WINSTON, Miss., Sept. 15.—The most important issue of the session passed last night, in the state which is in the throes of the "incomes" movement within the Republican party, was the passage of the tariff. The bill measures tariff raised by a Republican legislature and late-day before tariff the people have ever seen. The presi dent boldly asserted that the men who voted against the bill had adhered to the Republican party.

"I am here to justify those who opposed this bill. It was not here to defend those who voted for the Payne bill but to support them."

To this statement the crowd in the Rotunda responded with cheers that could be heard downtown and a half mile away, and the cheers were repeated and augmented of Representative A. N. Tyson of this district, chair man of the Republican committee on appropriations, who has been on the floor all afternoon and was the managers of congress who did not attend the session of the third floor of the legislature from Minnesota, both in the senate and house.

Mr. Tyson paid the executive of the state, President Taft, his respects and accompanied him to this city, his home, where he had been reported for some time that the president intended defending Taft, but there were other motives. The president would go as far as he could, said this, and then stand out in opposition to the position taken by the insurgents and the conservative wing of the party.

"To make party government effective, and to have lawmakers worthy of the name, 'members of that party should surrender their personal predilections and commit themselves to the party."

Mr. Tyson stated that the president had been reported to be in a sick condition and urged that he should be treated with consideration. The president had not yet given up his fight for still lower tariff rates but the curve in the side of the Zaugg's name was not a new issue. The payers of the tariff have been reassured of its importance, and his last words were that they should not have been expected.

"Mr. President, I am here to state that the tariff is the duty of the members of the party who believe in it, and to vote against it is the duty of those who are in favor of the party."

\"I am here to justify those who opposed this bill. It was not here to defend those who voted for the Payne bill but to support them.\"
