pen has been stilled forever, wrote as follows:

"There are times when feeling must be sent to the rear; when duty must toe the line; when the aversion brave men have for fighting must yield to the adjuration, 'Give me liberty, or give me death!' That time is now upon us.

"Unless Patrick Henry was wrong—unless Washington and the men of the Revolution were wrong, that time is upon us. It is a lie to pretend that the world is better than it was; that men the truer, wiser; that war is escapable, that peace may be had for the planning and the asking. The situation which without any act of ours rises before us is as evident as that which rose before the Colonists in America when a mad English claiming to rule without accountability, asserted the right divine of Kings and sent an army to enforce it. A mad German Emperor, claiming partnership with God, again elevates the standard of right divine, and bids the world to worship or die.

"From the beginning, the issue was not less ours than of the countries first engaged. Each may have had ends of its own to serve. Nor were these ends precisely alike. At least France—to whom we owe all that we have of sovereignty and freedom, and Belgium, the little David of Nations—fought to resist invasion; wanted to avert slavery; wanted to avert slavery. Yet, whatever the animating purpose—whatever the selfish interests of England or Russia and Italy—the Kaiser scheme of world conquest justified it.

"First of all on bended knee we should pray God to forgive us. Then erect as men, Christian men, soldierly men, to the flag and the fray—wherever they lead us—over the ocean—through Flanders—across the low countries to Kohn, Bonn and Koblenz—tumbling the fortress of Entenbret-tin into the Rhine as we pass and damming the mouth of the Moselle with the debris of the ruin we make it—then, on to Berlin, the Black Horse Cavalry sweeping the Wilhelmstrasse like lava down the mountainside, the Junker and the sabre rattler flying before us, the tunes being 'Dixie' and 'Yankee Doodle,' the cry being 'Hail, the French Republic—Hail, the Republic of Russia—welcome the Commonwealth of the Vaterland—no peace with the Kaiser—no parley with Autocracy, Absolutism and the divine right of Kings—to hell with the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns!'

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN FOR SENATOR

The announcement that Mr. Bryan will be a candidate for the United States Senate against Senator Park Trammell, no doubt will give the latter gentleman some concern though no one seriously believes that he can defeat Mr. Trammell.

It would be political blindness, however, to say that he will not be an imposing figure in the campaign. Mr. Bryan is a mighty campaigner and will call to himself a strong following. If elected too, he would put Florida on the map in the matter of statesman ship. The senators who have been in the habit of riding rough shod over the southern senators would find a thorny path in trying to walk over Mr. Bryan. The cross of gold and the crown of thorns might be the decorations he would place on some of these men who have been too much in evidence in the senate. Whatever else may be said of Mr. Bryan, he is fearless.

But Senator Trammell will most likely succeed himself. He will have to do some good campaigning, but he can do it. Mr. Bryan will find Senator Trammell as capable of defending his honors as any man he ever campaigned against. Trammell is a natural campaigner. Both gentlemen are for that matter, and Florida has promise of an interesting campaign.—Orlando Reporter Star.

GOOD WORK IN A GOOD CAUSE

Many unique schemes to help the jobless in various communities of late have been brought to the attention of President Harding's conference on Unemployment, but none more novel than Philadelphia's—"Join the Drexel Bible Class and get a job."

The Bible Class meets every Sunday in the parish house of Holy Trinity church. An employment bureau which functions remarkably well, according to figures furnished, is run by John A. Hawkey and Robert Bethel in conjunction with the class. Hawkey is a former pugilist and was bayonet instructor for the marines during the war. In the service he met Major Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, one of the foremost amateur exponents of the fistic art in the United States, who has taken on many a professional prizefighter in his day. But he gives up his Sundays to the service of the church.

A veteran of the war, Major Biddle co-operates with the American Legion in placing applicants for jobs. He has the promise of a long list of Philadelphia firms that they will give any man employment if sent with the Drexel Biddle endorsement.

Proof of the extraordinary success of the scheme is that the Bible class has placed 271 applicants in jobs out of 299, and the good work is still going on.

"I take off my hat to the Drexel Biddle Bible Class," said Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the Emergency Committee of the conference, today. "They are certainly living up to their slogan. If a job isn't worth praying for, it isn't worth having."

BRYAN STILL THE SUBJECT OF COMMENT

However lightly the junior senator may consider the threatened candidacy of Mr. Bryan, the national press evidently is of an opposite opinion. In this connection we quote from the Baltimore Sun:

"Mr. Bryan, if Washington rumors be true, is willing to be senator if he cannot president. There may be a considerable difference between being a senator and being right, but still, even with the mixed society which the senate represents, it is a forum which has its compensations and pleasures. It is rarely a stepping-stone into the executive chair of the nation, but it provides publicity for the ambitious, and to a man of Mr. Bryan's oratorical resources, it would offer daily and delightful opportunities for holding the center of the stage.

If the Commoner puts Senator Trammell out of business, Florida will at least have the distinction of occupying a large place on the political map. And some of the elder statesmen in the senate may find things not quite so comfortable for them as they have been accustomed to find them in the past.—Tampa Citizen.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.
