LOAN CAMPAIGN PLAN OUTLINED

McAdoo Declares It Will Take Billions to Win the War.

MAKES ADDRESS IN NEW YORK

Sum of $6,000,000,000 the Minimum Amount the People Are Asked to Subscribe For the Fourth Liberty Loan and the Secretary Expects the Rich to Do Their Share—Would Protect All Bond Buyers.

New York, Sept. 25.—Six billion dollars is the minimum amount which the people of the United States are asked to subscribe for the fourth liberty loan, according to an announcement by William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, in an address outlining the government's plan for the campaign, which starts Saturday.

The share allotted to New York federal reserve district is $1,800,000,000, or 30 per cent of the greatest loan yet offered. The loan, which will bear 4 1/2 per cent interest, will run for 20 years, maturing Oct. 15, 1935, unless the government should exercise its reserved right to redeem the bonds on or after Oct. 15, 1933.

Assuring that, without this vast sum, "we can not lick the Kaiser," the secretary made a special appeal for the subscriptions of corporations. He stated that wealthy corporations and persons of large means had not responded "commensurately" with their abilities to help.

Mr. McAdoo also condemned the practice of "swindlers and unscrupulous and unparliamentary people who, contrary to the urgent request of the treasury department, had induced holders of liberty bonds to exchange them for stocks or investments of doubtful value."

"Thus the treasury's available resources from the loan," he declared, "are depleted and forced to unworthy channels, oftentimes in wild-cat enterprises, to the injury of the American people and to the detriment of the war. We must create a healthy public opinion, which will repress such practices. We must provide the machinery and the means through which those who may have to sell their bonds may do so and get the highest possible price for them, while at the same time protecting the innocent investor."

WAR SAVINGS STAMP SALES DURING MONTH OF AUGUST

Columbus, Sept. 23.—According to the latest sales bulletin of the United States treasury department, these amounts of war savings stamps were sold in the five leading states during August: Ohio, $11,379,866.52, per capita $2.16; New York city and state combined $8,680,901, per capita $1.20; Pennsylvania (east and west districts combined) $6,257,993, per capita 70 cents; Missouri $5,312,950, per capita $1.40. Ohio leads all states not only in aggregate sales for the month but in per capita sales as well, and at this time is leading all states in the amount of money deposited in the treasury since the beginning of the war savings stamp campaign.

WOULD KEEP INFLUENZA OUT OF THIS STATE. Ohio Health Board Wants Aid of All Local Officers.

Columbus, Sept. 23.—The state health department has called on all health officials in the state to cooperate with it in collecting information and in restricting spread of influenza, which has made its appearance in the east and threatens to become epidemic over the country unless thorough preventive efforts are made at once.

A federal inquiry for information as to possible outbreaks of the disease came in a telegram from Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the United States public health service, who also called attention to the serious interference with war production which would be caused by epidemics in industrial centers.

State health officials notified all local officers of the federal request and asked assistance of them and physicians in their communities. These measures to be employed in controlling influenza were recommended:

"As influenza is spread directly from person to person and is most contagious in early stages, a patient should stay away from public gatherings and off public conveyances, and should avoid contact with well persons. For his own good, as well as for the protection of others, he would do well to remain in bed during the feverish period. A well person can guard against the disease by avoiding crowds and persons having catarrhal symptoms."
