BEN JENKINS ON THE MEXICAN "WAR"

Ben Jenkins is not worried a bit about El Paso and the Mexican situation; he is not a bit afraid the town will come to any harm at the hands of the Mexican insurgents. The El Paso police chief in Los Angeles and the Express of that city has gravely interviewed him on the question.

The paper says the El Paso chief is of the opinion that the "war" reports have been exaggerated, but, granting the truth of the reports, he is of the opinion that, while a revolution or a readjustment of administrative affairs in Mexico was bound to come sooner or later, the present crisis, if brought on by intent, was ill-timed and ill-advised.

"The death of president Diaz would have precipitated just such a situation as now exists in Mexico," said Mr. Jenkins said at the Alexandria hotel. "It could not have been averted, in my opinion, but that would have been soon enough. There was no necessity for bringing it on now, and I am of the opinion that it can only result in disaster to the cause of which Madero has taken the leadership.

"Much depends, however, upon the army," Bernardo Reyes, who was banished to Paris, was the idol of the army, and should he make his appearance upon the field of action now there might be a different tale to tell when all this disturbance is over."

The disaffection being largely confined to the interior now, Mr. Jenkins is not worried about the situation in El Paso, or across the river in Juarez.

SENTENCE SERMONS IN PULPITS OF EL PASO

There are many things which are proven; there are many things proved which are not real to us, therefore our religion is of little personal value until it passes beyond the realm of knowledge and becomes experience.—Rev. P. J. Rice, First Christian church.

There is enough knowledge in the church of El Paso to save our fair city, and the entire world for that matter, but there is a lack of spiritual power and consecration on the part of Christ's followers.—Rev. C. L. Overstreet, at First Presbyterian church.

The way to true greatness is through the law of self sacrifice and faithful service toward man and God.—Rev. Frank W. Ootto at First Methodist church.

The Marconi system, the wireless telegraphy, has a transmitter and a receiver; the transmitter vibrates into ether at 500,000 vibrations per second and the receiver is in tune with the transmitter; so the soul that would know God must be in tune with the infinite and you will catch the heavenly music.—E. J. Bulgin at Trinity Methodist.

Let us as wise men make use of all the help that God has given us, praying for a realization of our opportunities or ever it be too late.—Henry Easter at Church of St. Clement.

As the natural or physical birth is necessary to bring us into the natural or physical world, so the spiritual birth is necessary to bring us into the spiritual kingdom of God and into spiritual relations with Jesus Christ and to enable us to comprehend spiritual things and to understand the spiritual meaning of God's holy word.—Rev. L. R. Milligan at First Baptist church.

The successful soul winner must be in love.—C. R. Womeldorf at Westminster Presbyterian church.

The book of Genesis which shows the result of right and wrong living should be an inspiration to all of us; it should strengthen our faith and renew our courage.—E. H. Brown, of Y. M. C. A., at Houston Square Baptist church.

FOUR THOUSAND AT TABERNACLE TO HEAR BULGIN

Evangelist Takes "The Man Galilee" as Text For Sermon.

More than 4000 persons crowded into the tabernacle Sunday night to hear Dr. E. J. Bulgin deliver his sermon on "The Man of Galilee," and some were compelled to stand in the rear of the auditorium because all seats were occupied.

Preaching on Christ, the speaker took his text from Isaiah, sixth chapter, ninth verse—"His name shall be called wonderful, the counselor, the mighty God and everlasting Father and the Prince of Peace." He spoke of Christ's life from the cradle to the grave, of His wonderful works.

Christ was wonderful, first because He was born of the Virgin Mary with no visible father, wonderful because at the age of 12 He astounded the greatest doctors and philosophers in the temple, wonderful because He worked His miracles in the presence of His greatest enemies. He was penniless and penniless yet in three years He established a kingdom in the hearts of men that is sweeping the world.

He preached no superstition of the 900 that the Jews had except in regard to the sky "Red at night is the sailor's delight, red in the morning is the sailor's warning," and this is proven by science to be true. His resurrection is the greatest truth of history proof of His divinity.

Dr. Bulgin again devoted the allotted time Saturday night to his question box. He had announced that he would preach on civic affairs but the questions were so such to his liking that he devoted all of the time to answering them one after another. He rapped the temperance opponents in Texas, told the people that they would have to organize to fight the liquor interests, rapped the divorce law and punched a saloon interest letter full of oratorical holes. George L. Rose sang a special song for the service.

Sunday afternoon Dr. Bulgin held a men's meeting in the tabernacle which was attended by a majority of the churchmen of the city. His sermon was "The Man of Galilee," and he told of the life and character of the man of men.

APPROVES HERALD'S COURSE.

