WHAT ROOSEVELT IS SAYING.

We have been reading some of Col. Roosevelt's speeches and they seem to be very strong presentations of the injustices and wrongs of our industrial system.

And friends, our fight now has more than one side. It is fundamentally a fight for human rights; it is a fight against injustice and wrong, whatever may be the shape that injustice and wrong take.

So far from this being a fight against business it is a fight for decent business. We intend to help every honest business man [Applause], but the man, the business man, who succeeds through crookedness, is quite right in opposing us [Laughter and applause].

Here in Pittsburg, as in my own city, and elsewhere, I regret to say that the majority of the big wealthy men are against us and the men immediately below them are afraid to come out for us.

There never was a clearer line-up than this between the plain people on one side and the powers that prey on both the political and business world on the other side.

And friends, right along this line it is fitting and proper that in a community, the greatest manufacturing community in the world, I should say something about the tariff. I am for a protective tariff. And when I say protective, I mean protection that protects the working man as much as the manufacturer, and of course the farmer, too.

Every man who works hard and honestly for a living is entitled to at least a living wage [applause], and the true meaning of protective tariff is living wage for the man who toils. [Great applause.]

More than that, gentlemen, I wish to say those wages paid in cash and not in store credits. [Great and prolonged applause.] I hold in my hand a pay envelope from one of your mills, and this is what is written on it—"a two weeks' pay." Credit by wages $25.20, debtor to store account, cash, rent, etc., $23.23; cash for two weeks, $1.97.

That kind of wrong I not merely denounce; I wish to see a remedy applied. I wish to see that kind of process stopped. If it does not stop of its own accord then I wish to see it stopped by law.

WHY A CHANGE IS IMPERATIVE.

Senator Broussard of Louisiana says the principle of the free sugar bill reverses the policy of every civilized nation and would place American producers at the mercy of foreigners. He didn't mention the fact that the present system places 30,000,000 of people at the mercy of a dozen trust magnates and permits them to rob us of at least $50,000,000 annually.

That kind of wrong I not merely denounce; I wish to see a remedy applied. I wish to see that kind of process stopped. If it does not stop of its own accord then I wish to see it stopped by law.

Gov. Deneen of Illinois believed that a legislature should earn its salary. A Philadelphian has bet two to one that both Mr. Taft and the Athletics win this year. This man evidently has been watching baseball so closely that he has neglected to notice the trend of politics.

Gov. Deneen of Illinois believed that a legislature should earn its salary.

SPRING DREAMS.

ROOSEVELT'S CAMPAIGN.

We can't lay any claim to being a Roosevelt boomer but that man is getting down on some of the most glaring wrongs and outrages which the strong are putting over the weak in our country and even the bitterest opposition paper in the land, the New York World, is compelled to admit it.

Roosevelt's nomination for President would be a great calamity, but his campaign for the nomination is a great public benefit. He is shaking up the dry bones of fossilized respectability. He is driving the Republican party out of its smug self-complacency.

What is true at Rochester will be true at Chicago. The national platform will be a better platform than it would have been if Mr. Roosevelt had kept out of the contest. A better platform at Chicago will force a better platform at Baltimore.

A NATIONAL NEED.

That croesus, H. W. Page, who called Congress a horde of crooks hit the bull's-eye all too frequently. Where would one find such unprincipled demagogues as in Congress? Even Senator Pomeroy and Burton, who ought to be straight, voted to keep $107,000-Stephenson in the Senate.

Republican leaders see in these defeats of President Taft, in the state primaries, that he is remarkably unpopular and they are beginning to consider some other candidate. But the President, himself, and his office-holders will probably force his nomination.

A Taft manager discussing the Illinois Roosevelt victory remarked: "We could have beaten Roosevelt had he started his campaign 30 days earlier. But starting it when he did he was able to take advantage of the Lorimer case and play it up for all it was worth.

