George Washington Phillipps, sr., who writes editorials for the Coldwater Chronicle, and dreams and sees continuously fleas, jackasses and the wart on his neck that he uses for a colar button, is now using these implements of warfare to impress the public with his unparalleled patriotism. We suggest that Uncle Mark Hole decorate him with an iron cross, about the size of the flea that so irritates him, and behind which he can so easily hide when the recruiting officer is out looking for patriots of this pattern.

It Is Said Comparisons Are Odious

BRYAN AND BERNSTORFF

[Put Sandles, Editor of the Ottawa Sentinel]

The people of the United States did not want war with Mexico. Much less do they want war with Germany. There is a War Crowd in Germany and one in Washington. If war must come the people will unitedly support the President. The War Crowd does not like W. J. Bryan. Bryan does not want the American boys to be sent to the battle fields of Eupore to dies as toll for old world quarrels. Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and Bryan are good friends. Neither want war. These two distinguished citizens met in New York recently. Since then there have been signs that the Kaiser and the President might settle their troubles without bloodshed. Somehow, mothers are glad to have the Apostle of "The Prince of Peace" abroad in the land.

THEN LISTEN TO THIS

[George Washington Phillipps, sr., the flea and wart editor of the Coldwater Chronicle.]

President Wilson stands today as the greatest peace loving citizen of the world. His great love for his fellowmen stands out as a beacon to the entire world. Every move has been for peace, not only at home but abroad. And he deserves the support of every true peace-loving citizen of the United States. He has weighed in the balance and found not wanting. Contrast his efforts for peace with the "busy bodies," including the stray jackass from Nebraska, who are doing their dirtiest to impede his work, and if you are one of them, pull up the blinds and look into a mirror and see what a small, insignificant reflection stares at you from the mirror.

Patriots Meet To-Day

Under the above title the New York Herald announces the meeting at Washington of the advocates of a "big army," a "big navy," "universal military training, and "universal military service." Thus do the jingoes, newspapers, and traffickers in war material and the professional soldiers use the "livery of heaven" to conceal their devilish purposes. If the United States was turned over to his satanic majesty with full liberty to work his will he could not find a more sympathetic group of colaborers than the sham patriots who, pretending a superior loyalty to their country, seek to exchange the moral prestige of this great republic for the tinsel glory of a red-handed militarism. It is true that "patriots meet today"—not the Herald's crowd—but the patriots who daily meet in the field and factory—the ones who produce the nations' wealth and fight the nation's battles.—Bryan's Commoner.

The Church and the War

The attitude of the Christian church toward the European war is interestingly illustrated in the statement of Rt. Rev. Herbert Edward Ryle, dean of Westminster, when, in his Christmas sermon, he attacked President Wilson for daring to suggest a basis of peace to the warring nations.

In declaring that President Wilson has "either, in a fit of mental aberration, sent the wrong note, or he has entirely misapprehended the European situation," he makes attempt to show that the purposes of the belligerents are as far apart as the poles. This may be true, if, as he indicates, it is the Allied purpose not to stop until Germany shall be crushed to her knees. For it is equally the purpose of Germany to thwart such crushing as long as she has a man and a gun.

Bishop Ryle's statement, which might almost pass for an official declaration of England's purpose, comparable as it is to Premier Lloyd George's demand for restoration, reparation and security, will at least be accepted as a statement of the attitude of the Church of England toward the European conflict.

The church in Germany stands likewise with the German government. It may pray and hope for peace, but would scarcely any more countenance a peace at variance with the imperial will than would the Church of England seek a peace in smallest discord with the British purpose.

Only in the United States and her associate neutral nations do we find the church urging and praying for the restoration of peace upon the broadest and highest grounds. Their prayer is not that peace shall come when one or the other of the contending parties has gained overmhelming victory or been whipped to its knees, but they shall cease fighting now, end for all time the bloodshed and destruction and compose their differences around the conference table.

Like nation, like church; it is a story as old as humanity. We find the Church of Christ, the Prince of Peace, as widely and irreconcilably divided as are the nations themselves. It is small wonder, therefore, that the church should be rather an impotent factor in the ending of the war.

President Wilson, in his note to the several contending powers, has simply put in businesslike and diplomatic terms voiced the thot and hope of the Christian people of the U. States. In the Church of England it meets with the same rebuff it received from the mouth of the British government. The church in France, in Germany, in Austria views it doubtless each from its government staudpoint, as if the church were part and parcel of the nation.

We draw no indictment, but the simple facts seem to tell a story of churchmanship that puts patriotism ahead of Christianity.—Atlanta (Ga) Constitution.