Editor El Paso Herald:
I appreciate the reports you give of the Bulgin and Rose meetings, but wish you would give more of our favor. The moral element of El Paso is thankful for the stand you take on gambling and the bull fights.

THE FOOTBALL SCRAP.

Editor El Paso Herald:

It is with great surprise that I have read the article signed by Prof. J. W. Curd and approved by R. M. White, principal of the High school, relative to a challenge issued by the Military institute to the El Paso High school to play off the game of football.

Now, I did not see the game of football, to which I presume Mr. Curd and Mr. White have reference, therefore, I am not capable of saying whether or not the same was clean, but what does surprise me is the fact that Mr. White and Mr. Curd both admit that they are not able to force the El Paso High school to play clean football. Captain Van Surdam tells me that he is thoroughly competent to force the El Paso Military institute to play clean football, and, in fact, to produce clean athletics at all times.

I furthermore very greatly deplore the fact that Mr. Curd and Mr. White should both in a signed letter make the astounding statement that there is bad feeling between the El Paso High school and the Military institute boys. Now I would call their attention to the fact that the El Paso Military institute is as much an El Paso institution as the El Paso High school; it is supported by a majority of the citizens of the city in the same manner that the El Paso High school is supported; it is of as much importance to the city of El Paso as the El Paso Military institute continues its work as it is that the El Paso High school continues its work, and as a citizen and taxpayer and a supporter of both institutions, I wish to protest against the action of Prof. Curd and Prof. White.

If there is any bad feeling existing between these two institutions it is the duty of those in authority to ascertain the source of such bad feeling, and I would suggest that the board of directors of the El Paso Military institute meet with the El Paso school board and if any professor or principal of either institution is found to be at fault in this matter that the same be dismissed summarily from the institution. Yours truly, C. M. Newman.

Approved:
A. Courchesne, President Board of Directors.

HITS AT HUMAN NATURE.

By Frances Garside.

OUR idea of a waste of energy is to take books to a train for a bride to read on her wedding journey.

A man never knows how many paths there were by which he could have avoided a bad place in the road until after he has fallen in.

How little and dried up the cheese appears to the rat after it is caught in the trap!

A woman never knows what it is possible to do with only one arm to work with until she has a baby on the other.

The trouble you prepare for is the one that never comes.

Build a fence around daughter, and if she is impulsive make it several bars higher.

What is the Higher Life? A woman who has seven little roses to wife, and does it well, wants to know if she is leading it.

It happened once upon a time that a man complained because none of the pictures his wife had ever had taken looked like her. Being a wise woman, she did not blame the photographer, but sat again, and the next picture was a perfect likeness, for she carried a crying baby on one arm, held a broom under the other and a dustpan in her hand.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

CONSTITUTION TO CARRY AT CRUCES

The Majority of Dona Ana County Voters Will Accept New Mexico Document.

Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 28.—The majority of Las Cruces citizens seem to think that the constitution is as good as can be made at present and favor its adoption and indications now are that the constitution will carry in the county.

Grandpa Nicholas Galles is happy over the arrival of a girl baby at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Thompson, the little stranger nicking her arrival on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Armijo and son arrived from Santa Fe Saturday to spend several days in Las Cruces. They were accompanied by Mrs. Armijo's sister, Mrs. Mandeloid. Mr. Armijo was chief clerk of the constitutional convention and is also probate clerk of Santa Fe county.

The first regular meeting of the Farmers' institute will take place at the Produce Exchange offices at 1:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Wheat will be discussed.

Watson Ritch, one of the pioneer cattle and business men of Engle, was in the city Saturday as a witness before the land office. Mr. Ritch will be back later this week, accompanied by four other citizens of his neighborhood to take the initiation into the Elks' lodge. A special meeting for this purpose will probably be called for Thursday evening.

NO MONEY FOR SCALP BOUNTIES

Wild Animals Killed in Dona Ana County Bring No Cash Now.

Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 28.—D. M. Walton, who lives 10 miles north of Organ in the Organ mountains, Saturday brought in to the probate clerk's office of this county seven wolf scalps and two wild cat scalps, which he killed on his ranch. Some time ago a sack containing $73 worth of scalps was sent in from the lower end of the county, but on account of the fact that the scalps were sent C. O. D., the clerk refused to receive them.

The money available for bounty on wild animals is very low just at present and those who bring in the scalps must take a receipt and wait for their money until the county can catch up with the back bounty now due and get a surplus in the fund.

Owing to the wild animal bounty law, the coyotes, wolves, cats and other animals inimical to the interests of the stockmen are rapidly becoming scarce.

LYSANDER JOHN

He Lives the Life of the Ideal Man One Day.

