Appointed At Friday Morning Session Of Institute

Profs. Barbour And Coughlin Continue Addresses

Representative Of School Commissioner Zellar

Gives Short Talk Explaining The School Laws

At the opening of Thursday afternoon's session of the Institute of the Knox County Teachers' association Mrs. Iva Sproule Baker rendered several pleasing selections on the piano and also sang two solos.

"Literature a Recreation for the Tired Teacher" was discussed by Prof. Barbour during the first hour. He said that he would use the word recreation with two meanings and pronounced differently, recreation re-creation. He discussed the necessity of recreation first, saying that there is no class of people who need recreation more than teachers. This may be secured by physical exercise, by indulging in various games, by travel and also by reading certain kinds of literature. Humorous and light literature may be read for this purpose as they take the mind away from the daily work and furnish a delightful rest.

In reading for re-creation, he said, we want the literature that enters in our very soul and enables and inspires, giving us new courage for the duties of every day life.

"Mistakes in teaching" was the subject of Supt. Coughlin's talk. The real test of good teaching, he said, is in the effect of the training upon the child's actions rather than the accumulated knowledge he may have acquired. The schools cannot afford to neglect the moral culture of the child as it should be a part of the school work.

Physical training should not be neglected and the ventilation of the room needs careful attention.

Help the child master some one thing well, something for which he has a special liking, and then work on this as a basis for other work for which he cares less. Sometimes the entire organization of the school is at fault as we lose sight of the fact that the organization is for the child and not the child for the organization. Then we should not make up through instruction what the child should acquire by careful preparation.

Friday Morning

Friday morning's opening exercises were conducted by Mr. Coughlin, who read scripture lesson and offered prayer.

The nominating committee was appointed by the president as follows: Prof. C. H. Winans, Prof. F. B. Levering, Miss Olive Hicks and Miss Fanny Durbin. A committee on resolutions was also appointed.

Mr. Coughlin spoke on "Culture of the Memory." If we study our own mental operations and know how the mind acts we can have a better idea of the training of a child's memory, he said. There is a spontaneous memory by which we recall impressions made upon the mind of the past and are able to reach immediate conclusions and act accordingly.

There is only a voluntary memory, he said, which is the power to recall to the mind at will impressions that have been made in the past. This is the memory with which teachers have largely to deal in the memory culture of the child. This power of recalling at will will depend on various elements of the mind some of which are the condition of feeling, the vividness of the first impression, special associations, the exercise of the mind with identity to truth and the power to analyze.

After the intermission Mr. Snider of Columbus, who came as a representative of State Commissioner Zellar, as the time for adjournment had school laws enacted by the general assembly. Some of the ones he discussed were those relating to the granting of certificates and the new truancy law.

gave a short talk telling of the new then been reached, Prof. Barbour's talk for the morning was postponed until the afternoon.

THE HORSE STILL POPULAR

Horse racing had been hard hit in the last two or three seasons in several states, but the heaviest blows have been aimed at gambling connected with the running tracks. There has been no sign of any diminution of the popularity of the race horse, and the immense vogue of the automobile has apparently had little or no effect upon the liking of the public for contests between fast horses, either in harness or under saddle.

So far this season, the trotters and the pacers have been extremely well patronized, where opportunity has been as great as ever, and the enthusiasm manifested over sharply contested races has been of the old fashioned sort. Everything points to a very successful year on the turf, where the authorities do not interfere with betting too rigorously to suit the lovers of racing.

As for the horse as a pet and an object of admiration and interest, he is by no means displaced by any mechanical devices. His beauty, intelligence and individuality give him charms which no machine can ever match.—Cleveland Leader.

SHORTAGE

Of The Corn Crop In Ohio Reported

Owing To The Dry Weather Of Two Months

Columbus, O., Aug. 26.—The state board of agriculture at their session yesterday considered the corn crop report at considerable length and it was the universal opinion that even with good rains now, the corn crop would be not more than one-fourth of the average crop because of the dry weather of the past two months.

Rains in different parts of the state have been reported during the past few days, but in no case have they been sufficient to check the work of the long drouth. Because of the shortage in wheat, the corn crop was expected to be a bumper one this year, but now it is estimated that the crop will not exceed 104,412,670 bushels of shelled corn. This will mean an enormous loss to the farmers of the state.

The potato crop will only be fair, and the wheat crop will not go over 24,000,000 bushels as against 27,393,444 bushels last year.

Fruit prospects are also just as discouraging. There is more than usual interest in the regular monthly report which will be made next week as this report will give the figures in detail of the damage wrought by the drouth, which has proven one of the most expensive to the farmer that has occurred in recent years.

Secretary Sandles of the state board of agriculture is taking special pains to have the report correct this month, and even outside of the state borders there is interest in the exact condition of the growing crops.

KING'S GIFT TO AN OLD CLOWN

London, Aug. 27.—James Doughty, the famous old clown, received a congratulatory message and a gift of money from the King today on the occasion of his ninety-second birthday. Doughty is believed to be the oldest entertainer still before the public. He was a clown at Covent Garden over sixty years ago. With his troupe of performing dogs he has been a familiar figure at Brighton the last thirty years.

LEMONS CURE MALARIA.

(New York Sun.)

Some 20 years ago I was a victim of the disease, and, of course, took the quinine treatment, till my head began to grow big and roar internally and infernally. A change of climate was recommended, and I went to Saratoga, but my head continued to require more space and the roaring became louder, till I thought I would go mad.

One day my husband chanced to see an article written by a physician on the Pacific Coast, in which he said he had for 15 years been trying to find a remedy for malaria which would not have the injurious effect of quinine. He was successful, and in many places where public works had been abandoned because of malaria among the men they were resumed. His cure was very simple and within the reach of all: Take one lemon, wash thoroughly with a brush and hot water till all germs are gone, cut in very small pieces, using skin, seeds and all; cook in three glasses of water till reduced to one, and take this while fasting. I took it before breakfast, and in less than a week I was myself again. Since then I've had no use for doctors. If I feel a little "off" I resort to the lemon cure and all is well.

YOUNG MOTHERS

The greatest crisis in a woman's life is when first she becomes a mother. All the physical strength of her nature is demanded at such times, and it is necessary that her system be thoroughly prepared for the event, in order that her health be preserved for future years. Mother's Friend is woman's safest reliance; it is a medicine for external use, composed of oils and other ingredients which assist nature in all necessary physical changes of the system. Its regular use before the coming of baby prepares the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, aids in expanding the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens the tissues. Mother's Friend leaves the mother in such healthful condition that her recovery is always rapid and natural. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.
