TO PROSECUTE BENNETT PRIZE FIGHTERS REJECT SCOTCH BLOOD COURTESY

Failure to Secure Injunction to Be Followed by Prosecutions, It Is Declared.

MYLES SAYS WILL MOVE RESERVATION

Following the refusal of Judge A. M. Walthall, of the 41st district court, Monday morning, to grant an injunction in the "red light" reservation case, which was filed in his court some time ago by H. C. Myles and others against George Huffman and others, it was declared that all owners of houses in that district which were rented for immoral purposes would be criminally prosecuted. That matter, it was declared, would be taken up at once with the county and district attorneys. The penalty prescribed by the statute for the owners of houses who either rent the places themselves or have them rented through agents for immoral purposes, is a fine of $200 and imprisonment in the county jail for 20 days.

ORDINANCE ATTACKED

The ordinance in this instance, which was passed at a regular session of the city council fixing the limits of the reservation, was attacked by Dan M. Jackson and Gunther Leasing, attorneys for the plaintiffs, on the ground that the ordinance was unconstitutional. The ordinance was attacked by Dan M.
