HYSTERICAL IN COURT

Miss Mercy Screamed and Shrieked Her Objections And Finally Dropped Over a Desk.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Chicago, March 23.—Driven to desperation by the merciless cross-examination of the mercenary Francis W. Walker and hysterical over the reflections in his questions, upon her character, Miss Esther Mercy, pretty co-ed complainant in the $100,000 slander suit against Dean Marion Talbot of Chicago University, created a scene in Judge Pomeroy's courtroom such as is seldom witnessed by a jury.

Rising from her chair on the witness stand, with clenched fists held aloft, the girl screamed at the court: "This whole terrible accusation has been seared on my brain. I have not forgotten! I shall never forget, but I can't remember it all now."

As a question after question was put with biting sarcasm by the lawyer, the girl's emotion let itself loose in a torrent of bitter words which for the moment judge and lawyers were unable to check.

"It's a lie. It's all lies. She knew I had no men friends except my fiancé," she shouted the girl rising again. "Dean Talbot knew she lied when she called me a woman of the street. She knew she lied when she said I had accepted money from men. I had told her all of my relations with my fiancé."

Attorney Everett Jennings, for Miss Mercy, objected to the cross-examination.

"This merciless and wrongful examination is being conducted for the sole purpose of confusing the real question. The truth is that the great University of Chicago expelled this poor girl because it could not afford to start an investigation of the action of a woman connected with it in so high a capacity," said the lawyer.

Miss Mercy then told of her final interview with Dean Talbot at the university. She declared that when she was called a woman of the streets, "and something worse," she ran screaming through the corridors of the college building and the dean then tried to suppress the whole matter by seeking to comfort her and telling her that "a university has no place for her."

While her attorneys made another appeal to Judge Pomeroy to protect her from the "bullying" of Attorney Walker, Miss Mercy shrieked that she could stand it no longer, and stumbling from her chair she dropped half conscious over a desk in front of the jury. Judge Pomeroy hurriedly recessed court.

GEN. HARRY BINGHAM DEAD.
Philadelphia, Pa., March 23.—Congress Henry Bingham, father of the house, died here early today.

General Bingham was a well known and picturesque figure in Washington. He was 71 years old, and had been in every congress since the forty-sixth in 1879. General Bingham served through the civil war in a Pennsylvania volunteer regiment. He was wounded at Gettysburg and Spotsylvania. He entered the army as a lieutenant, and at the close of the war had been brevetted for distinguished gallantry through the grades of major, lieutenant general, colonel, and brigadier general.

The French minister of commerce has been petitioned to wage war on tight dresses.

Given Much Trouble by Counterfeiters — Notes Now Refused and Only Gold and Silver Accepted.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Shanghai, March 23.—A scandal is fanned over the developments in connection with the emergency issue of paper money by the Republican leaders from the inception of the rebellion to the emperor's abdication. Efforts today to learn how much of this money is in circulation failed. A large quantity, however, had been issued and exchanged with the people of the south for the money of the empire. Today hardly anyone will accept the republican notes. Gold and British and American silver are the general medium of exchange.

When the Sun Yat Sen administration at Nankin was pressed for funds it set up a printing press and ran off whatever notes were needed. They were used to pay the troops and were valid exchange wherever the authority of the provisional republic was recognized. But the plates were crude and the paper on which the notes were printed of the ordinary variety. Enterprising "camp followers" took some of the notes, came here and pre-empted a local printing establishment. Then they worked overtime supplying themselves and their friends with cash which was used to buy everything conceivable from livestock to land.

That the counterfeiters were in existence did not dawn on the government officials until they discovered some bills as well executed and printed as the government product. If much of the money is reproduced, millions of Chinese will consider themselves swindled by the new government. The outcome of such a situation might easily be serious for the government itself.

Obituary.
Ethel May Hoy the beautiful eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoy was tenderly laid to rest in the Marion cemetery March 1, 1912. Little Ethel was sun shine in her home and a most bright and dutiful child seeming beyond her years in intelligence, her sunny disposition made her the very center of affectionate regard for neighbors and friends.

There was an angle band in heaven That was not quite complete So God took our darling Ethel To fill the vacant seat.

Call not back the dear departed Anchored safe where storms are fore On the border land we left her Soon to meet and part no more.

Dearest Ethel we have laid thee in the peaceful grave's embrace but thy memory will be cherished Oh we see thy heavenly face.

Father, mother, sister, brother and grandmother you mourn with aching hearts at home for the dear one which shall never return from above. As you read this you have my sympathy and love.

SUFFRAGETTES ACT IN CHINA

Just Like They Were English, You Know — Broke the Windows, Pulled Hair, Scratched Faces and Had all the Symptoms.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Nankin, March 23.—Chinese suffragettes today attacked the assembly rooms, routed the statesmen from their desks and broke all the windows in the building. The women are enraged because of the restrictions which were placed upon them by the resolutions granting them the right of franchise.

The officials were wholly unprepared for the attack. Women crowded into the corridors of the building but attracted no special attention. Before the assemblymen were aware of their presence they got past the doorkeepers and were vigorously denouncing the representatives for discriminating against the vast majority of Chinese women by requiring an educational test for women voters.

When the suffragettes were ordered from the building, they made a rush at the assemblymen, pulling their hair and scratching their faces. Most of the women in complete control. Chairs were hurled through the windows, desks were upset and the papers of the representatives were torn up and thrown about the room. After completing the work of destruction, the women marched from the building loudly demanding that they be given their rights. The outbreak is believed to have been incited by American and European suffragettes. When the women reached the street they were attacked by a squad of police and a general fight ensued. The women were finally put to flight after several had been arrested.

It is hard to be laughed out of one's surname. That is what occurred to an inoffensive gentleman, Charles Sainsbury Pickwick, Esq., who, after the publication of Dickens' famous novel felt constrained to advertise in the Times informing the world that one leg to its having been brought into ridicule and made a byword by the novelist he intended to abandon his name forever. This was the more hard in his case because he proudly traced his name to a noble English nobleman from "Piqueville" in London Chronicle.