Republicans of Michigan are enthusiastic not to say exuberant or belligerent today at their state convention. Indeed so much so that Gov. Osborne has called out the troops.

If Taft can't carry the Republican states in the primaries—but, well, Democrats think Mr. Taft is a pretty good man for the Republicans to nominate.

Col. Roosevelt is discussing the real evils and wrongs and outrages of our times. A careful reading of his speeches compels this acknowledgment.

The only kind of resignation that Jim Wilson knows anything about is that which enables him to withstand criticism.

If English women are so active in smashing windows, what won't they do at smashing political states?

Mr. Taft realizes just how the "nature fegers" used to feel when the Colonel denounced them.

Not being patched up with contractors, the Panama Canal will be completed on time.

That "dark horse" of occasional racing qualities may rush to the front in either convention.

It must be admitted that Teddy gets down to the people and that he has running qualities.

Lorimer's Lincoln league is rapidly dwindling to a bad smell.

If a girl really wants a man's love she returns it.

Ohio's Con-Con is moving on "the law's delays."

Glad to See Wu Again. Washington, April 11.—Official and social Washington rejoiced yesterday over the news that Dr. Wu Ting Fang is coming back to the national capital as the representative of the new Chinese republic.

No other member of the diplomatic corps ever achieved the social prestige of Wu, the irrepresable, the unique and the learned, during his seven years' service as minister for the empire.

Dr. Wu first came here as minister in 1897, remaining until 1902. A "recall" was inflicted upon the popular doctor, but he was returned five years later and stayed until 1909. At the state department today it was said that Dr. Wu's return here as the first minister of the new Chinese republic was prompted both by his friendship with President Yuan Shi Kai and the great affection with which Wu is universally regarded in America.

The petite Mrs. Wu is also a great social favorite. Dr. Wu has been a power in "new China." He was minister of foreign affairs to the Manchu dynasty and, with Dr. Sun Yat Sen and Yuan Shi Kai, molded the new republic. He aided this government greatly during the Boxer outbreak, earning the gratitude of President Roosevelt. He also held the confidence of Secretary Hay, President and assistant, Dr. Wu's new "abroad" are anxiously awaited. He is famous here for his audacious question and unceremonious behavior. He espoused vegetarianism while in Washington. He also learned the mystery of aviation from Wilbur Wright; jumped on the "water wagon" by conversation of Mrs. John B. Devlin Released. New York, April 11.—Arthur Devlin, the Giant's third baseman and utility player, left today for Boston, having been released by Manager McGraw to the Boston Braves. It is said he will hold down the third sack for Johnny Kling's band.

Herrick Off to France. New York, April 11.—Sailing for France to take up his post as ambassador, Agron T. Herrick today was optimistic for the business outlook in the United States. The ambassador said he did not believe the agricultural outlook would be sufficiently long duration to do any great harm.

"I believe the outlook for an increase in business in the United States is splendid," said Herrick. "The iron and steel industry in Ohio is excellent and I look forward to a greater volume of shipping on the great lakes than there was in 1911, which was a very good year."

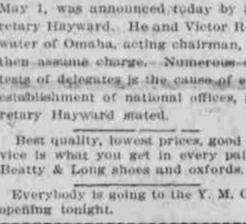

Shuberts Solvent. New York, April 11.—Holding the Shuberts, theatrical agents, to be solvent, and well able to finance the "Bluebird" company, Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Shuberts, set forth that they were worth $2,000,000 in securities and property in New York, and that they do a business throughout the country of $4,000,000 a year. He offered to furnish a bond of $50,000 to guarantee the proper administration of the Bluebird company. This was accepted and the application for a receiver was denied.

To Open Headquarters May 1. Washington, April 11.—Opening of headquarters of the Republican national committee at Chicago, about May 1, was announced today by Secretary Hayward. He and Victor Rosewater of Omaha, acting chairman, will then assume charge. Numerous contents of delegates is the cause of early establishment of national offices, Secretary Hayward stated.