Huber Votes Against Woman Suffrage

Representative Fred Huber voted against the bill to give the women the right to vote at presidential elections. He voted right. Fred believes in the people and the people of Ohio having voted the proposition down overwhelmingly on two occasions there was nothing else for him to do, "Let the people rule."—Coldwater Chronicle.

Huber and Phillips have as much right to say what the women shall do in this matter as the women have to say what Huber and Phillips shall do about it. Precisely the same. The idea that the women shall ask the men for the right of suffarge is preposterous and as wrong in principle as taxation without representation and an imputation that the Creator did not know what he was talking about when he said the sexes are equal. This opposition to woman suffrage comes largely from the barbarism of the past when woman was the slave and tool of man. Some men still want that relation to exist. We venture the assertion that where one man is conscientiously opposed to the women voting, nine men are afraid to give them the ballot for fear that they will smash some of their (men's) dirty practices should they get a chance at them at the ballot box.

Had the women of our county their undoubted right in this matter, old Mercer would go dry by 1200 majority this year. Celina herself by 300 or 400, and besides the women would not need their smelling salts along to keep from fainting from fear, if they said something out loud about the liquor business, as is the case with some of the men over there—and elsewhere as well—Mendon Herald.

The Laugh Is on the Kaiser

Reports to the government indicate that practically all the German steamships interned in United tSates ports have been damaged by their crews to such an extent as to require months to make repairs. The German authorities evidently figured that when the break came with the United States, Uncle Sam would seize all of the German ships, and put them to the uses of the American people.

But the United States is not as sordid as that, defensible though it might be as an act of war. The United States has no desire to grab the ships, even if war comes. It is above the greed that Germany's fears indicated. It does not want any German ships.

So when the war is over Germany will have a fine repair bill to pay before these damaged ships are fit for service again. And while Germany is repairing them her rivals will be grabbing off the trade that might have fallen to these ships—if the kaiser and his advisors had not been so impetuous. It is to laugh—Toledo News Bee.

THE OHIO LAW MAKERS

The present Ohio Legislature is a busy business bunch. It works. It will cost less by many thousand dollars than its predecessor and accomplish a mountain more. Ridicule and jeers do not greet the law makers today when they return home. They work in harmony, seeking the greatest good for the Commonwealth of Ohio. Folks back home will laud and applaud their labors if they finish as splendidly as they have begun. Vastly different was the story of two years ago when Ohio won fame and shame under the reign of the wreck crew. Then the pie counter was the high spot from the start. Now the program is reversed. The business of the people receives first attention. Office seekers are seldom admitted to the Governor's office. Legitimate business is not alarmed as in 1915. Jokes and monstrosities have not been put in office. The Old Ship of State seems to have anchored in a harbor away from the storm.—Ottawa Sentinel.

THE WOMAN'S BUILDING MOVEMENT AT OHIO STATE

Fifteen hundred women students of The Ohio State University are without a place to eat on the campus where they spend most of their days and part of their evenings. This is the chief reason why they should have a woman's building. In this way only can many of them get wholesome meals at reasonable prices in place of the sandwitches and other cold, unpalatable and unwholesome food now served to them at lunch counters off the campus and without supervision. These women, nearly one-third of the enrollment of the University, are asking the Legislature for an appropriation to make possible better conditions during their four years at the institution.

The women students have other needs almost as urgent, needs that would be met by the proposed building. They ask for a gymnasium in which to take the physical training required of all students. Now they share the already overcrowded Armory Building which for many years has been doing double service and is by no means adequate for the men. Their work is quite as important as that of the men and proper facilities should be accorded them.

The fact that University classes are scheduled from 8 in the morning until 5 in the evening makes it necessary for many of the women to stay on the campus all day, and they must have proper study-rooms, reading-rooms, writing-rooms and restrooms. At present they have but one room about 75 feet by 60, which they can call their own. There exist in the University 33 women's organizations as part of the activities of college life, with little or no accomodations for meeting places. These conveniences, or rather necessities, of the University women will be provided in the building, which indeed, will be the center of the woman life of the campus, and all under the direct supervision provided by the institution.

The State of Ohio has been generous in its provisions for the higher education of its young men and women who are attracted to the University every year in increasing numbers, and it is now asked to give the women the same sort of a building given to the men a few years ago, a building that has proved its value many times over. The women's building will afford splendid opportunity for the social and educative development of the young women of The Ohio State University.

In order to make this movement state-wide in its scope the women of The Ohio State University are asking that the matter be brought to the attention of members of the Legislature by the people of the several districts.

RETURNING THE COMPLIMENT

A correspondent of the New York Tribune suggests that one member of the German embassy be permitted to remain in the United States, on these conditions: (a)—that he paint himself with red and white stripes; and (b)—that he be illuminated every evening.