LYSANDER JOHN APPLETON had heard of the ideal man ever since his wedding day, and finding himself alone one evening with a lot of his wife's favorite literature on the table, he decided to catch him in the act of reading it. He searched the books and magazines carefully that he might find out the pattern of his wife's ideal husband and make himself like him. And when he arose and went to bed an hour later, it was with a brain sagging like an over-weighted hammock with the information he had obtained. And a noble resolution was added to the weight. He had found her ideal in the books and would be like him!

The next morning the steak was burned, but on the plate beside the meat, which he had been eating, he had placed a rose.

Lysander John sniffed at the rose in manifest joy. "Nature," he said, "is wonderful. Who is there among us mere mortals who can match a creature like that?"

Mrs. Lysander John gasped. For years she had tried to raise his mind to such lofty heights, and had failed.

Then She Swooned.

The coffee was poor, but the water, ah that water! Sparkling and clear, it reminded him of a spring away back in his boyhood home, and he quoted poetry as he drank, ignoring the steak and the coffee.

"I have had a delightful breakfast," he said, putting down his empty glass. "The memory of that rose with the dew on it, and the simple joys of my boyhood home that that water has recalled, will sustain me throughout the day."

Then he raised her hand to his lips and kissed it and bowed himself out of the room. But his wife did not note the manner of his exit, for she had swooned away.

—Some women faint, but it is a later style to swoon.

Santa Barbara, Cal., who are the owners of the Brazito grant south of Las Cruces, passing through here returning from Elephant Butte dam, state that the preliminary work is progressing very rapidly, there being now about 150 men employed.

As soon as the railroad to the dam-site is completed, this force will be increased immediately to 300 and more laborers will be added from time to time as the work progresses.

THEFT FROM RAILROAD CARS AT LAS CRUCES.

Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 28.—Special agent J. R. Galusha, of the Rio Grande division of the Santa Fe, was down from Albuquerque Saturday, called here by petty pilfering from freight and express at this station.

He caught a boy in the act of stealing fruit from boxes at the station, but, owing to the high standing of the boy's parents, his youthfulness and the fact that this was his first offense, he was not dealt with severely, his father paying the damages and the special agent dismissing the case.

Mr. Galusha went from here to El Paso.

Mining Deeds.

Lycurgus Lucy and Ora Lucy, of El Paso, to John R. Thompson, mining deed to the Ureka mining lode, the Legal Tender mining lode and the Victor mining lode, all situated in the Organ mountain mining district, two miles north of San Augustine peak.

That evening when the ideal man came home he carried, instead of the customary steak, a bunch of violets.

"They reminded me of your eyes," he said to his wife, who was standing in the kitchen heating a pan for the steak.

"Where," she gasped, "is the meat?"

"I forgot it," he said. "That rose with the dew on this morning lifted my mind above all that is gross. Come and sit with me in the tender gloaming while I read a poem I composed and dedicated to you."

"Lysander John Appleton," she snapped, "what is the matter with you? Are you going crazy?"

"It is about the Higher Life," he replied, paying no heed to her interruption. "I composed it today instead of doing my work. It raised me to the heights as no work could ever do."

She Thought Him Foolish.
"Come to your supper," she replied, and quit your talk about the gloaming. I am not going to let my children starve because I married a fool."

There was little on the table, but Lysander John ate cheerfully. "I see," he said, "that you have baked potatoes. It is hard work to put a potato in the oven to bake, and it is my desire that in future you refrain from such arduous labor or relax more."

His wife dropped her knife and fork in stunned amazement.

He made one more suggestion: "I see no flowers on the table. Are we rograding? Are we mere animals that we care more for gratifying the gross desires than for satisfying the longings of the soul?"

But Mrs. Lysander John didn't reply. With a deep groan she stiffened and fell to the floor, foaming at the mouth as if she were having an attack of hydrophobia, or demonstrating a tooth wash.

And Lysander John, the Candidate of the Ideal, went up on the roof that no one could see him laugh.

Last week's advertised prices still in force.

RHEUMATISM

PURIFYING THE BLOOD

THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE

No case of Rheumatism was ever cured except by a thorough purification of the blood; just as long as the blood remains charged with fermenting uric acid poison, the painful disease will continue. The pains and aches of Rheumatism are simply superficial effects of the impurities in the circulation, and sometimes may be temporarily relieved by the application of plasters, liniments, hot cloths, etc. But the person who trifles with this dangerous disease by depending on local treatment alone, is certain to pay for the mistake with constant suffering later on. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism in the only way it is possible to cure the disease. It goes down into the blood, and removes the uric acid from the circulation, so that the nerves, bones, muscles and joints are lubricated and fed with nourishing elements instead of being continually irritated and inflamed with the sharp, uratic impurity. When S. S. S. has cleansed and purified the blood, the pains and aches cease, all inflammation disappears, stiffened muscles are made pliant, and every troublesome symptom of Rheumatism is permanently corrected. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.