EASTER

This Year Comes on April 8—Interesting Superstitions Associated With the Day.

Easter Sunday falls in this year of grace on April 8th, being neither late nor tardy. Last year it came on April 23rd, and next year it will fall on March 31st.

In 1913 Easter Sunday came upon the earliest date for it in this century, March 23d. Last year's Easter Sunday on April 23d was as late as it will be before the year 2,000 when it again falls on that time.

Easter is what is called a movable festival. It is always held on the next Sunday after the vernal full moon, with the exception that if the vernal full moon should fall on a Sunday, then, to avoid all conformity with the Jewish practice, Easter is not kept till the following Sabbath. The vernal full moon is that which either takes place on March 21st or on the next date after March 21st. If the vernal full moon falls on March 21st, and that day happens to be Sunday, then Easter cannot be held till April 25th, which is the latest date on which Easter can fall, the earliest being March 22.

This is certainly a very mechanical contrivance, and one which most people find it difficult to understand or remember. Owing to obvious connection between Easter and the Jewish Passover, the French call the former Pasques (from the Hebrew Pesech, which means a passing over,) and obviously some such title as this would be more appropriate than ours, which comes from the Saxon goddess Easter, believed to be the same ast he Syrian Astarte and the Greek and Roman Venus, who was specially worshipped in the spring season as the mother and giver of life.

From the earliest ages various customs and superstitions have associated themselves with Easter. As at Christmas, it used to be believed that all water was turned into wine, and that all cattle kept in their stalls in adoration of the infant Savior, so it was held that at Easter the sun danced in honor of Christ's resurrection.

BUM JOB

Says St. Marys Paper of Construction of New Waste Weir on This Side of Pond.

[St. Marys Argus]

Declaring that more fish are escaping by the way of the new waste wier on the west bank than ever escaped through any other place of discharge and that the waste wier "could not be screened for $10,000," steps are being urged looking toward the abandonment of the waste wier and the retention of the long overflow previously and at present in use on the west bank.

It is claimed also that water is gradually undermining the concrete foundation of the new waste wier which was last year finished at a cost of $14,000.

On account of the great depth of the discharge gates at the waste wier (fourteen feet) the force of outflowing water is very strong—so much so that authorities declare screen to prevent the escape of fish would prove death traps, grinding the fish to pieces in the screne mesh where they would be held prisoners by the surge of the water.

The waste wier remains unscreened, resulting in what is believed to be an important per cent. of fish from the lake escaping into Beaver. The old overflow was recently screened, after Warden Frank Millinski discovered the screens were missing. Inquiring in the neighborhood, all but two of the screens were found in a barn belonging to Luther Bidle, stored there, he says, on instruction from the fish and game division. Two other screens have since been located in another locality and placed in position at the west bank overflow.

BOYS MAY JOIN NEW CORN CLUB

Just Organized By College of Agriculture.

INSTRUCTION WILL BE GIVEN

Specialists Will Prepare Lessons and Attend Meetings of Club Members. Membership Limited to Boys Between 10 and 18 Years of Age—Public Schools Will Co-operate.

Boys' Corn clubs are to be organized this year for the first time by the Ohio State University College of Agriculture. Club work as now offered by the institution includes corn growing, potato growing, pig raising, poultry raising, keeping of dairy cow records, gardening and canning, stock judging and home making.

Who May Join.

The new corn club work will be open for membership to every boy in the state between the ages of 10 and 18. Boys of these ages have long ago demonstrated their ability to grow large yields successfully, and the organization for this work is felt to be no experiment. It is the aim to offer to the members of the clubs the benefit of the best knowledge that the Ohio State University College of Agriculture has on corn culture. Instruction pamphlets written especially for the boys have been prepared under the direction of specialists. These will be issued regularly to all members. Personal visits by representatives of the Agricultural College Extension Service will be made to club meetings. In addition, the club work will be under the personal supervision of county and district superintendents of schools, as well as local club leaders.

Not a Mere Contest.

Thus, the object of the club will not be merely a contest between boys to raise more corn, but to arouse their interest in a better corn crop. With the help of the College of Agriculture and the school officers, an attempt will be made to promote a hearty co-operation between the lads in solving community problems. Picnics and other social gatherings will be arranged for the boys from time to time where possible. Where other boys' and girls' clubs of the university are formed in the same community, more general social affairs will be planned.

Included in the list of rules are the following provisions:

Each member is to grow at least 1 acre of corn.

Each member is to do all the work connected with the preparation of the ground for planting, as well as with the planting and cultivation of the corn, except that which may be deemed beyond his strength.

Each member must keep an accurate record of all labor, cost of seed, fertilizer and other expenses incurred in growing and harvesting the acre of corn.

Current prices, as stated in the rules, will be charged for seed, rent, labor and other items of cost.

May Exhibit Samples.

Each member will have an opportunity to exhibit samples of corn at a local or county show held at the close of the season.

Each member must write a story on "How I Grew My Acre of Corn."

In awarding the prizes, the following basis of awards will be used: Yield, 30 points; profit, 30; exhibit, 20; records and story, 20.

A representative of the Ohio State University will be in charge of the county exhibit. He will supervise the judging of the corn and the awarding of the prizes.

In order to take advantage of the greatest amount of the instruction, club members are invited to enroll at once. Information on seed corn testing, the preparation of the soil and many other problems connected with the earlier work of the season will be taken up at once. No charge will be attached to enrollment, pamphlets, visits of specialists, or to answers of questions in connection with special correspondence.

For a detailed copy of the rules and enrollment blank, write to W. H. Palmer, State Leader of Boys' and Girls' Clubs, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

SPREAD MANURE ON THE CORNFIELDS THIS SPRING

To prevent loss of plant food by fermentation and leaching in barnyards and stables, manure should be spread on the corn ground during the late winter and early spring months. Greater returns are obtained from manure spread evenly over a large area than from the same amount scattered heavily over a smaller tract.

As an average of seventeen years' test at the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster, eight tons of manure per acre applied to corn in a three-year rotation of corn, wheat and clover has produced 25 bushels more corn than land receiving no treatment. Four tons of manure to the acre on both corn and wheat in a five-year rotation of corn, oats, wheat, clover and timothy has produced an increase of 14.3 bushels of corn, as an average of 20 years. Eight tons of manure on the same crops in the same rotation has increased the corn yield only 23.8 bushels during this period. In other words, doubling the amount of manure has increased the corn yield only 66 per cent. In order to apply the manure evenly and over a larger area a manure spreader is recommended by the Experiment Station.

WORLD RECORD

Held by Ex-Probate Judge Dugan in Insurance Field As a Hustler for Business.

Detroit, Mich, Feb. 16, 1917.

Mr. P. F. Dugan, Celina, Ohio:

Dear Mr. Dugan—According to our records, you completed your first century run on August 30th, 1915. Therefore, I take pride in enclosing herewith the company's certificate of merit and apreciation.

You are the first NYLIC man in the world, so far as I know, to complete this century run. In a few weeks you will have completed your second century run, at which time I will take pleasure in forwarding you a second certificate.

No other man in the business, so far as known, has written business for so many weeks in succession as you have. You hold the worlds' record in this respect and I congratulate you most heartily on your remarkable work.

Very truly,
WM. O. BALDWIN,
Inspector of Agencies.

WHAT "S. O. S." MEANS

In talking with the wireless operator many ship passengers ask the meaning of the three letters used in the distress signal, "S. O. S". There seems to be a general opinion that the letters are words with definite meaning. Persons of an imaginative trend will tell you that the letters stand for "Save our Ship," "Send out Succor," "Sink or Swim," or some such meaning. The letters signify nothing, but that a ship is in distress and in need of assistance. The call is used by all nations as a universal code, so that any wireless operator regardless of the language he speaks can immediately intercept the call of distress.

Inasmuch as the call is in use by all countries, it can be seen that the signal can have no meaning in any language. The character of the code makes it a call that can be picked out easily from other signals being composed of three dots, three dashes, three dots.—Ocean Wireless News.

EARLY

Hatching Said to Be the Secret of Early Hen Fruit, So Get Busy at Once.

Early hatching is the secret of winter egg prduction, say specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The pullet that is hatched early matures early and is ready to lay eggs in the fall when the supply is scarcest and prices highest. Chickens that are expected to be revenue producers for their owners later in the year should be out of their shells by April 30 at the latest. If they are properly cared for thereafter they will begin to lay eggs at the time that eggs are most wanted.

To a great exten the poultrymen of the country have overlooked this simple fact. For one thing, birds hatched later in the spring or summer are not inclined to become broody until late the following season and thus an unprofitable circle is formed. Each year pullets mature too late to produce in the fall and winter, and they sit too late for their offspring to do any better. The poultryman who wishes to get really good returns of his flock must break this circle.

The growing use of incubators has made this comparatively easier. There is no reason why incubators should not be filled in March and early April and the hatching over before May 1. If no incubator is available it may be possible to secure broody hens in the neighborhood. That they will repay the trouble and expense necessary to obtain them, is indicated by results at the government poultry farm in Maryland. There it is not unusual to get a daily average of one egg for every five hens throughout the fall and winter, and in some pens the average has been as high as one egg for three birds. If anything like this percentage could be obtained on farms ,the ordinary poultry farmer would derive real benefit from ly bring for a period of several months.
